HOUSE DEFEATS BILL TO USE GAS TAX IN SCHOOLS

Only 65 Vote for Measure.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—The Horner administration's legislative program for diversion of $10,000,000 from the gasoline tax to the schools ran on the rocks in the legislature today.

A vote almost entirely along party lines sank the proposal in the lower house when 65 "ayes" were all that could be mustered for the Horner-Sinnett bill. It needed 102 votes for passage with the emergency clause.

Overjoyed at stopping of the house bill, senate Republicans attempted to obtain passage of the Schnackenberg bill diverting state liquor tax revenue and another measure pouring all but $2,500,000 monthly from the sales tax revenue into the common school fund. The coup failed, however, because of the lack of the required 34 votes. The liquor bill obtained 19 and the sales tax bill 29.

A hectic day ended with both houses adjourning until Tuesday. The Democrats announced that they would try to push the gas tax for schools bill to passage in the senate next week and the Republicans declared they would attempt to force the issue on the liquor and sales taxes.

Horner Blasts Opponents.

Pressed for comment Gov. Horner issued a blistering statement on the defeat of his plan in the lower house.

"Partisan politics of the cruelest type is responsible for the defeat of the only sincere effort that has been made during the present special session of the legislature to provide immediate funds for the schools of the state," he said.

"I recognize the right of every member of the legislature to vote his honest convictions. But it is apparent that under the Republican party whip a concerted effort is being made to destroy the integrity of the state's finances and force a return of the state tax levy, under the guise and pretense of giving relief to the schools of the state. I do not believe the rank and file of the Republican citizenship will approve or condone this action."

"In actuality the proposals for giving immediate help to the schools were discarded while plans founded on mere gestures and delusions are being pushed forward as a political subterfuge.

"This bill, backed by the administration, was beaten by a party vote by men who were interested only in defeating the state administration for political reasons and who were willing to create chaos in the state's financial affairs if by so doing they could gain a few votes at the approaching primary elections."

Force a Record Vote.

When the votes were lacking in the lower house no attempt was made by Democratic leaders to postpone consideration and the Republicans charged the administration was trying to put them "on the spot." Had the roll call been continued until a later date the way the members voted would not have been revealed.

Immediately after the house had been put on record an identical bill was introduced in the senate by Richey V. Graham [Dem., Chicago], president pro tem., and it was sent to second reading. Senator Graham said a record vote would be asked next Wednesday.

When the debate in the lower house had reached its hottest the Republicans shouted to the rostrum that there were not sufficient votes.

"We're going to continue this roll call," asserted Speaker Arthur Roe [Dem., Vandalia]. "The bill is going to be voted up or down."

"It's down already," yelled Representative Roland V. Libonati [Rep., Chicago].

"If the schools are going to get legislation," snapped Roe, "they are going to get it now or not at all."

Sinnett Starts Fireworks.

Representative Thomas P. Sinnett [Dem., Rock Island], majority leader of the house, touched off the fireworks when he called his bill for passage. The measure would divert to the state school fund 1-3 of a cent from the motor fuel tax allotment of the state, cities, and counties. Under the present law each division receives 1 cent of the 3 cent tax on each gallon of gasoline.

"Let's look this situation squarely in the face," asserted Sinnett. "No one is going to be seriously hurt by abating the road program. There are so many roads now that I get lost

STRIKE FEARED IN AUTO PLANTS; JOHNSON ACTS

Expect Decision to Be Made Today.

Blow at Ford

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today decreed that only firms which certify compliance with their respective codes may have any part of the government's business.

By executive order he required that in future no bid be accepted by any government agency which does not certify compliance both on the part of the seller and of the manufacturer of the supplies to be purchased.

Under this standard the Ford Motor company, which abides by the automobile code but never has recorded its compliance affirmatively, could get no more government contracts, either directly or through dealers. The step had been under consideration at the White House for a month before approval.

The order provided that if there is any dispute as to eligibility of a bidder it shall be settled finally by Hugh S. Johnson or an agency designated by him.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Faced by an imminent strike in the Detroit automobile industry that may seriously cripple the recovery program, Gen. Hugh Johnson tonight intervened in an attempt to evolve a formula that would be acceptable to employers and employés.

The recovery administrator conferred with William Collins, Detroit representative of the American Federation of Labor, and obtained from the latter a proposal for submission to Vice President William S. Knudsen of General Motors. This proposal was laid before Mr. Knudsen this evening by Gen. Johnson and an answer was expected tomorrow.

Gen. Johnson and the national labor board joined forces to conciliate the dispute after spokesmen for the employés had laid their case before the labor board and had filled the record with charges that the companies had violated section 7A of the recovery act which guarantees the right of collective bargaining to employés without fear of coercion and which assures them they cannot be forced into company unions.

Defi Brings Crisis.

The crisis was precipitated this morning when Mr. Knudsen told the national labor board that his corporation would not recognize an American Federation of Labor union as such and would deal only with agents of its employés when they showed they had authority to speak for their men.

Although there were reports that the national labor board had quit its attempts to solve the critical automobile strike situation, members denied that this was the case. They said the informal conferences held this evening after the labor board had adjourned its executive session was sufficient proof that the board was "on the job."

Among the members of the board who took part in the conferences, held simultaneously in Gen. Johnson's office and elsewhere, were Walter C. Teagle, Clay Williams, Dr. Leo Wolman, and Louis Kirstein.

Reference to the possibility of a great automobile strike was made by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in testifying this morning before the senate committee on education and labor.

Foresees "Greatest Strike."

Mr. Green declared that the alleged violations of the labor provisions of the recovery act by the automobile companies had brought the nation to "the verge of one of the greatest strikes in the history of the nation."

The national labor board's members admitted the situation was crucial after two days of hearings which closed today with the statements of the employing companies which had been subjected to a heavy barrage of criticism yesterday and earlier this morning.

At this morning's session Mr. Knudsen and his associates in the other companies declined to amplify their prepared remarks, although Mr. Collins pleaded with the board to insist that the manufacturers' representatives remain for questioning.

Claims Code Compliance.

The Knudsen statement asserted that General Motors had endeavored to live up to all the provisions of the automobile code and that the organiza-

ELEVATOR BREAKS DOWN IN VATICAN; POPE A PRISONER

VATICAN CITY, March 15.—(AP)—Pope Pius was delayed in a stalled elevator five minutes this evening while 10,000 persons awaited him in St. Peter's for services commemorating the institution of the priesthood and the Eucharist.

The current was suddenly interrupted after his holiness had been closed in the lift with Msgr. Camillo Caccia Dominioni, master of the papal household, for the descent from the Pauline chapel.

The elevator—a comparatively recent innovation and one of which the pope is proud—was still near enough to the floor level to permit them to get out, but the prisoners elected to wait until the cause of the interruption was discovered and the power restored.

Earlier the pontiff joined the clergy of the Catholic world in an hour of prayer giving thanks for the institution 1,900 years ago of the Eucharist and priesthood. The event was the keynote of an anniversary celebration organized among the clergy by Msgr. Angelo Bartolomasi, president of the permanent Italian committee for Eucharistic congresses.

NINE GARY BOYS ADMIT CHARGE OF COUNTERFEITING

Nine Gary boys, ranging in age from 14 to 18 years, pleaded guilty to counterfeiting yesterday when they were arraigned before United States Commissioner Schuyler C. Dwyer in Hammond. They were placed under $1,000 bond each.

The youths were arrested by Deputy Marshal Joseph Morris and Federal Agent Harry Schaetzer, who charged that the gang had been making counterfeit 10, 25 and 50 cent coins. Some of this spurious money has been circulated, the government men said.

The boys held are Edmund Hollow, 18 years old; Michael Havrila, 16; Thomas O'Gara, 14; Willie Bluckis, 15; Joseph Bluckis, 17; John Kedelik, 18; Steve Parlovich, 17; John Parlovich, 15; and Andy Pashnic, 17. Most of them are schoolboys. Hollow was described as the leader.

Jurors Debate Fate of Stone Ex-Officials

The federal court jury which last evening began deliberating on the case of five former officials of H. O. Stone & Co., real estate concern which failed in 1930 with a loss of $14,000,000, was locked up at 12:15 o'clock this morning after its members had reported inability for the present to reach a verdict.

At the jurors' request to Judge Philip L. Sullivan all the voluminous evidence in the case, consisting of huge ledgers and other books and more than 100 documentary exhibits, was taken with them to their quarters in the Great Northern hotel. It was reported that the jurors planned to continue their deliberations a little longer this morning in the hotel.

The jury retired to its discussion at 6 o'clock last evening after Assistant United States Attorney Joseph A. Struett had completed his final argument.

Five Men on Trial.

The defendants are Henry F. Norcott, former president of the Stone company; Harold D. Bennett, former vice president in charge of sales; Charles P. Packer Jr., former treasurer; W. Scott Carroll, former controler, and Leslie A. Needham, former attorney for the company.

The five men are charged with using the mails to defraud. At a previous trial, held before Judge Charles E. Woodward, they were found guilty, and each was sentenced by the court to 20 years in prison.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the conviction and ordered a new trial on the ground that Judge Woodward had erred in disallowing certain defense evidence.

Case Started Jan. 15.

Selection of a jury was begun on Jan. 15 and completed two days later. One hundred and twenty-seven witnesses testified; 1,500 documentary exhibits and ninety-seven ledgers and record books were introduced in evidence.

As in the first trial the prosecution contended through government witnesses that the company at the time of issuance of various debentures was virtually bankrupt. The prosecution also held the company, contrary to the terms of its various trust deeds, had pledged all of its assets to banks or others from whom it borrowed, and that from Jan. 1, 1928, the company declared dividends when the earnings did not justify them.

Attorneys Elwood Godman, David K. Tone, and Alvin G. Hubbard, in closing arguments for the defense, contended the companies' stocks and bonds were sold in good faith. They argued that the depression and general slump in values caused the 14 million dollar failure of the company. None of the officials, they contended, could be held liable for the loss. The officials themselves, the attorneys said, had their savings swept away in the same debacle.

DIRECT LOANS BILL SENT BY RFC TO CONGRESS

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Legislation giving broad powers to the Reconstruction corporation for direct loans to private industry and for financing foreign trade was submitted to congress today by the RFC.

Jesse Jones, chairman of the corporation, submitted suggestions to the senate banking committee with a recommendation from the RFC board that it would assist in the recovery program.

The bill would permit the corporation to lend directly to industrial or commercial concerns for a period up to five years, provided they employed more than ten people and complied with the NRA codes.

The loans could be made directly to continue or increase employment or refinance and reduce indebtedness.

James S. Joyce Is Sued for $125,000 in Accident Suit

BY JOHN HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh will appear as a witness tomorrow before the senate postoffice committee's hearing on the administration bill to restore the air mail service to civilian aviation companies.

But he will not consent to serve on Secretary Dern's committee to investigate the deficiencies of the army air corps.

Brig. Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, wartime head of the air forces in France, who was forced into retirement during the Coolidge administration because of his outspoken criticism of air policy, was a fast talking, emphatic witness at today's session of the senate committee.

Calls Corps Useless in War.

He declared that an air corps that couldn't buck bad weather on the air mail routes could never be of any great service in time of war. He still held to the demand that got him into trouble before. He wanted a department of aeronautics.

That department would take over all military aviation, all the present federal services connected with civil aviation, and eventually carry the mail.

Col. Lindbergh will take Gen. Mitchell's place tomorrow morning, and after him will follow another famous flyer, Clarence Chamberlin. Maj. Eddie Rickenbacker is scheduled to appear on Saturday.

The action of the day, however, was not confined to the committee. The quarrel over the President's cancelation of the air mail contracts and his order to the army to fly the mail broke out once more upon the senate floor.

Robinson Defends Mail Action.

In a vehement speech Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader, sought to defend the administration from the charges that the President's summary action had done injustice to the air mail companies and brought ten army pilots to their deaths.

The senator spoke of senators' sons as air mail lobbyists. He said: "Various hack politicians of the opposing party could not defend the deals. They could not deny or controvert the confessions and other testimony which showed that the former postmaster general had deliberately called together the representatives of the aviation companies and parceled out about 92 per cent of the air mail service of the United States to three great aviation combinations—United Aircraft and Transport corporation, North American Aviation corporation, now controled by General Motors corporation, and the Aviation Corporation of Delaware, now controled by the Cord corporation—insuring to them enormous profits from their monopoly.

Cites Foulois' Assurance.

The Democratic leader declared that the President had had the assurance of Maj. Gen. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, that the army could fly the mail. He pointed to the bad weather prevailing during the period and the crash of two commercial planes with the loss of 12 lives.

That was confirmed in a statement by Gen. Foulois released by the war department. It predicted that more army flyers would be killed in this fiscal year if the rate of other years was maintained.

"The necessity for a red herring to draw across the trail of the collusive and fraudulent contracts prompted such critics as Senator Fess, Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana, Chairman Sanders of the Republican national committee, and former Senator Bingham of Connecticut, and a few others to charge the tragedies to the administration and describe them as 'political murders,'" Senator Robinson declared.

"We have the testimony of Col.

FUGITIVE DROPS OUT OF SIGHT; LEAVES NO TRAIL

Greece Decides to Deport His Wife.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The 74 year old fugitive, who claimed he was too feeble to travel, has vanished like a puff of smoke. His flight was discovered yesterday, a few hours before the time limit the Greek government had set for his departure.

The former Chicago utilities czar, rather than risk forcible deportation to the United States, where he is wanted to stand trial on criminal charges, evidently found a loophole at the eleventh hour despite the fact that no country wanted him.

His Goal Is Mystery.

Where Insull went, or how, is a mystery.

There are all sorts of conjectures. Some insist he left his apartment dressed as a woman and boarded an express train for Paris. Others insist he is still hiding in Greece. Some claim he escaped in a small boat to an island in the Ægean sea.

Inquiry early today showed no trace of him in Bucharest, Rumania; Sofia, Bulgaria; Tirana, Albania; Vienna; Istanbul, Turkey; Trieste, Italy, or other strategic points in the nations near Greece.

Lay Escape to Gang.

The police of Athens are stunned. They charged early today that Insull's sensational escape was plotted and engineered by an international gang of criminals.

Mrs. Insull, his almost constant companion during his last months in Greece, was declared an undesirable alien last night and it was decided to deport her from the country after she had been questioned concerning her husband's flight.

"He is gone," she said, "but I do not know where he is."

It is reported that the Insulls' French maid will be deported with her.

U. S. Lodges Protest.

Lincoln MacVeagh, the American minister, called on Foreign Minister Maximos last night and lodged an official protest in connection with the escape. The details of the protest were not revealed.

In the political avalanche following Insull's disappearance at least one minister's head had fallen.

Minister of Interior John Moundjourides' resignation has been demanded because as the responsible minister he allowed Insull to escape. Early today he denied the responsibility, although Athens has been besieged with rumors for days that he would resign anyhow and be succeeded by Pericles Rhallis, who has been one of Insull's attorneys.

Mrs. Insull, who was taken to the police station yesterday at 3 p. m., was still being interrogated at 1 a. m. today. Police officers said she had fainted twice. The law permits detention of arrested persons for 24 hours.

Police Conduct Roundup.

At the same time a complete roundup of all possible accomplices was being conducted by the police. Rumors were circulated at 1 a. m. that Insull had been captured in Salonika, Greece. They were unconfirmed.

The same sources asserted that a mysterious yacht, anchored off the Greek coast for several days, has disappeared and that it is probable Insull now is on the high seas.

To make it even more disconcerting to authorities, Insull disappeared through a double line of watchers—official and otherwise.

A thorough search of Insull's apartment was made by a swarm of police yesterday afternon when Mrs. Insull voluntarily informed the ministry of interior that her husband had gone.

Foreign Minister Maximos telephoned the news to the American legation at once. Maximos insisted the wily fugitive was still in Athens.

Causes Political Scandal.

The surprising agility with which the escape was accomplished left behind a first class political scandal which, before it is over, is likely to shake the Greek government to its foundations.

High police officials were rushing from one meeting place to another until early today. Some were dashing from the third district police station, where Mrs. Insull was weeping her protestations of ignorance and inquiring about the welfare of her Pomeranian "Ching Chow."

With her at the station were three maids and a cook. A fourth maid was at home tending the dog and Thomas Kouryoumdjoglou, the 14 year old son of the Insulls' intimate friend and adviser, Mrs. Helen Kouryoumdjoglou. The latter was questioned for 5 hours at the same station before authorities decided there were no charges upon which she could be held.

All Ports Watched.

"Every policeman in Greece is searching for Insull tonight," Minister of Interior Moundjourides said after a prolonged conference with the director of the Greek grendarmerie and the chief of the secret police. "Authorities of all ports, railway stations and frontier posts have been instructed to watch for Insull. He will be arrested on sight."

How Insull engineered the escape, which completely disillusions the Greek public, with whom he had been considered an object of pity, is a mystery which probably never will be penetrated. As soon as Mrs. Insull conveyed her information to the ministry of interior every police agency was thrown into immediate action. All possible sources of information were questioned. Although strict orders were given that nothing was to be said, the following can be gleaned reliably:

Insull was in his flat at midnight Wednesday. Some time between then and dawn he departed, although watchers were on duty at exits in the front and rear.

Mrs. Insull told police she saw her husband at midnight when the household had retired. She said when she learned he had gone she communicated with the authorities at once.

Maids Repeat Story.

The same story was repeated by Mrs. Kouryoumdjoglou and by the thoroughly frightened maids. The questioning was visible from a vantage point across the street from the police station. Each woman was in a separate room. Several were on different floors. From two to four men confronted the five women.

The cook assured the police she carried Insull's coffee to his room as usual yesterday morning. She said she did not see him, but since the pot was returned empty she presumed he still was there. She declared she first knew of his flight when the police arrived.

The doorkeeper of the apartment building was isolated by policemen after a search revealed Insull had vanished. Authorities, after nine hours of questioning, decided he had nothing to do with the case and released him, although his wife hid the elevator key early Wednesday so visitors could not ascend to the Insull apartment.

The departure of Mrs. Insull and Mrs. Kouryoumdjoglou, an Albanian, for the police station was dramatic. As policemen swarmed over the building one emerged and stopped a taxi. Soon two figures dressed in long coats with fur collar turned up, darted from the open door and toward the car.

Mrs. Insull Identified.

The first conclusion was that Insull was dodging the guard outside dressed as a woman. Neither bore the slightest physical resemblance to the fugitive. Both were later identified as Mrs. Insull and her Albanian companion.

After twelve hours of investigation Chief of Metropolitan Police Gazero early today issued a significant statement to the press on the heels of prolonged discussion of the case with Moundjourides and Angelo Ebert, chief of the secret police.

Hunt Mysterious Briton.

"I blame Insull's escape on a ring of international crooks too deft for ordinary police aprpehension," Gazero said. "There is not much to be told. We are investigating. Insull probably is outside Greece at this moment. All evidence indicates his escape was arranged by an international gang. I cannot say more."

Other police officials indicate that Insull's disappearance was arranged by a mysterious Englishman, who is being sought throughout Greece by police. His description has been circulated. The object of this search visited Insull's flat on Wednesday, according to police reports. He was accompanied by two women. After this visit, witnesses told police, Insull became cheerful and his face was wreathed in smiles.

Insull apparently used his Greek laissez passer (permit to pass) if he carried any bona fide travel document at all.

IN GREECE 17 MONTHS.

Insull fled to Athens 17 months ago, after his utilities empire collapsed. He has spent most of the time since then fighting return to Chicago.

The business leader and patron of the arts was in Paris when a Cook county, Illinois, grand jury indicted him for larceny and embezzlement Oct. 4, 1932. He immediately fled to Athens. The Greek government held him for a United States writ and then announced an extradition treaty between the two countries was invalid because it had not been ratified.

Subsequently, however, it was ratified and in November he was seized again for extradition. The Athens court of appeals on Dec. 27 refused extradition on grounds that depositions brought to Athens from Chicago did not support the charges against him.

Efforts Renewed.

Efforts to remove Insull were renewed in August, 1933, when Greece was asked to yield him on a true bill charge of violation of federal bankruptcy laws. The United States filed new documents in a second attempt to extradite him Sept. 19, and, after several delays, the Appeals court took up the case in late October.

The court on Oct. 31 found in his favor, extradition was refused and the 74 year old fugitive was once more freed. But on Dec. 5, under pressure from the United States government, the Greek cabinet decided he must leave before Jan. 1, when his residence permit was to expire. His permit, however, was extended to Jan. 31 because of his health. After another medical examination, his stay was extended to Feb. 15 and later he was given a permit to stay until his condition improved.

His expulsion was ordered March 3 but once again his stay was prolonged and another health test was ordered. After this examination one more "ultimatum" was handed down —March 10—that he must leave by midnight March 15.

INSULL'S ASSOCIATES HERE IN THE DARK AS TO HIS WHEREABOUTS

Samuel Insull's own son, Samuel Insull Jr., and his various attorneys and intimate friends were as much in the dark last night as were government authorities over the elder Insull's mysterious flight from Greece.

"I do not know where my father is, or where he went," said young Insull. "I haven't heard from him in weeks, and I know absolutely nothing about his movements."

Floyd E. Thompson, former chief justice of the Illinois Supreme court and one of the Insull company lawyers, said that he and others close to Insull had expected him to return to the United States by boat, as had been indicated in press dispatches earlier in the week.

Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney, said he had no information as to Insull's whereabouts. He pointed out, however, that the fugitive utilities chief has only two possible havens—Egypt and Abyssinia—and said he doubted that even those countries would offer him shelter.

CAPTAIN OF SHIP DECLARES INSULL IS NOT ON BOARD

LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—One theory in the astonishing disappearance of Samuel Insull, former American utilities operator, from Greece apparently was disposed of today when the master of the liner Statendam declared Insull was not on board.

In answer to a query from the Associated Press the master of the vessel, which left Greek waters yesterday, said:

"Not on board."

The reply came via Scheveningen radio.

One of the theories of Insull's flight from Athens was that he had made his way to Piræus and there boarded the Statendam.

DILLINGER JURY HEARS STORY OF SHERIF HOLLEY

Indiana Politics in Turmoil Over Parole Charge.

While Indiana Democrats and Republicans wrangled heatedly yesterday over the political implications of the John Dillinger jail break, the special grand jury at Crown Point proceeded leisurely with its investigation of the outlaw's escape.

Sherif Lillian Holley spent most of the day before the six jurors and was reported to have been questioned at length concerning the jail management and rules. She could offer no information about the actual escape, having been home when Dillinger bluffed his way out of her prison with a wooden pistol.

Cahoon Also Testifies.

The only other witness of the day was Sam Cahoon, 64 years old, the jail handy man and turnkey, who was the first to open a door for Dillinger and who has already been charged with abetting the desperado's escape. Cahoon was said to have declared that he believed the pistol in Dillinger's hand was a real one and that he acted in fear of his life.

Nearly thirty other witnesses remain to be questioned by the jury, including Ernest Blunk, the jail fingerprint expert, who has also been accused of helping Dillinger to freedom. The grand jury appeared in no hurry to complete its inquiry.

Blunk Taken to Capital.

At a late hour last night Blunk was taken from Lake county on a mysterious mission to Indianapolis. Four state policemen accompanied him. It is known that Blunk went to Indianapolis to talk with Attorney General Philip Lutz Jr. Mr. Lutz early today confirmed this. The attorney general will not see Blunk until this forenoon, however. He refused to explain the purpose of Blunk's scheduled interview.

All newspapers in Indiana had yesterday in their possession photostatic copies of the parole issued to Dillinger in May, 1933, by Gov. Paul V. McNutt. A statement bearing the name of Harry C. Fenton, secretary of the Republican state committee, who sent editors the copies, pointed to errors in the parole records and asserted that "amazing facts" would be revealed concerning the parole.

Dirty Politics, Says Official.

"That's dirty politics!" cried Wayne Coy, the governor's secretary and secretary of the board of pardons and paroles, when informed of this move by the Republicans. "I haven't been told that I'm wanted as a witness before the grand jury, but if I'm wanted, I'll give every detail that could be desired concerning the parole. There was nothing wrong about it.

"The discrepancies in the records could easily have occurred through a clerical error, either in the penitentiary or the parole office."

Strict secrecy was maintained concerning the jury's investigation by the three attorneys conducting the inquiry, Special Prosecutor Martin J. Smith, a Republican; State's Attorney Robert G. Estill, and Assistant Attorney General Edward Barce, Democrats.

Police raided an apartment at 640 Wrightwood avenue last night in hopes, they said, of finding a woman known as Evelyn Farchetti, whom they believed to be a sweetheart of Dillinger. She was not there. Two couples, Thomas and Mrs. Alice Dyer and Anthony and Lucille Fontana, were found. After questioning them at the Marquette station police released all but Fontana.

REPORT INCOME TO ROSENBERG FROM GAMBLING

Evidence unearthed yesterday by investigators tended to show that Moe Rosenberg, 24th ward Democratic leader and junk dealer, had derived his income from a variety of sources which he failed to mention when he told the government in an ex parte hearing that he had made huge payments to local politicians. The statements of Rosenberg, now dead, were made in an attempt to evade prosecution for income tax frauds.

Rosenberg, according to these investigators, derived a large income from three west side gambling houses he owned. His boxing shows, which he frequently put on at 3216 Roosevelt road, also were said to be profitable, while even his annual Christmas show for charity was a source of income, it was asserted.

In his testimony he mentioned none of these factors. Instead he attempted to convince government officials that all of his income came from the junk business. This has been scoffed at by federal officials.

F. O. Hale, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone company, said yesterday that all sales or junk by the company to Rosenberg were made on a business basis.

Edward F. Moore, secretary of the Cook county Republican central committee, denied that he had ever received any money from Rosenberg.

EIGHT BARS LOSE PERMITS IN DRIVE ON BAD LIQUOR

Mayor Orders Revocation After Analyses.

The city licenses of nine retail liquor sellers were revoked yesterday by Mayor Kelly and Police Commissioner Allman. Eight of the nine revocations were the result of the mayor's campaign against cheap synthetic liquor which might prove injurious to the health of Chicagoans.

The other license was taken away when the owner was arrested after a shooting and found to have a police record.

Will Continue Drive.

Mayor Kelly declared his intention of carrying the drive against dangerous spirits as far as the law will permit.

"I will revoke licenses just as fast as satisfactory evidence is presented," the mayor said. "The health department is working on the analysis of samples we have taken, and I shall act as rapidly as reports come to me."

Eight For Bad Liquor.

Those whose licenses were revoked on charges of selling synthetic liquor are: State Grill, 358 North State street; William Theodore, 624 Madison street; Julius Goldberg, 1841 Madison street; Sam Goldberg, 600 North Clark street; Emanuel Singer, 445 North Clark street; Joseph Gironda, 206 Randolph street; Molly Lowenthal, 3433 North Cicero avenue, and Samuel Cecala, 642 North Clark street.

Albert J. Sheppard, 1231 South Wabash avenue, lost his liquor and cabaret license after a police investigation of a shooting in which he was said to have been involved.

Tavern Owner Beaten by Bandits in Holdup

Three Negro bandits severely beat up Louis Wiegand in the Stumble inn, a tavern in Ballard road, half a mile west of Potter road, in Morton Grove last night. Then they escaped with $75 and a valuable collection of souvenir guns, including a German machine gun used in the world war. An unidentified customer who entered the place during the holdup was bound and gagged.

LIQUOR COMMISSION HEAD OF IOWA LAUDS SYSTEM OF HIS STATE

Des Moines, Ia., March 15.—[Special.]—Amid a pile of little cartons and packages—part of a flood of liquor samples that has inundated the temporary quarters of Iowa's new liquor commission—Harold M. Cooper today surveyed the nation's state liquor systems and pronounced Iowa's the best.

Mr. Cooper, chairman of the commission, and his two fellow members, Richard Lane, Davenport, and Bernard Manley, Mason City, recently returned from a tour of inspection of liquor control systems in eastern states and Canada.

"From the standpoint of temperance promotion, at least," Mr. Cooper said, "Iowa has the best liquor control act in the country. The Iowa law does not impose any tax on liquor and that will enable us to sell at prices that will help to defeat the bootlegger."

Prohibition of the sale of any liquor except beer in any form other than original packages makes the Iowa law easier to enforce, he declared. In states where liquor is sold by the drink the old saloon enforcement troubles are already appearing.

Mr. Cooper likened Iowa's law to that of Ontario, where, he said, the situation is cleaner than in any other place the commission visited.

MAYOR STUDIES OCCUPATION TAX FOR NEW YORK

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—The La Guardia administration is considering proposals for raising between 10 and 11 million dollars in new taxes and even further administrative economies in preparation for its task of meeting the city's obligations under the next budget.

New taxes apparently consist of increases in the fees charged by the city for various inspectional services and the imposition of fees where the services are now rendered free. An increase in the health department fees alone would yield between one and one and a half million dollars a year, it was said.

START $500,000 DRIVE TO BRING VISITORS TO FAIR

Mayor and Civic Leaders Outline Campaign.

A $500,000 campaign to boost Chicago business next summer by attracting added millions of visitors to the 1934 World's Fair was launched yesterday in Mayor Kelly's office by commercial, civic, and industrial leaders of the city.

Estimated returns to local business run as high as several hundred million dollars on the $500,000 investment. Last year's exposition is credited with putting 400 million dollars in new money in circulation here. Leaders estimate that every million visitors mean 40 million dollars to Chicago business.

In addressing the meeting yesterday Mayor Kelly declared that A Century of Progress established Chicago as "the whitest spot on the recovery map of the United States." He referred to the new campaign as an opportunity to serve not only Chicago but the entire country in bringing about more prosperous times.

Independent of Exposition.

Entirely independent of the exposition, the promotion drive is an outgrowth of the "Keep Chicago Ahead" movement launched last November to help the city retain the advantageous position given it by the 1933 exposition.

Mayor Kelly has been conferring for several weeks with representatives of the business interests of Chicago and the meeting yesterday brought formal announcement of a campaign that is expected to reach every person in the United States. Newspapers, magazines, the mails, radio, and movies will be utilized in extending invitations to visit the Fair.

An executive committee of prominent men will direct the effort under the general chairmanship of Mayor Kelly. The promotion work will be in the hands of a group of thirty, headed by G. R. Schaeffer of Marshall Field & Co. Wilson W. Lampert, vice president of the Continental Illinois National bank, is treasurer of the drive.

$100,000 Already Subscribed.

More than $100,000 of the fund already has been raised, it was announced yesterday. D. F. Kelly, president of the Fair store, sent a subscription of $10,000 by radio when he learned of the plan while on his vacation. Garage men have pledged $25,000 and the gasoline and oil companies have promised $50,000.

"We have a magnificent opportunity to do a job in constructive leadership, not only for ourselves, which is primary, but for the whole country," said Mayor Kelly.

"A Century of Progress brought more than $400,000,000 of new money to Chicago. This money paid taxes and salaries, bought food, clothing, shelter, and amusement. It so quickened our commercial life that Chicago became, and still is, the whitest spot on the recovery map of the United States.

Helps Pay Bond Interest.

"The money did not all stay in Chicago. It helped pay the interest on municipal bonds all over the United States. It radiated to every corner of the country. It helped buy beef in Kansas, steel in Pittsburgh. Chicago, proud of the job it did, now comes to the realization that it has a greater opportunity than ever.

"The Fair this year will be better than in 1933 and Chicago will be more attractive than ever before. There is no more wonderful playland anywhere."

Mayor Kelly said Chicago has become one of the most healthful and safe cities in the world. Good will created last year among millions of visitors, he said, should pay dividends this summer. Gangsters and racketeers have been driven from the city, he added, and visitors last year, to their surprise, found Chicago streets as safe, or safer, than those of their home towns.

USING SLEEPING SICKNESS VACCINE TO PROTECT MICE

New York, March 15.—(AP)—A vaccine which gives from one thousand to one million-fold protection to mice against the sleeping sickness of St. Louis of last summer was announced tonight by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research.

The Rockefeller discoveries go far toward clarifying some of the most baffling things which in the past have hindered physicians in coping with these lethargic encephalitis outbreaks. They arise from the discovery, announced last November by the institute, of the virus which caused the St. Louis outbreak.

The new steps are described tonight in Science, the technical journal used by scientists to give their fellow workers first information. The Rockefeller work was done by Leslie T. Webster and George L. Fite.

SWEDEN SIGNS FOR EXHIBIT AT '34 FAIR; PLANS ART DISPLAY

Sweden yesterday signed a contract to participate in the World's Fair of 1934. Its exhibit will occupy the same building that housed the Swedish exhibit last year. Constans Lundquist, Swedish consul in Chicago, signed the contract on behalf of his government and the Swedish Arts and Crafts association, both of which will be represented in the exhibit.

Tage Palm, member of the 1933 Swedish Exposition commission, is now in Stockholm, the consul said, completing arrangements for the exhibit. While in Stockholm Mr. Palm will arrange for the transportation to Chicago of arts and crafts typical of Swedish culture. The general exhibit will deal with the history of the Scandinavian country, and show the products of modern Sweden.

"Last year the Swedish exhibit was one of the most dignified and beautiful displays at the Exposition," said Charles W. Fitch, chief of state and foreign participation at the Fair. "We are pleased that Sweden believes it worth while to exhibit at this year's Fair."

Arrangements were completed yesterday for another foreign exhibit, that of Ireland, which will take the form of a typical Irish village. Ground breaking ceremonies for the village will be held tomorrow, St. Patrick's day, with Mayor Kelly turning the first shovelful of earth.

TELLS OF SEEING SHELLAC DRUNKS AT WORKHOUSE

Ex-Burglar Earned Money While There.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—[Special.]—The facilities for earning an income and spending it for riotous living in Milwaukee's House of Correction, provided one was in the favor of the prison administration, was described today by a former inmate testifying before the county board. The board is investigating charges of graft and mismanagement leveled at the institution.

The former inmate is John Hutter, who was sent to the House of Correction to serve a term for burglary. He went in penniless, he said, and came out with $75 earned selling cigaret papers to his inmate companions. He added that it was easy to get drunk in the prison, as shellac was plentiful and the prisoners had discovered an easy way to get alcohol out of it.

Says Chef Hugs Matron.

Other witnesses told of seeing the chef, William Luebke, hugging the chief matron, Mrs. Anna Wright.

Hutter averred that, during his incarceration, he had earned a total of $250 with his cigaret paper racket, making a profit of $1 on every 24 packets. The money was kept for him in the form of credits with the bookkeeper in the office of the institution.

The witness told of being a member of the New Year's eve party given by one of the prisoners, Vincent Crupi, several years ago. Chairs and beds were tossed about during the whoopee, he said, and the host became quite drunk.

Alcohol Rises to Top.

Shellac drinking, Hutter said, was quite common. The fluid was used in the chair factory, and the prisoners had found that by pouring water in it a powerful, if ill tasting, grade of alcohol would rise to the top.

Those who liked their narcotics of another sort, the witness testified, had no trouble getting supplies. He named Robert Eberle, former inmate and a witness in the investigation last week, as a dope seller. Eberle was able to ply his illegal trade with little restraint, Hutter asserted.

Gifts Are Smuggled In.

How gifts were smuggled to the inmates by outsiders was described. In the visiting room was a small black armchair, the witness recalled, with a false bottom. The visitor, having placed the gift in the cache, would surrender the chair to his prisoner friend and the latter would have no trouble getting what was left for him. The chair was brought before the investigating board and Hutter demonstrated how the trick was done.

Several women witnesses testified to being cruelly treated by Mrs. Wright. One of these was Mrs. Lee Kline, who asserted she had seen the cook making love to the matron. Mrs. Wright, she declared, yelled at her when she saw her looking on.

DIES OF INJURIES FROM FALL.

Arthur Stanley, 60 years old, died yesterday in the Illinois Central hospital of injuries suffered in a fall while making repairs in a three story apartment building which he owned at 1612 East 53d street.

Many Celebrations to Mark St. Patrick's Day Tomorrow

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Chicagoans of Irish descent tomorrow will celebrate the day of St. Patrick, patron saint of the Emerald Isle. In parties, speeches, and social gatherings of many kinds—in folk dancing and jigs—St. Patrick will be honored.

Shamrocks have been brought here from Ireland by the United Celtic American societies of Chicago, and all who attend the organization's annual ball at White City tomorrow night will wear the historic emblem. More than 15,000 persons are expected to attend the ball. Among other entertainment features they will see 10,000 feet of real movies of all the thirty-two Irish counties.

Irish Queen to Rule.

The Irish queen of A Century of Progress, Miss Mae Murphy, will be presented, as will the Scotch queen, Margaret Baikie. Dancing will be held from 8 p. m. to 8 a. m. Miss Murphy yesterday presented Mayor Kelly with the first of the shamrocks shipped from Ireland.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians and its ladies' auxiliary and their friends will gather in the Morrison hotel to celebrate the feast of the Irish saint. They will hold a reception, card party, and dance. This organization is said to have been the originator of the St. Patrick's festivals in America. The order dates back to the days of the penal laws in Ireland, and was organized in this country in 1836.

An "All-Ireland victory ball" will be held by the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic, at the 131st Regiment armory, Michigan boulevard and 16th street.

Songs and melodies of native Ireland will be sung by the Irish Society of Music and Drama, a chorus of 100 voices. A told tiara, emblematic of old Irish rulers, will be presented to the "Irish Queen of Beauty" to be chosen at the ball.

Officials to Speak.

One of the outstanding events of the day will be the 33d annual banquet of the Irish Fellowship club in the Palmer house. Daniel C. Roper, secretary of commerce, and United States Senators Patrick A. McCarran of Nevada and William H. Dieterich of Illinois will be the speakers. Mayor Kelly will deliver the address of welcome and Gov. Horner is to be a guest. George E. Gorman, president of the club, will be toastmaster.

The Frank Hughes post, No. 316, of the American Legion will gather in the old Seventh Regiment armory, 34th street and Wentworth avenue, where leaders in civic and political life are to be guests. Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes at the dance, which is a part of the program.

A north side queen of Erin will be crowned at St. Patrick ceremonies to be held tomorrow night at the Merry Garden ballroom under the auspices of the Sons and Daughters of Erin.

Irish Exhibit at Museum.

Officials of Field museum yesterday invited celebrants of St. Patrick's day to visit reproductions of four shrines of the patron saint of Ireland, which are on exhibition in the anthropological collections at the museum. The shrines represented in the museum are those of St. Patrick's hand, his tooth, his gospels and his bell. They reproduce ancient Irish art in the working of gold, silver and precious gems. The original shrines of which the museum pieces are facsimiles are in Ireland.

Two celebrations are to be held at the Stevens hotel tomorrow. During the afternoon the Woman's League of De Paul university will give a card party and style show. The Chicago alumni senate of Delta Theta Phi law fraternity will give an Irish supper dance in the Tower ball room of the hotel.

Judge John P. McGoorty of the Superior court, former president of the Irish Fellowship club, will be guest of honor today at a St. Patrick's luncheon, sponsored by the Notre Dame club of Chicago, in the Ivory room, Mandel Brothers.

REPORTS SUSPECT HELD.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 15.—[Special.]—Operatives of the department of justice in Chicago today notified B. J. Husting, U. S. district attorney, that Chinky Glenn was under arrest in Chicago. Glenn is accused of being the chief of a group who stole small autos in Chicago and drove them here and to Racine and Kenosha for sale.

BOY, CENSURED ON HIS SCHOOL WORK, A SUICIDE

Vincennes, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Told he would have to behave better or drop out of his class play, and censured by his mother for the quality of his school work, "Jackie" McCausland, 10 year old son of Frank McCausland, a local contractor, killed himself today.

While his mother believed Jackie was preparing for school this morning, the boy shot himself.

MODERN HOTEL TO BE BUILT ON NEW YORK RUINS

Brown Stone Eyesore Is Soon to Vanish.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—An overplus of lawsuits and not high taxes was revealed today as the big reason for mid-Manhattan's prize eyesore, the half block of brown stone tumbledowns fronting Park avenue just north of East 39th street.

"The ruins," as they are called, have been the subject of intermittent court procedure since back in 1931. There have been suits and countersuits, interventions and settlements galore. The list of litigants reads like a page out of the city directory.

Case Becomes Scandal.

Even "John Doe," "Richard Roe," and "Peter Poe," those mythical substitute figureheads for a defense without a defendant have been lugged in when the supply of defendants seemed to be running short. The case has assumed the proportions of a scandal.

Meanwhile "the ruins," teetering dangerously above one of the highest priced stretches of one of the town's swankiest thoroughfares, have aroused some varied speculation among those curious about monstrosities. Some persons have supposed that the ten old fashioned brown stone dwellings, the original state of the present unsightly wreckage, were torn down like so many other once pretentious structures to relieve their owners of intolerable tax burdens. Wags have guessed the débris to be—what they so strongly suggest—war ruins.

Passersby have wondered—along with the outraged citizenry of the district—how a city of the size and pretentions of New York could tolerate such a misshapen architectural exhibit.

Today, however, it was announced that an agreement had been reached for early settlement of the last of the long series of suits. Spokesmen for both sides said the way had been cleared for replacing the ruins with a modern high class apartment hotel.

Suits, and More Suits.

Some such improvement has been in contemplation by the different owners of the property for three or four years—ever since before the beginning of the big legal fight. The Park Avenue-Thirty-Ninth Street corporation, which bought up the ten dwellings, lumped, which were known as "the ruins," set out to convert the buildings into a "plottage" or sort of community hotel. The corporation had negotiated a building loan with the Bowery Savings bank, but the depression sidetracked that plan. The bank brought foreclosure suit and the property was advertised for sale at public auction "to satisfy a lien of $1,361,943.39." That proved the opening gun of the long legal battle that has been before the courts with brief intermission ever since.

When the smoke of the opening engagement had died away the bank had physical possession of the property—with a lot of sideline suits involving disgruntled or rebellious tenants still cluttering the records and the problem of "the development" still unsolved.

There was a lull in the hostilities. During that period a newcomer, known as "85 Park Avenue corporation," appeared on the scene. Talk of a stately apartment hotel to replace the outmoded brown stone string began to be heard. Plans were drawn, a wrecking crew was put to work, and excavations begun—from the rear, since certain tenants who refused to see eye-to-eye with the new corporation's views, refused to be ousted.

The Bowery Savings bank signified its faith in the project by agreeing to "accommodations" amounting—on paper—to some $1,492,695. The work went forward.

Neighborhood joy over the new turn of events was shortlived, however. Something went wrong with the financial arrangements.

Before long the problem was in court again, in the form of a foreclosure suit against the new owners and there were 20 or more other suits, including plumbers, electricians, building supply companies and various other concerns who had contracted for work or material toward the project. The work of demolishing the brown stone houses suddenly stopped and all hands rushed to court.

ASTOR OFFERS PLAN TO FINANCE NEW YORK HOUSING PROGRAM

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Vincent Astor, who has offered to take a loss on his large tenement holdings on the lower east side to aid slum clearance, came out today with the suggestion of a plan of long term financing for the city's model housing program.

Tenement House Commissioner Langdon W. Post outlined the plan suggested by Mr. Astor and expressed his approval of it.

"Mr. Astor believes the city could issue bonds which landlords would accept instead of cash," the commissioner said.

"Long term financing, 50 year bonds, would be acceptable to the owners, Mr. Astor believes, and the city would come out without spending a cent."

GROUP IN HOUSE ORDERS STUDY OF BRITTEN'S VOTES

McAndrews Contest Is Inquiry Subject.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—By a strict party vote, the house elections committee today ordered a recount of ballots in the election which returned Representative Fred A. Britten, Republican, to the house congressional seat over the opposition of James McAndrews, Chicago Democratic politician.

The recount was ordered, according to Representative J. Bayard Clarke [Dem., N. C.], committee chairman, in the belief that it will prove the most effective method of settling the contest raised by Mr. McAndrews, who charges his defeat to irregular tactics on the part of his Republican opponent. Probably next week, the chairman said, a committee consisting of one Democrat and one Republican will be appointed to go to Chicago and make the recount.

Britten Unafraid of Recount.

Congressman Britten, whose long service makes him dean of house Republicans, declared that while he was "disappointed" at the action of the elections committee he was by no means fearful of the outcome.

Within the past few weeks, it was learned, the Democratic delegation from Illinois has applied considerable pressure to force the recount. Illinois members of the majority party, it was reported, called upon Chairman Clarke last week to demand that the recount be taken.

Neither Opposed Suggestion.

Mr. Clarke explained that neither Mr. Britten nor Mr. McAndrews opposed the suggestion for a recount of votes when they appeared some weeks ago before the committee. In view of their willingness to permit a recount, he stated, the committee felt that it would provide the best method of settling the election contest.

Mr. Britten stated today that he was sure a reopening of the ballot boxes would pin "corruption and fraud" on his former opponent rather than on himself. In one precinct alone, the Chicago Republican pointed out, McAndrews got 398 out of 404 votes.

JOSEPH PULITZER IS STRICKEN ON SHIP IN MANILA

MANILA, March 15.—(AP)—Suffering from an undisclosed illness, Joseph Pulitzer, publisher of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who was scheduled to be the guest of honor at a journalism class dinner at the University of the Philippines last night, canceled the engagement. He remained aboard the Empress of Britain which sailed for Hongkong today, continuing its world tour. He wore dark glasses aboard ship and was reported suffering from eye trouble, but this was unconfirmed.

EXPECT INCOME TAXES TO REACH QUARTER BILLION

Filings Will Total About Four Million.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—By midnight tonight 4 million citizens are expected to have turned in their federal income tax returns and to have handed over 250 million dollars in tax payments to the government.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said he was pleased with the early reports from the annual March 15 income tax rush and that collections were running a shade above estimates.

He revealed that the treasury expects the month to net 250 million dollars in income taxes, a sharp gain over the 174 millions collected last March in the midst of the banking holiday. Returns, which numbered more than 3,760,000 last year, are expected to jump to close to 4 millions.

See Earnings Increase.

Most of the increase in income tax collections which the treasury is predicting is expected to come from improvement in corporate earnings and from healthier stock and bond markets during 1933. Speculative profits, estimated larger in 1933 than in 1932, are counted on for a large part of the increase. Improved corporate earnings allowing dividend and interest payments are another factor.

Most of the government's relief and purchasing power drives are expected to have little direct effect on the income tax. This money is thought to have gone to persons not caught within the income tax brackets.

Seventeenth Filing of Taxes.

Today's filing of returns was the 17th in the history of the modern income tax, which came into effect in 1917. Since that time almost 84 million income tax returns have been filed with the government by individual citizens exclusive of the reports sent in by corporations.

Total collections from the income tax on individuals since it was imposed have amounted to more than 13 billion dollars. The year of the highest collections from individuals was 1919, when 1 billion 270 million dollars was collected under wartime rates. Most returns were filed in 1923, when 7,698,321 were turned in.

Collections Double.

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—(AP)—Income tax collections for the eighth Illinois district this year will be double the total last year, H. D. Luckenbill, assistant internal revenue collector, said tonight. The highest individual tax paid here was $165,000, which represented the tax on a net income of more than a million and a quarter dollars. Luckenbill said the greatest increase in tax was on incomes of less than $5,000.

NO LAST MINUTE RUSH

The customary last minute rush of income taxpayers failed to develop in the offices of the collector of internal revenue in the United States courthouse last night.

So slim was the trickle of payers that many of the employés who had been told to remain on duty until midnight were allowed early in the evening to go home.

Easier to File by Mail.

This violation of tradition was attributed by the office to the fact that many thousands of taxpayers had learned it was much easier to file their returns by mail and avoid the crush.

Officials were pleased when it was announced that up to 10 o'clock last night a total of 86,700 returns, accompanied by payments, had been received. At the corresponding period last year the paying returns were 84,300. No account was taken in this tabulation of returns made by persons whose exemptions and deductions were sufficient to allow them to claim freedom from any payments.

More Corporations File.

Another feature encouraging to the government was that 1,100 more corporations filed tax returns this year than last. This fact and the added one that some thousands of returns which arrived in late mails had not been opened caused a belief that this year's collections would outstrip those of twelve months ago.

The four largest corporation returns, as announced by Miss Elizabeth Eckert, clerk in the collector's office, were $353,000, $250,000, $230,000, and $170,000. No information of the sort on individual returns was available.

Robbers Take Cash, Force Victim to Drive 25 Miles

Edward Schultz, 814 Oakton street, Evanston, an ice dealer, was robbed of $25 by three bandits last night. But he didn't mind that so much as the long ride which was made part of the robbery. The gunmen curbed his car with their automobile in Niles Center. Then one got into his machine, took his money, and forced him to drive to a point north of Elgin and about 25 miles from Niles Center. There the bandit cut the ignition wires in Schultz's automobile and fled. Schultz repaired his car after an hour and finally reached home.

Policeman Shot 7 Times While Attempting Arrest

Policeman William Johnson, 45 years old, of the Englewood station, was shot seven times, perhaps fatally, when he tried to arrest two Negroes near 433 East 37th street last night. Johnson, also a Negro, was on his way to work when he saw the men fighting. As he put them into his own parked car they drew guns and fired pointblank at him. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital. The gunmen got away.

SENATE GROUP TODAY TO HEAR COL. LINDBERGH

Gen. Mitchell for One Air Service.

Paul Henderson, vice president of the United Aircraft and Transport company, that he engaged Mr. Lehr Fess to expedite the passage of the Watres bill, under which Postmaster General Brown had sought to escape the obligation to submit contracts to competitive bidding, and we have the admission of young Fess himself that he was so engaged. According to Col. Henderson, the service consisted of two days work in April, 1930, after the Watres bill had already passed the house and senate committees, and the fee was $3,000 or $5,000—the uncertainty being due to the hazy memory of the witness. And even Col. Henderson told the senate committee that he had considered a conference of operators called by Postmaster General Brown as improper and had sought to have it adjourned.

"Then there is the instance of Mr. Ernest W. Smoot, who sent in a bill for $15,000 to Western Air for services rendered for his representation work before Controler General McCarl and the appropriation committee. At about this time young Smoot was the secretary of the senate finance committee, of which his father was the chairman."

Then he swung his personal attack on former Senator Bingham, now president of the National Aeronautic association, who was once officially censured by the senate for having taken a lobbyist for a manufacturers' association into the tariff committee hearings as his secretary.

Deaths of Other Flyers.

Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], post office committee chairman, followed Senator Robinson. He directed his attack upon Senator Fess, who has been one of the loudest defenders of former Postmaster General Brown. The Tennessee senator said that during the Hoover administration 173 army flyers and 150 commercial flyers were killed.

"But the senator from Ohio never shed a tear," Senator McKellar said. "There was never a weep nor a wail from him. The time was not politically judicious."

"The deaths of the ten army flyers cannot be laughed off on the ground of politics," said Senator Arthur Robinson, Indiana Republican, breaking into the debate. The Democrats, he asserted, were throwing up a smoke screen of politics in order to hide "the sickening sight of this executive blunder."

Senator Carter Glass [Dem., Va.] said he had been trying for five years to do away with the air mail altogether. He saw no reason, he said, "when people are starving to spend 30 millions a year on this fanciful luxury."

Says Progress Halted.

Meanwhile Gen. Mitchell before the committee was testifying for an aeronautics department and in general was agreeing with the major provisions of the administration bill. He agreed with the measure's prohibitions against affiliations, interlocking directorates, and holding companies. He said that domination of aviation by four great corporations had stifled experimentation during the last decade.

"Had we gone on from where we were ten years ago," he declared, "we should now be building ships capable of flying 400 miles an hour with a range of 6,000 miles and a ceiling of 35,000 feet. The fast ships talked about now are just low winged monoplanes streamlined up a little."

U. S. Largely Pays Salaries.

Asked concerning the $17,500 salary maximum for officers of contracting companies, Gen. Mitchell said:

"I wouldn't say it was too low."

"There's got to be some limit," he added, "on these salaries when they come largely out of government money."

Gen. Mitchell stressed the need for federal regulation of air traffic.

"In a few years," he exclaimed, "the skies will be full of ships coming from Europe, Asia, South America. You'll have to regulate them. Why you'd have 'em flying over a steel plant and they could put it out—like that."

Army Air Mail Mistake.

As to the army's flying of the mail, he said:

"The army has equipment that's been designed to act near an army on the ground," he said. "The air mail equipment is meant for flying across the country. One group has been asked to do the job of the other and they're just up in the air.

"They ought to know how to fly each other's equipment," he declared, then went on to explain that the average army pilot's experience was limited to flying "from airdrome to airdrome in good weather." That was not the sort of training required, he asserted.

"If a man can't fly through bad weather, he can't fly at all in war," Gen. Mitchell said.

Gen. Mitchell pointed to Alaska as the probable theater of air warfare if the United States and Japan ever engage in conflict. The weather on the way to Alaska, he explained, was unusually hazardous.

Asked what was the cause of the army air corps' trouble in handling the mail, Gen. Mitchell replied:

"It's due to two things—first, lack of appreciation of the air corps' problem by the directing people; and second, lack of funds with which to develop proper equipment."

Gen. Mitchell advocated that all equipment of companies, receiving a government subsidy, including ground equipment such as radio stations, be under government supervision and subject to being taken over by the government in case of necessity.

For More Flying Tests.

Gen. Mitchell approved the pending bill's requirement that future air mail operaters be required, without extra compensation, to carry army, navy, marine corps, and reserve corps flyers as co-pilots.

"Military pilots should know the air routes," Gen. Mitchell agreed. "They ought to know how to handle commercial ships. If that system had been in effect up to the present there wouldn't be the difficulty there is.

"I'd carry it further. I'd let the civilian pilots come with the army. In fact, I'd make all the personnel—flyers and ground crew—of companies receiving a government subsidy become members of the officer and enlisted reserve and subject to immediate call at any time by the Chief Executive.

Mobilization Day Past.

"For in an emergency you won't have any time for the mobilization of your air force. It's got to be able to go at once—to hit the day war is declared."

As to his reasons in stressing Alaska he said:

"Why, at the present time, you can go from New York to Peiping by way of Alaska in 45 hours. That's certainly going some. With 300 mile an hour ships you could make the trip in 30 hours."

"Are other countries farther ahead in aviation than we are?" asked Senator James J. Davis [Rep., Pa.].

Gen. Mitchell described the policies of foreign nations like England, France, and Italy.

"I think," he said, "our policy should be to have our air service so equipped and trained as to protect our country, foster civil aviation, and make our aeronautics industry the foremost in the world."

More Deaths Likely.

Seeking to prepare the public for more deaths among air mail pilots, and at the same time taking full responsibility for advising the President that the army air corps was able and eager to undertake the job of carrying the air mail, Gen. Foulois, chief, today was completing his tour of inspection of the airways, and flying personnel and equipment.

In a public statement issued at the war department and signed by Gen. Foulois, the latter cited the fact that the death rate among army flyers was below the average for the year, and that more deaths may be expected when flying is resumed.

Gen. Foulois pointed out that in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, there were 50 deaths in the army air corps, in 1933 the toll was 46, and so far in this year the deaths have numbered 39.

"With 25 years of flying experience behind me, I can frankly state that just so long as man flies there will be fatal accidents," the Foulois statement added.

"The opportunity afforded the army air corps to carry the air mail," he added, "with but approximately ten days in which to prepare, constituted in my belief an ideal peace time test of the army air corps organization, equipment, and training, and as chief of the army air corps I freely, frankly, and without reservation, welcomed this opportunity."

Chamberlain Sees President.

Clarence A. Chamberlain, selected by Secretary of War Dern as a member of a special aeronautical committee to study and report upon the carrying of the air mail by the army, called on President Roosevelt for a brief discussion of the work which the committee is to undertake.

President Roosevelt told Mr. Chamberlain that he would like to have him call on him again later to discuss details of the proposed inquiry.

LINDBERGH REJECTS DERN REQUEST AGAIN; HITS AIR MAIL PLAN

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh refused again today in a telegram to Secretary of War Dern to serve on the committee to study the army's carrying of the air mail.

The text of Col. Lindbergh's telegram follows:

"I want to thank you for your telegram and to assure you that I deeply appreciate the honor of being asked to serve on the committee. I do not feel that I can take part directly or indirectly in the operation by the military forces of American business and commerce. The army is now being used to operate the commercial air mail system. I regret extremely to reply again that I do not feel that I can serve on a committee which is charged to study and report upon the performance of the army air corps in its mission to carry the air mail as directed by executive order.

"Respectfully,

"CHARLES A. LINDBERGH."

The use of the army to carry the air mail is unfair to the commercial lines whose contracts were summarily canceled and to the personnel of the army air corps, Col. Lindbergh asserted in a telegram last night in refusing to serve on the committee.

Mr. Dern responded immediately that Col. Lindbergh's telegram "indicates a misconception of the committee."

Col. Lndbergh today repeated his refusal. Orville Wright, aviation pioneer, has declined to serve because of ill health. Clarence Chamberlin accepted appointment.

SOCIETY DIVORCEE AND STUDENT ARRESTED IN PASADENA HOTEL

Pasadena, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Frances Coen Cooke, 25 year old Pasadena divorcée and society woman, who was a figure in the investigation of the unsolved murder of Dr. Leonard Siever, today engaged R. Lee Heath, ex-police chief of Los Angeles, as her attorney to fight charges of violating the city rooming house ordinance, which were filed against her last night.

Mrs. Cooke, whose unkept evening appointment with Dr. Siever first led to discovery of the dentist's slain body last Dec. 11, was arrested last night with Robert B. Orthwein, 27 year old college student, in the latter's rooms in the fashionable Park View hotel.

Both were accused in a police complaint of violating the city's rooming house ordinance. Orthwein pleaded guilty in court this morning. Mrs. Cooke pleaded not guilty, called her arrest a "dirty frameup" and said, "I'll fight this case to the limit."

Orthwein was fined $50 or given an alternative of 25 days in jail.

MRS. BLACKLIDGE FACES JAIL FOR UNPAID $7,500

Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blacklidge, former collector of internal revenue, may have to go to jail next Monday for nonpayment of a $7,500 judgment won by Mrs. Susanne Nottingham, according to indications yesterday. The $7,500 was awarded to Mrs. Nottingham by a jury which found that Mrs. Blacklidge had alienated the affections of Mrs. Nottingham's husband, Policeman Norman E. Nottingham of the Grand Crossing station.

Mrs. Blacklidge has repeatedly expressed her inability to pay the judgment. The jury included a malice count in its verdict, which makes it possible for Mrs. Nottingham to insist that Mrs. Blacklidge go to jail, although the former must pay fifty cents a day board. Mrs. Nottingham has said she will pay this sum.

Mrs. Blacklidge's attorney, Eugene P. Meegan, said that he would not file an appeal which would automatically stop any jail sentence. He said, however, that he did not know where his client is at present and that he reaches her through her son.

FOULOIS TO VISIT CHICAGO TODAY ON AIR MAIL TOUR

Resumption of Service Awaits His Verdict.

Maj. Gen. Benjamin D. Foulois, chief of the army air corps, is scheduled to arrive in Chicago today to continue his personal inspection of equipment and men to be used in the army air mail service. Upon his findings depends the date for the resumption of air mail flying by the army, which was halted Sunday by President Roosevelt.

In accordance with the presidential demand the army will not renew operations with its recently organized air mail corps until every unit has had blind flying and radio equipment installed and pilots are familiarized with its use. The delay is the result of the army's effort to "make things as safe as possible, as the President requested.

Visits Newark Airport.

Gen. Foulois after working out the new post office air mail schedules with postal authorities, yesterday began his personal inspection tour. Flying from his Washington headquarters in an army plane, he landed at Newark, N. J., airport which serves New York City. There he examined the planes which will be used in the eastern zone of operations and talked with the pilots assigned to the mail service.

"I want to see and talk to the pilots myself," Gen Foulois said, after visiting the hangars, "then I will be able to say when the army air corps will resume flying the air mails."

Plans Stop at Cleveland.

Without disclosing his opinion of affairs at Newark, the general with his two aids, Maj. Carl Spatz and Maj. B. Q. Jones, prepared immediately to continue the tour. They will stop at Cleveland on the way to Chicago, probably at an early hour this morning. After inspection of army planes there they will continue to the Chicago airport.

It was expected here last evening that Gen. Foulois would end his tour soon after inspecting the Chicago equipment and pilots. He will confer here with Col. Horace Hickam, commandant of the central zone of air mail operations. Army authorities hazarded guesses last evening that the order for the resumption of the air mail would be made by Gen. Foulois in Chicago.

Gets 6 Months Sentence for "Selling" Fair Jobs

For "selling" jobs at the 1934 World's Fair, Fred Monroe, 42 years old, 600 Madison street, yesterday was sentenced by Municipal Judge Frederick W. Elliott to serve six months in the Bridewell. Monroe had made a business of collecting $15 from men and promising them employment at the Fair.

CYCLONES LASH AUSTRALIA; 75 DEAD OR MISSING

BRISBANE, Australia, March 15.—(AP)—Death and disaster followed today in the wake of fierce cyclones centering off the northern coast of Queensland. The latest count showed 75 persons, mostly natives, dead or missing, several small towns virtually leveled, and property damage exceeding $500,000.

Most of the casualties occurred on small vesels caught in the path of the storms and one of the survivors said tonight the wind was so fierce it was impossible even to wield axes to strip rigging.

Nine pearling launches and luggers were missing. Only three out of 20 persons on one craft survived, and they landed exhausted after battling huge seas in a small boat for many hours. Another lugger capsized swiftly, drowning its 10 occupants. Others were either wrecked or blown out to sea in a disabled condition.

Examine Hair of American Woman Held as Spy

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—A lock of the light brown hair of Mrs. Robert Gordon Switz, American held with her husband on espionage charges, was being compared today with two blonde hairs found by secret service operatives in an envelope containing a mysterious camera film. Police experts examined the hairs under a microscope in an effort to determine if they are identical. Other experts were trying to solve the mystery of the films, believing they contain the cryptographs of a secret code.

6 MEN, 2 WOMEN SEIZED IN BREMER KIDNAPING CASE

Two Suspects Elude Trap in Oklahoma.

Mannford, Okla., March 15.—(AP)—Hot on the Bremer kidnap trail, federal and state manhunters today trapped eight persons, some of them linked closely by association with the suspected abductors, in a sudden raid on an Osage country hideaway near this hamlet.

Although two or more of the men sought for the $200,000 kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, St. Paul banker, have been reported in this vicinity during the last three weeks, they were not at the farmhouse six miles west of here when the officers arrived at sunrise and made their captures.

The two chiefly sought, and whose names were made public for the first time today, were Arthur [Doc] Barker and Alvin Karpis, both former Oklahoma convicts. Barker's brother, Freddie, also is wanted for questioning in connection with the banker's abduction.

Fingerprints Found.

Their fingerprints were found on gasoline cans and a flashlight believed to have been used by the kidnapers.

Arrested, however, were six men and two women who included in their number men suspected of killings, of bank robberies, and of other armed raids upon society throughout the middle west.

The suspects taken were:

Glenn Roy Wright, 34, wanted for a murder at Picher, Okla., and for robberies in Kansas, western Missouri, and Nebraska.

Charles Cotner, 49, suspected of the attempted kidnaping of Peggy Landon, daughter of Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, and wanted for a double murder at Chelsea, Okla., Feb. 4.

Ed Brophy, 58, who served a term in the state prison at McAlester under the name of Pat Collins.

Ira Brackett, 43, at whose house the arrests were made; J. W. McAtee, 38, believed to be from Coffeyville, Kas., and for a time thought to be Harry Campbell, an outlaw; Frank Downey, 35; Grace Cutler, 33, of Vian, Okla., arrested in the company of Cotner, and Winnie Morris, 20, who said her home was in England, Ark.

Seized in Surprise Raid.

The posse, consisting of 29 department of justice agents and Oklahoma and Kansas officers moved into Mannford at dawn, assembled in the schoolhouse square for last minute instructions and descended upon the farm just as the sun peered over the surrounding hills. They broke through the front door and surprised the group. None offered resistance.

Several rifles and other arms, a steel vest and three automobiles were taken by the officers.

Five of the prisoners, Wright, McAtee, Downey, Brophy, and Cotner, were taken to the state prison at McAlester late today for safe keeping, while Brackett and the two women were held in the Creek county jail at Sapulpa.

MERIAN M'GREW IN RENO; DIVORCE PLAN REPORTED

A dispatch from Reno, Nev., yesterday stated that Mrs. Merian Dezell Webb McGrew of Los Angeles, Cal., was in Reno with the intention of establishing a residence and suing for a divorce from Charles F. McGrew II., former Chicagoan. Her attorney, Lester D. Summerfield, said the action would be based on incompatibility.

Mr. McGrew, who resided in Highland Park before moving to the west coast, was formerly married to Jean Harlow, screen actress. Miss Harlow won a divorce in January, 1931, in Los Angeles. Mr. McGrew and his present wife were married in February, 1932. She was the heiress to the fortune of her father, Earl J. Dezell, wealthy California fruit packer.

SNELL ATTACKS FARLEY'S CHOICE OF CUMMINGS

Holds Selection Breaks Roosevelt Pledge.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The selection of Walter J. Cummings of Chicago as treasurer of the Democratic party today caused Republican House Leader Bertrand Snell to "wonder" if Mr. Cummings' affiliation with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company had any thing to do with his choice.

In a statement issued at the capitol Mr. Snell pointed out that Mr. Cummings was recently named chairman of the board of the Continental Illinois at the direction of Jesse Jones, chairman of the RFC, which now holds a majority of the bank's stock.

The job, said Mr. Snell, is actually a federal position, and he found it difficult to reconcile Mr. Cummings' appointment as Democratic treasurer with the administration's avowal that no one will be permitted to hold a government office and a party position at once.

Cites Roosevelt's Edict.

"I wonder," said Mr. Snell, "if it occurred to Mr. Farley in selecting Mr. Cummings that his position in this bank, as a direct representative of the federal government, might give him an advantage in the matter of collecting funds that the average business man would not have."

"The administration in recent weeks has given the impression that persons holding prominent positions in the Democratic party cannot practice in the various departments of the government and cannot hold important federal positions under this administration," the New Yorker asserted.

Recalls Walker's Position.

"The one outstanding exception is Mr. Farley, the postmaster general, but the rumor has been constant that he is expected to resign.

"Mr. Frank C. Walker of New York resigned as treasurer of the Democratic national committee several months ago when he became the director of the national emergency council.

"There was much favorable comment upon the position taken by Mr. Walker, that he ought not to be serving as treasurer of a political party while occupying the important position as director of the national emergency council.

"I agree with Postmaster General Farley and former Senator Cohen that the Democratic party is fortunate in securing the services of a man for treasurer, who holds this key position as chairman of the board of this great financial institution through the direct orders of the administration."

GUARD HEIRESS AND HER CHILD FROM KIDNAPERS

Police Surround Palatial Connecticut Home.

Greenwich, Conn., March 15.—(AP)—The shadow of a kidnap plot lay tonight over the palatial home where Fredericka Fry Del Guercia, $8,000,000 heiress to the Timken roller bearing fortune, lives with her two year old son, Eligio.

A special police guard was placed about the house as Chief of Police Patrick J. Flanagan said a note had been received warning there was a plot to kidnap either Mrs. Del Guercio or her son, and to hold the victim for $100,000 ransom.

"I'm not in a position to talk about it," said Chief Flanagan, but counsel for Mrs. Del Guercio said the note was received Saturday noon by the police chief.

The department of justice was notified, the lawyer said, and the note was kept secret to permit the agents to work quietly on the case.

Divorced Last Summer.

Mrs. Del Guercio is the adopted daughter of J. H. Fry, noted artist, who is now in Italy, and the late Mrs. J. T. Timken Fry. Her former husband, Eligio Del Guercio, is a lawyer in New York. They were divorced in July, 1933.

They were married in St. Mary's church and returned to the Fry estate, now the home of Mrs. Del Guercio, which had been converted into a fairyland of magnolia leaves sprayed with a silver solution, a special road lined with cedars and covered with roses, and the house covered, even to the roof, with flowers.

Their romance ended in an uncontested divorce action, brought by Fredericka on grounds of cruelty. She was awarded the divorce and custody of their child. Del Guercia now lives in Harrison, N. Y.

Woman Freed on $500,000 Bond.

St. Louis, Mo., March 15.—(AP)—Veiled in black crêpe and visibly shaking, Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench, comely wife of a St. Louis physician, came out of hiding and surrendered today on an indictment charging the kidnaping of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley.

Several hundred persons, attracted by the expected appearance of the woman at the St. Louis county courthouse, rushed to the door at her appearance, and crowded the building while attorneys posted $500,000 bond and arranged for her release.

Mrs. Muench was taken to the Bertillon room for finger printing and photographing.

Her surrender ended a two day search by officers, during which she was touring from town to town in southern Illinois seeking to evade arrest until her attorneys were assured she would be released on bond.

Two Confess Kidnap Plot.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—(AP)—Two Filipinos sat behind the bars today in the federal jail here awaiting removal to St. Louis to face charges of attempting to extort $5,000 from a wealthy manufacturer there on a threat of kidnaping his three year old son for $100,000 ransom.

The extortion attempt, agents said today in formal charges filed before United States Commissioner R. H. Carter Jr., was made last fall against Louis A. Hager, son-in-law of the late August A. Busch, St. Louis brewer.

Federal operatives said the two would be taken next week to St. Louis, where a third member of the extortion schemers, arrested there today, awaits them. Two of them have confessed.

Their bond was fixed at $5,000.

'ONE MAN STRIKE' AND THREAT TOLD IN RACKET TRIAL

Beverage Dealer Explains Union Pressure.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

A "one man strike," engineered by the Carbonated Beverage Drivers' union for the purpose of forcing him to join the Carbonated Beverage Institute of Chicago, was described in the racket conspiracy trial yesterday by Fred F. Korn. owner of a beverage company bearing his name at 6801 South Chicago avenue.

Korn was one of a parade of witnesses produced by the prosecution before Chief Justice Philip J. Finnegan of the Criminal court to describe alleged racketeering in the beverage industry in 1932 and 1933, which, the state charges, centered in the Beverage institute and local 723 of the Beverage Drivers' union. A. J. Canfield, who was president of the institute; Morris I. Kaplan, its attorney, and Jerry Donovan, secretary of the union, are among the eighteen defendants on trial.

Humphreys Under Indictment.

Murray Humphreys, Capone gangster, and Dave Ostran, one of his associates, who was field secretary of the institute, also were indicted in the case, but are fugitives. The other defendants on trial are charged with racketeering in the cleaning and dyeing and sundry industries.

Korn testified that with the exception of a boy who helped him one or two days a week, he was the only person working in his plant. He bottled his own soda pop, ginger ale, and other products, and delivered them himself. On Oct. 14, 1932, he said, Jim Mitchell, business agent of the union, of which he was a member, appeared at his plant, told him that a strike had been called there, and forbade his taking his truck out.

Joins After Argument.

Korn said that he went to see Donovan in the union headquarters, and found Ostran there. He was informed that he would have to join the beverage institute if he was to keep on operating, and after some argument did so.

"After the strike, did you raise the wages of any employés"? asked Assistant Prosecutor William E. Crawford.

"I didn't have any wages to raise, only my own," replied Korn.

George B. Gilsmer, one of the owners of the Premier-Vernon Beverage company, 4425 Evans avenue, testified that a strike at his plant also forced him to join the beverage institute. He testified that Ostran forbade him to bottle beverage for a jobber who used the name of Fields, on the grounds that the name might be confused with that of Canfield, president of the institute.

Tells of Bomb Threat.

Harvey Nathanson, an employé of Gilsmer, testified that Ostran threatened to bomb the plant and smash the machinery if the company continued to use the Fields label on the jobber's products. Nathanson's story was weakened on cross-examination by Attorney Benedict J. Short, counsel for Kaplan, however, when he insisted that he had never warned Gilsmer of the threat and never mentioned it to the prosecutors in the case before taking the witness stand.

William T. Rudin, owner of the United Fruit market, 5040 Madison street, told how Ostran appeared at the store on Aug. 31, 1932, and protested at Rudin's transferring his trade from a company which charged him $1 a dozen for carbonated beverages to one which charged 60 cents a dozen. The following morning, Rudin testified, his store was bombed.

Establish Humphreys Link.

Attorney Louis E. Hart, who in 1924 was attorney for the Checker Taxi company, testified that at that time Ostran and Charles Goldstein, one of the defendants, were employés of the company and intimates. Goldstein is a business agent for the retail tailors' union. The testimony of J. A. Janzen, an income tax expert, established a further connection between Ostran and Humphreys. Ostran was Humphreys' partner in a "restaurant" at 29th street and Michigan avenue, and brought the books of the business to him in 1929 when he prepared Humphreys' income tax return, Janzen said.

WILLIAMS COLLEGE ALUMNI IN REUNION

Mrs. Charles R. Lindsay (left), Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, and Charles R. Lindsay III., president of Williams Alumni association, at the organization's dinner at the Drake hotel last night. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

PREXY GARFIELD IS THE GUEST OF WILLIAMS ALUMNI

Dr. Harry A. Garfield, president of Williams college, Massachusetts, son of the martyred President James A. Garfield, was the guest of Chicago alumni of the college at a reunion dinner in the Drake hotel last night. Dr. Garfield will retire next June after 25 years as president of Williams. He is 70 years old.

"A college president may often be assailed," Dr. Garfield said last night, "especially when he decides to assist the departure of a faculty member. So was my judgment assailed when I formed the decision to retire a man who had been with Williams a quarter of a century. That man was myself."

Dr. Garfield, who was President Wilson's food administrator during the world war, left for Cleveland after the meeting.

BANK ROBBER TO GO TO PRISON FOR 25 YEARS—BLIND

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—His face twisted in a broad grin, Edward Wilson, 31, who is totally blind, stood before General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. today and was sentenced to 25 years in Sing Sing as a "dangerous criminal and a menace to society."

The sentence was for bank robbery and Wilson's sentencing marks the end, police said, of the notorious Bill Sutton gang, which has a long record of bank robberies.

Wilson had pleaded guilty to being one of the participants in the $23,835 holdup of a branch of the Corn Exchange Bank Trust company on Jan. 8, 1933.

Three weeks later detectives saw Wilson and Miss Nina Miranda, his sweetheart, in an automobile on Broadway. They had been trailing Sutton and believed Wilson to be an accomplice. In an ensuing gun battle Wilson was shot.

When he was brought to a hospital surgeons found a bullet had severed the optic nerve of his left eye and had lodged behind his right eye, destroying the nerve there as well.

Wilson recovered, but he was totally blind.

Nature's Way A GENTLE FLUSH

Avoid Laxatives That Constipate!

Ever hear of "cathartic constipation?" Medicine laxatives cause it. Most of them work by irritating the membranes of the digestive tract—and when taken regularly lose their effect. Soon the laxative-constipation habit has you in its grip!

That's why more than 50,000 physicians recommend Pluto Water. For Pluto is not a drug or medicine laxative but a saline mineral water. The same amount each time—no need to increase it—always performs, does not gripe, gives positive results in less than one hour. It cannot give you the laxative habit!

Pluto Water is gentle — but speedy. It promptly opens the pylorus valve — permitting the flush to enter the intestines without anxious hours of waiting.

The proper dilution—one-fifth glass Pluto in four-fifths glass hot water — is practically tasteless. Take it whenever sluggish — get results within an hour — and end that laxative habit! In two sizes: Splits (8 ounces), 25c — large bottles (3 times the quantity), 50c. At all druggists.

Even so.. you can say Chesterfields are "not like others"

No two people in the world look alike . . . act alike. So it is with tobacco . . . just like folks.

No two leaves are the same.

Furthermore, not only are the tobaccos different, but the way the tobaccos are handled is different.

This, you can understand.

You know just as well as we do that no two manufacturers use the same kinds of tobaccos, or blend them or cross-blend them or weld them together in the same manner.

We do everything that science knows and that money can buy to make CHESTERFIELD as good a cigarette as can be made.

We hope you like them. They are "not like others."

WAX MAY SOLVE MYSTERY DEATH OF POLICEMAN

Powder Would Show if He Killed Himself.

One of the most modern scientific methods of crime detection was employed yesterday by police investigators in an effort to solve the mysterious shooting to death of Paul W. Kittelmann, Milwaukee policeman, at 2 a. m. yesterday near Waukegan.

The automobile which Kittelmann was driving crashed into a telegraph pole at Belvidere street and Telegraph road, two miles west of Waukegan. A motorist came upon the scene shortly after. There was a bullet in Kittelmann's right temple and he died without regaining consciousness. Beside him was the unconscious form of Mrs. Lillian Ehlebracht, 37 years old, Milwaukee police matron. A pistol lay on her breast.

Insists She Was Asleep.

Questioned at St. Therese hospital at Waukegan, where she was recovering, Mrs. Ehlebracht insisted that she had been sleeping when the car was wrecked and knew nothing of the shooting. Her story intimated the policeman might have shot himself in the belief that she had been killed or to avoid publicity which would attend the accident.

In order to ascertain whether Kittelmann or Mrs. Ehlebracht fired the gun which killed him, Joseph Kluscheski, superintendent of the bureau of identification of the Milwaukee police department, proposed that the "powder paraffin Lunge" test be made. This is a comparative innovation in crime detection named after its inventer, Lunge, and used with considerable success recently by Mexico City police.

Apply New Test.

The hands of both Kittelmann and Mrs. Ehlebracht were coated with hot paraffin. After this cooled it was peeled off. The paraffin was taken to Milwaukee, where chemical reagents will be applied to it today to bring out any nitrate specks. If Kittelmann fired the gun the explosion of the cartridge would have imbedded these tiny particles of powder in the pores and creases of his hand. If Mrs. Ehlebracht fired the gun the particles would be imbedded in her hand.

If, at any time within 24 to 48 hours before, the policeman had fired a gun, ungloved, the little specks of nitrate will appear as dark blue under the effect of the chemicals, it was revealed. If the specks do not appear, it will be definitly established that Kittelmann did not shoot himself.

Kittelmann was married and had a 20 year old daughter, Dorothy. His widow, Mrs. Norma Kittelmann, was reported at her Milwaukee home to be under a physician's care because of the shock of her husband's death. The policeman was described as a model husband. His family, according to the daughter, had no suspicion of his friendship with Mrs. Ehlebracht.

Mrs. Ehlebracht's Story.

Questioned at length by Sherif Lester Tiffany and State's Attorney Charles E. Mason of Lake county, Mrs. Ehlebracht told the following story:

"Mr. Kittelmann and I have been going around together for about a year. We were just friends. It was not a love affair.

"We left Milwaukee Wednesday night about 8 o'clock and drove to Fox Lake where we visited my sister, Mrs. Edward Froehlich, and her husband. We talked until after midnight and drank five or six glasses of beer apiece, but we were perfectly sober when we left about 12:30 a. m.

"Mr. Kittelmann was driving when we started back to Milwaukee. I was tired so I put my head on his shoulder and went to sleep. The next thing I remember was a crash and then everything went black until I recovered consciousness in the hospital."

Never Used a Gun.

Mrs. Ehlebracht said that she had never used a gun although she was a police matron for five years. Her daughter, Dorothy, 18 years old, a freshman at Marquette university, visited her in the hospital. She said her mother had been divorced thirteen years ago.

A coroner's inquest was continued until Mrs. Ehlebracht is able to testify.

At the request of State's Attorney Mason, Justice of the Peace Harry Hoyt issued a warant for Mrs. Ehlebracht's detention last night. The warant is merely to hold her as a material witness for the inquest and enables police to maintain a guard over her.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Ehlebracht was suspended from the Milwaukee police department, according to dispatches from that city last night.

Driving at High Speed.

Either Kittelmann had lost his way or was not driving back to Milwaukee when the crash occurred, police said. He was several miles south of the Waukegan road which leads to Milwaukee.

He was driving at high speed, according to the evidence of William Parkell, 7924 Perry avenue, whose car was passed by the Kittelmann automobile just before the wreck.

There was no blood inside the car, indicating Kittelmann was shot outside. The weapon found on the scene was a .32 Colt believed to have been the policeman's.

Parkell said that as he came up, Kittelmann was bending over the form of the woman and then collapsed. Powder burns around the head wound indicated that the gun had been pressed against the flesh when it was fired.

THREE CHICAGOANS APPOINTED TO U. S. EMERGENCY BOARDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Three Chicagoans, Donald Defrees, Clifford W. Ham, and Carl H. Chatters, were today appointed to federal emergency boards.

Ham and Chatters are to become members of the public works technical board of review under the direction of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. Defrees was selected by Atty. Gen. Homer S. Cummings to serve on a three man board studying criminal procedure and the administration of justice.

Defrees, a member of the Chicago law firm of Defrees, Buckingham, Jones, and Hoffman, has been practicing law in Chicago since 1908.

The technical board of review on which Ham and Chatters are to serve passes upon public works applications of a particularly controversial nature. Both Ham and Chatters are now consultants on municipal finance.

Ham has been city manager of Gladstone and Pontiac, Mich., and president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank of Pontiac.

Chatters has been director of finance at Flint, Mich., and a director of the municipal advisory council of Michigan. He now is executive director of the municipal finance affairs associations and financial consultant of the National Municipal league.

ILLINOIS SENATE CHIEF ATTACKS "GHOST" INQUIRY

Blames Springfield Cabal for Jury's Quiz.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 15.—[Special.]—Lieut. Gov. Donovan directed a few heated remarks from the senate rostrum today at the "ghost voting" investigation now being conducted by the Sangamon county grand jury. Not accustomed to having their journal questioned by any one, some of the house of lords consider the inquiry deliberate meddling.

"The investigation," said the lieutenant governor, with some emphasis, "has the ulterior purpose of embarrassing the officers of the senate. But if any of the cabal of politicians downtown wish to make political capital of it, they are welcome to do so. And I am not referring to any member of the senate."

The members of the cabal were not identified. A cabal is defined as "a secret association of a few designing persons."

Grand Jury Calls Senators.

The grand jury is investigating the passage of four non-controversial bills by the first special session of the 58th general assembly last Nov. 9. Some of the members whose names appeared in the senate journal as favoring the measures were not present that day, it is charged. This week several senators have been called to testify before the jury. Alfred E. Eden, secretary of the senate, who keeps the journal, also appeared.

Today Lieut. Gov. Donovan came to Mr. Eden's defense. "The secretary," he said, "is the creature of the senate and is going to do what the senate tells him to do. He will not falsify any record."

"The senate," agreed James J. Barbour [Rep., Evanston] "is the judge of its own actions. We don't have to fear any grand jury, unless we have been venal and corrupt."

Calls Journal True Record.

"This journal will report just what happens," declared Mr. Donovan, tapping the document with the tip of his gavel.

Members present when the alleged "ghost voting" took place said today that several senators had obtained unanimous consent of the senate to cast their votes for one of the bills before it was called, a familiar practice, and then left for their homes.

They were not present when the actual roll call was had and after the bill had been declared passed, a motion prevailed to allow the same roll call to apply to the companion bills. One senator, Wilbur H. Hickman [Dem., Paris] objected to his name being included in favor of the companion bills but no objections were made to allowing the remainder of the names to be recorded favorably.

How Vote Was Recorded.

So the vote on the first bill was placed in the journal as 39-0 and on the other bills as 38-0. The procedure of avoiding delay by allowing one roll call to apply to companion bills has been followed for years by both houses.

State's Attorney Alfred H. Greening of Sangamon county, who is directing the investigation, has adjourned his inquiry until March 27. Seven senators were subpenaed to appear that day, although it is not likely that the assembly will be in session. Those to be called are Senator Hickman, H. S. Burgess [Dem., Fairfield]; Mark A. Penick [Dem., Quincy]; R. M. Shaw [Dem., Lawrenceville]; George M. Maypole [Dem., Chicago]; Daniel A. Serritella [Rep., Chicago], and James B. Leonardo [Rep., Chicago].

Mr. Greening also subpenaed 11 newspaper men who have covered the legislature from time to time. Some of those subpenaed were not covering the session which enacted the "ghost vote" bills.

Some expect the grand jury to report before the primaries, April 10.

Appointment of Woman as Judge Confirmed in Senate

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—The senate today confirmed Florence E. Allen of Ohio, as federal judge of the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals. She will be the first woman to sit on the federal bench.

ROOSEVELT MAY VISIT GREEN BAY LATE IN JULY

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today told a delegation of Wisconsin officials and members of congress he would make every effort to visit Green Bay late in July to attend the state's Tercentennary celebration. The invitation was extended by Gov. A. G. Schmedeman.

The governor said the President approved a proposal that a three cent Tercentennary postage stamp be issued bearing a likeness of Father Nicolet, the first white man to set foot on Wisconsin soil. Father Nicolet landed at Green Bay in 1634.

TWO WEEKS' PAY BELIEVED NEAR FOR TEACHERS

McCahey Hopes for Sale to Banks Today.

A two weeks' pay day for Chicago's 17,000 teachers and school employés was virtually assured last night as James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, reported definite progress in the board's effort to sell tax anticipation warants to loop bankers. The pay will be for the first two weeks of May, 1933.

"Prospects for two weeks' pay are extremely bright," Mr. McCahey said. "We hope for a final decision at a conference with bankers tomorrow. If it is favorable a pay day will be arranged as soon as the board can pass the necessary resolutions."

Borrowing Power Increased.

The movement to get cash for unpaid school employés was launched when the state legislature passed the "pegged levy" measure, fixing the 1933 educational fund levy at $43,000,000 and thus increasing the board's borrowing power by $3,000,000.

McCahey was optimistic last night over the results of yesterday's meeting with representatives of five banks, but was not confident that $3,000,000 of warants would be taken up to assure a month's pay, the board's original goal.

Should the bankers agree to take $1,500,000 of warants, this money would be combined with $600,000 the board now has on hand to provide the two weeks' pay.

Back pay rolls now total $28,500,000. Further slashes in this amount are possible after April 1, when the passage of the 1934 school budget will enable the board to sell 1934 tax anticipation warants.

Determined on Free Texts.

The special budget committee of the board of education yesterday labored over the free text book and playground funds of the 1934 appropriation, increasing the text book fund $425,390 over the $626,246 appropriated for the fund last year. The increase was the result of the board's determination to supply all children in the schools with texts.

The committee delayed action on the playground fund when members objected to an expense of $68,000 for the improvement of a playground tract given to the school system by Albert W. Harris, chairman of the board of the Harris Trust company. Legal technicalities have kept previous boards from approving such an appropriation, but the possibility that the land, at Dorchester avenue and 49th street, and valued at $500,000, may revert to the donor if it is not utilized for playground purposes, caused the committee to halt action until the exact status of the grant is determined.

Folsom Makes Report.

Richard S. Folsom, school board attorney, reported to the committee that favorable action on a bill which would enable the Chicago schools to borrow $40,000,000 from the government appears possible at Washington. Mr. Folsom and Trustee Irwin N. Walker returned from Washington yesterday after conferring with congressmen on the plan.

The budget committee expects a day-long session today, in which it will consider the 1934 building appropriation.

HOUSE DEFEATS BILL TO USE GAS TAX FOR SCHOOLS

going home nights. Some of the cities say they don't need this gas tax for the schools. With the new funds they will be in a position to reduce their school tax."

"I get lost on the roads, too, like my good friend, Sinnett," retored Representative Elbert J. Waller [Rep., Tamaroa], "and I have to get a team of horses to pull me out."

Declares Bill Unsound.

Representative David Hunter [Rep., Rockford], who had been chairman of the roads committee under former Gov. Emmerson, declared the gas tax had been used for "every purpose under heaven" and the bill was unsound. He then read a statement from State Senator Noah M. Mason [Rep., Oglesby], urging that the bill be defeated.

The statement given out by Mason, who is president of the Illinois State Teachers' association, was in direct conflict with a letter placed on the desk of each member by Robert Moore, secretary of the organization. Moore strongly urged the passage of the bill.

Barrett Commends Horner.

Representative Clinton Searle [Rep., Rock Island], one of the most bitter foes of the administration, brought up a communication from Carl A. Barrett, president of the Illinois Automobile club, commending Gov. Horner for his program.

"This Barrett is just a racketeer," shouted Searle. "Why should the poor automobile owners be forced to pay for the schools. This program will raise havoc in the budgets of hundreds of our cities."

As Searle continued to speak a chorus of "boos" arose from the Democrats across the aile. He retorted that if the members of the house didn't listen to him they would listen to their constituents at the primaries.

"In his usual fashion," said Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski [Dem., Chicago], "the gentleman has questioned our sincerity. Today you're either with the schools of Illinois or you're not. You're not getting telegrams from the poor automobile owners but from contractors. The motorists have children in schools."

Argue Over Revenue.

The arguments then turned on the amount of state revenue for 1934.

Representative Leroy M. Green [Rep., Rockford] replied that while figures didn't lie it was sometimes embarrassing to analyze them.

"The average state tax levy for the last ten years has been 28 million dollars," said Green. "The sales tax has eliminated this levy, but it is estimated that 33 millions will come in from this tax. Can any one tell me why if the state government has reduced expenses, as it is claimed, it will need all the sales tax and the liquor tax on top of that?"

SHOOTS SELF ACCIDENTALLY.

George Simonek, 37 years old, 6117 South Kilpatrick avenue, a Bowman Dairy company driver, accidentally shot himself in the left hand last night while he was cleaning a pistol in his home. The wound was not serious.

HARVARD SEEKS TO HALT SEX LIFE QUESTIONNAIRE

Cambridge, Mass., March 15.—(AP)—Several thousand Harvard students were confronted with a demand for intimate facts of their sex life in a questionnaire pushed under dormitory doors early today.

The questionnaire set forth that the "Cambridge Society for Psychological and Social Study," was anxious to compile the facts for serious study. No student was asked to sign his name and the return address was a post-office box.

University authorities when appraised earlier in the day of the existence of the questionnaire asserted that such dissemination without approval of the university was in violation of college regulation. They said steps had been taken to prevent its further distribution.

Tonight Harold Saxe, Omaha, Neb., president of the Harvard Critic, an undergraduate magazine, and a student of psychology, told newspaper men he and several companions were responsible for circulation of the questionnaire as a part of a "conscientious psychological experiment."

BANDITS ROB COLLECTOR.

Harold E. Clay, 4108 Kenmore avenue, a collector for a refrigerator company, was robbed of $121 last night by two armed men who forced his car to the curb in front of 6347 North Western avenue.

WARNING TO ALL USING CHEAP SOAP CHIPS

Duplicate lingerie, washed 9 times in American Family Flakes. Double-suds floated out dirt without rubbing. Color, lustre, texture like new.

Lack of real soap makes weak suds and hard rubbing which wear out clothes . . . Weak suds "die down", cause "spotting" and "specking" . . . More chips are needed to "hold up" the suds . . . Free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches fade colors and roughen hands . . . Free fatty acids slow down sudsing . . . Rancid fats give clothing unpleasant odors . . . Experience teaches, "It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes."

"I TRIED TO SAVE A FEW PENNIES"

says MRS. G. W. BLOMQUIST

10989 Church Street, Chicago

"I tried to save a few pennies and bought cheap soap chips," says Mrs. Blomquist. "My washings took longer and exhausted me. Soon I began to see a change in my things. They became shabbier and faded. I complained to a friend. She advised me to go back to American Family. I did. And, oh, what a difference. Now, all the pennies in the world couldn't get me to change from good, old American Family Flakes."

TAILOR-MADE FOR CHICAGO'S WASHING

Lake Michigan water has a "soap hardness" rating of 126. And 88 tons of greasy soot fall on each square mile of Chicago every month. American Family Flakes and Soap were created especially to meet these problems...to give rich, thick, creamy double-suds capable of washing out greasy soot and dirt; of softening-up Lake Michigan's hard, hard water. No wonder Chicago women buy more American Family than all other laundry soaps combined.

LET US FACE THE FACTS!

You wash hundreds of dollars worth of clothing in soap costing you a few cents. To save a penny or two you gamble that clothing against the destructive free alkali, strong water softeners, bleaches, free fatty acids, and weak suds for which cheap soap chips are notorious. Weak suds demand hard, exhausting rubbing which shrinks woolens and weakens fabrics. Free alkali, strong water softeners and bleaches fade colors and shorten the life of clothes. And free fatty acids also slow down sudsing. Where's the saving? American Family Flakes costs a few cents more; but think what it gives you... real soap; rich, creamy, upstanding, double-suds that float out the dirt without rubbing; that do twice the work, go twice as far, without harm to colors, fabrics or hands; that rinse quickly, easily, saving your clothes, energy, money and time.

A RUN IN YOUR STOCKINGS MEANS A RUN ON YOUR PURSE

Silk, weight for weight, has a greater tensile strength than steel. But it's hard to believe it after the cheap soap chips get through with stockings. Gone is the s-t-r-e-t-c-h, elasticity, lustre and color. Why? Because cheap chips lack real soap, make weak suds and hard rubbing, which ruins silk. Hosiery costs money. The best of soap is inexpensive. Be sane in your economy. Use American Family Flakes. Get lots of the creamy, upstanding, double-suds to float out the dirt without rubbing; to save your stockings, money and time.

Austria Balks at Italian Independence Pact.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, March 15.—Premier Mussolini's conference in Rome with Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss of Austria and Premier Julius Goemboes of Hungary for the economic uplift of the Danubian valley has hit a snag, according to advices reaching Vienna tonight.

Il Duce, it is understood, insists that a trade agreement which would give mutual preferential treatment to Danubian nations must be conditional to a pact guaranteeing Austrian independence.

Viennese political circles saw this as Italian strategy designed to prevent Dollfuss, under any circumstances, from making an agreement with Chancellor Hitler of Germany and to make economic aid to central Europe dependent on satisfactory arrangements for preventing any such union of Austria and Germany.

Prolong Parley One Day.

It is over this issue that the hitch is said to have occurred. In an effort to effect a compromise Dollfuss and Goemboes have agreed to prolong their stay one day

Italian mistrust of the Fascist heimwehr, on which Dollfuss' power rests, also appears evident in the condition made by Mussolini, indicating that he suspects the heimwehr might sooner or later be susceptible to German Nazi persuasion.

According to report to the official Reichspost, Il Duce is stipulating also that any future signatories to Danubian trade agreements must agree to Austrian independence.

Germany Acts.

This is seen here as an effort to bind countries of the little entente [Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia] to commit themselves to Austrian independence which is of paramount value to Italy as a buffer to Brenner pass and the Italian Tyrol.

Adding to the political complications in the struggle between Mussolini and Hitler for dominance in the Danubian valley was the confirmation here tonight that Germany is offering trade advantages to Jugo-Slavia, whose position between the Adriatic and Hungary enables her to thwart many Italian designs on central Europe.

Close coöperation between Germany and Jugo-Slavia economically might spike Mussolini's designs to make Trieste and Fiume central Europe's ports to the disadvantage of Hamburg and Bremen.

CUBA ORDERS 234 ALIENS DEPORTED FOR REVOLT PLOT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, March 15.—An order for the deportation of 234 alien labor agitators, the majority of them Russians, Spaniards, Armeanians and Hungarians, was signed tonight by President Carlos Mendieta. The group included one American. All were tried before special judges and found guilty of plotting against the government.

Strike violence continued today beginning with the dynamiting near Camaguey of a freight train with a guard of 27 soldiers. Eighteen were injured.

Six bombs exploded in Santiago damaging the city hall and municipal hospital. Two patients were killed and nine others persons wounded. Three bombs damaged a café and two department stores at Pinar del Rio injuring five persons. Strikes continued to hamper the island's activities. Sixteen more former army officers were arrested at Santiago accused of plotting to overthrow the government by means of strikes.

'BLUE SULTAN' OF MOORS GIVES UP WAR WITH FRENCH

RABAT, Morocco, March 15.—(AP)—Officials said tonight that the back of the Moorish resistance to French control of Morocco was believed broken by the reported surrender of the famous "blue sultan" to the Spanish garrison at Cape Juby.

Merebbi Rebbo Mehammedan, sometimes called "the saint," who dreamed of wresting his native land from the Christians with a rebuilt army of tribal warriors, was routed in his last stand against the French conquerors.

Pursued by the French foreign legion, the chief laid down his arms at the Spanish garrison town and asked protection as a political exile. He was the last great chieftain of the native tribes and became a pretender to the sultanate of Morocco after the death of his father.

28,000 Spanish Gas and Electric Workers Strike

BARCELONA, Spain, March 15.—(AP)—A general strike among 28,000 gas and electricity workers was declared here tonight. Pickets and infantrymen are guarding electric power stations at Barcelona and Lerida, where mechanics drafted from the ranks of the military, together with volunteers, are operating the stations. The strikers demand appropriate funds for workers' pensions.

Director Floyd S. Young of the Lincoln park zoo yesterday announced the addition of Betty II. to the donkey menagerie of the park. Betty II. was born in the morning to Jack and Betty, two donkeys who have quarters at the north end of the zoo.

ONE GOVERNMENT OR MANY, CALLED PARK ACT ISSUE

The vote in the April 10 referendum to consolidate 22 scattered park districts in the city will decide whether the taxpayers of Chicago want their affairs under one government or under many, Prof. Charles E. Merriam of the University of Chicago told the Chicago Commonwealth club yesterday. The referendum is on the adoption of the Chicago park district act which provides for a board of five commissioners appointed by the mayor to administer the unified system.

At present the Circuit court judges appoint the members of the south park board, one of the 22 separate systems. This power, it has been asserted, places the judges under political pressure. Prof. Merriam declared that he believes the judges would be glad to see the park act adopted, thus freeing them of political considerations.

"I venture to say that the judges don't want the power of naming the south park board, as it tends to drag them into factional disputes," said Prof. Merriam. "It puts them under control of the ward boss.

"I'm not afraid of putting more power in the hands of the mayor. I'm more afraid of the present division of power among 22 scattered park boards with a lot of hide-and-seek politics."

Judge Francis S. Wilson of the Circuit court, who is now sitting on the Appellate bench, is president of the Commonwealth club. Judge Wilson and the club members are supporting the consolidation act.

NOTED POLISH SOLDIER WILL ARRIVE TODAY

Gen. Joseph Haller, commander of Polish forces in the world war, will arrive in Chicago this evening for a week's visit. He is touring the United States in an effort to raise funds for disabled war veterans of Polisch descent, some of them in this country. Many of the men in his army were residents of the United States who enlisted with him after being rejected here because of minor physical defects or not being citizens.

While in Chicago Gen. Haller will visit each of the 56 Polish parishes in the city. A banquet will be given for him Sunday evening at the Drake hotel by the Polish Army Veterans' Association of America. Mayor Kelly is to speak, and a number of United States army officers have been invited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, March 15.—A spectacular attempt to drive a wedge between the Catholic Youth organization and its leaders was made today by Baldur von Schirach, leader of the Hitler Youth movement, who issued a proclamation which was taken by Catholic church officials as a threat to Catholic freedom of conscience.

Fortified by the concordat with the Vatican allowing the church to continue to control the religious education of its faithful, the Catholic Youth organizations have refused to merge with the Hitler Youth movement.

Issues Edict to Catholic Youth.

Today Von Schirach addressed the following proclamation to Catholic children:

"Catholic Youth—the German nation is awaiting your historical step and your great action. Do you want to be branded in history as a destructive force which sabotaged the unity of the reich and the future of Germany?

"For the sake of your honor we demand an answer. German youth believes its honor compels it to go down in the annals of history as the creator of German unity. The nation still believes you of the Catholic Youth will abandon lip service, take action, and join our ranks and relinquish all private privileges.

"We want an answer from you—not from your leaders and secretaries, who have driven you into a quandary and who have proved they have no understanding for Germany and for unity. The whole nation wants to hear your answer. It will sit in judgment on you and its sentence will be passed on to history."

Ulm Priests Protest.

In Ulm priests protested to the government because last Sunday the Hitler Youth group was taken to ceremonies in the Ulm cathedral, which is Protestant.

In Essen the priest Father J. Gauger has been expelled from the Association of Journalists because the magazine which he edited "insulted the government." He will be barred from journalistic activities and his magazine may appear only after he appoints an editor approved by the government.

Czechs Send Protest.

The Czechoslovakian government meanwhile intervened today with the German government in an effort to obtain the release of the Czechoslovakian correspondent Ludwig Popper, who was arrested secretly four days ago.

Popper was charged with telephoning reports to his paper, the Prague Tageblatt, "complicating the investigation of the Polish espionage case against George von Sosnowski," who was arrested in Berlin with a group of friends including a son of the late Gen. von Falkenhayn and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Berg, all prominent socially.

STRIKE FEARED IN AUTO PLANTS; JOHNSON ACTS

Expect Decision Will Be Reached Today.

It further related that in the fall of 1933 employé plans for representation were adopted in practically all plants and that with 80 per cent of all General Motors employés voting a free choice of representatives was made, the representatives having the right to bargain collectively. Through the works councils, Mr. Knudsen related, all disputes in which direct negotiations were resorted to were amicably settled.

There had been no notice of any trouble over the union question, he stated, until March 5, when a telegram was received from "federal labor union No. 18,512" by the Buick company. Further, he said, the Buick company did not know how many of its employés were willing to be represented by this union.

Will Fight Coercion.

He averred that General Motors would go as far as possible in seeing that no employé was coerced into being represented by any labor organization not of his own choosing. With respect to the demands set forth in the telegram of March 5, he continued, the company was ready to allow union No. 18,512 to negotiate for specified employés, provided authority for the representation of the employés was shown.

"We are not, however, willing to recognize said union as such, nor to enter into any contract with it on behalf of our employés," was the ultimatum in the statement.

A. E. Barit, vice president of the Hudson Motor Car company, said his company was ignorant of the nature of the complaints made against it and asserted there were no unadjusted complaints before "our employés' industrial association."

Hudson Workers 9 to 1.

His statement declared that the Hudson employés had balloted 91.9 per cent to elect twenty-six representatives to bargain for them, and that the election was held strictly under employé supervision. Some of the representatives were members of union No. 18512. Mr. Barit said that all requests by the twenty-six for bargaining negotiations had been acceded to and that the results had been all to the benefit of the workers.

He made the charge that a local union, "affiliated with a national organization," had been active in the last two weeks in coercing Hudson employés to join it and to resign from the Hudson industrial organization. He added that the company would bargain with any duly elected representatives of its workers, but that these must show authority. The company would, he concluded, refuse to recognize union No. 18512 as such, or to enter into any contract with it on behalf of the workers.

DEMAND NEW CODE

Detroit, Mich., March 15.—[Special.]—In a statement today by the Auto Workers' union, cancelation of the present automobile code and substitution of another, sixfold program was demanded.

The statement was said by Detroit leaders of the union to be substantially the same as that made yesterday before the national labor board in Washington by Phil Raymond, communist candidate for mayor three years ago, and long identified with the Auto Workers' union.

What It Demanded.

It demanded:

A $35 minimum wage for a 30 hour week, a 30 per cent increase for those now receiving more than that minimum, no overtime, and a guaranteed minimum of 40 weeks' work a year.

Abolition of the "inhuman" speedup system and all its devices, and election of department committees to regulate all production schedules.

Recognition of the right to organize unions of the workmen's own choice, no victimization, abolition of so-called "spy systems," the right to strike and picket.

Equal Pay for Women.

No discrimination, particularly against Negroes and women, and equal pay for these classes.

Adequate cash relief to all unemployed auto workers, to be paid by employers, the city and state governments, and immediate enactment of the unemployment insurance bill.

The statement constituted an indictment of the industry as it now is operated, attacked the company unions' setup under last fall's code, flayed the American Federation of Labor activities, and called upon automobile workers everywhere to "prepare for strike actions to win the above demands, disregarding the A. F. of L. officials who attempt to hold them back from a victorious struggle."

KENTUCKY HOUSE DEMANDS PAPER REVEAL WRITER

Threatens Libel; Editor Sues for $50,000.

Louisville, Ky., March 15.—(AP)—A demand from the Kentucky house that President Roosevelt recall Robert W. Bingham, United States ambassador to London, unless his newspaper revealed the author of "The Psalm of Politics," burst late today in a renewal of the warfare over whether a newspaperman should violate a confidence.

The resolution requesting the recall of Bingham was telegraphed to President Roosevelt tonight when the time expired for the newspaper to reveal the name of the author of the "Psalm" to the house. The paper had been given six hours to reply.

The resolution was adopted, 44 to 39, after a day of battle that included the filing of a $50,000 damage suit at the house lobby investigating committee, and a barrage of ugly words from both sides.

"There has been a lie," Representative Robert E. Webb said referring to the resolution regarding Judge Bingham, "either by the paper which published 'The Psalm of Politics' or by a member of this house," and he added, "the time has come to take drastic action." The general assembly adjourns tonight.

Threaten Libel Action.

The house lobby investigating committee recommended to the house that the state attorney general and the commonwealth's attorney in Louisville "investigate the corporation known as the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times for the publication of a criminal libel against the officers of the commonwealth of Kentucky."

The Courier-Journal today editorially said the house had made itself "ridiculous," and the Times, jointly owned, in editorial and cartoon depicted its legislative opponents as "jackasses," for the action in holding Vance Armentrout, associate editor of the Courier-Journal, in contempt for refusing to tell who wrote the famous "Psalm."

Armentrout, a mild and unassuming type of about 50, filed the damage suit against the seven members of the house lobby investigating committee which sent him to jail March 6. He was freed in an hour, the judge holding his arrest was illegal.

All Deny Writing It.

All 100 members of the house denied they wrote the article which bore at the end, in place of a name, the words, "One Who Believes in Honest Government, a Member of the House of Representatives."

During debate Representative Henry Ward, a member of the staf of the Paducah Sun-Democrat, who along with a number of others had upheld Armentrout, exclaimed, "My reaction to all this talk is—to use that vulgar expression—Nerts!"

Armentrout announced last night he would not pay the $25 and costs assessed against him by the house, on a 65 to 21 vote, which held him in contempt, but that the house would have to sue him for it. He followed this by filing his own suit today, charging his arrest was illegal and had caused him mental anguish, embarrassment, and unsought publicity.

"I regard that suit as a joke, just as I regard the 'kangaroo' proceedings held by the court of the Franklin County court, in which he disobeyed the statutes by releasing a commonwealth's prisoner," said Chairman Bullitt.

Secretary and Mrs. Ickes to Attend U. of C. Dinner

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, and his wife will be guests at the fourth annual dinner and assembly of 900 alumni of the University of Chicago at the Knickerbocker hotel tomorrow night. Both were classmates on the Midway. Secretary Ickes and President Robert M. Hutchins of the university will be the principal speakers. Prof. Charles E. Merriam will be toastmaster, and Paul S. Russell, trustee, and chairman of the Alumni council, will preside.

Bundesen and Auditorium Hotel Sued for $600,000

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the city board of health, and the owners of the Auditorium hotel, 430 South Michigan boulevard, were named in a suit filed yesterday in the Superior court seeking damages totaling $600,000. The suit was filed by W. V. O'Keefe of San Diego, Cal., and his wife, Anna, who charge they contracted amebic dysentery while staying at the hotel last summer. The suit charges Dr. Bundesen neglected his duties in failing to quarantine the hotel and warn the public of the disease when it was first discovered in the city. O'Keefe and his wife ask $300,000 each from Dr. Bundesen and the hotel owners.

A TRUE STORY
By A FARM MOTHER

who learned in 1922 how to keep her family well with the doctor miles away

COMFORT, Texas, is real farm country. The nearest place of any size is San Antonio many miles away. Read this letter from Mrs. Lena Gewalt Saur, who tells how she keeps her family well and happy.

"We have been Nujol users since 1922," writes Mrs. Saur, "because in that year Nujol set my aged father back on the road to normal health after a serious operation.

"Now we are on the third generation, so far as Nujol is concerned. My small Bunny and Tinker (Fred and Richard Saur) know very little of medicine, and they never know how often Nujol and orange or tomato juice go down together. Being a farm mother, miles from a doctor's aid, I have learned how essential regularity is in avoiding those ailments where a doctor is needed. We haven't the time, money, or desire to be sick.

"We think it is a wonderful thing that any remedy can be so good for you, and at the same time be perfectly harmless and form no habit. I am just sorry for the people who get to rely on cathartics and laxatives. It doesn't seem to me that they can be leading very healthy lives.

"Our own isn't the only Nujol story in the family, either. We have a young cousin who works in an office, and who has no chance for exercise. Nujol has become a health habit with her. There is our grandmother, too, who in later life found to her surprise that constipation was not necessary, thanks to Nujol.

"So we are using it still, and this little firm of We Us and Company will continue to use Nujol so that our physical engines may run smoothly and efficiently."

Nothing we could add to Mrs. Saur's letter would make it any more convincing. Follow her example. See what Nujol will do for you—bring your children up on it and make them regular as clockwork. Get it at any drug store, now in two forms, plain Nujol and Cream of Nujol, the latter flavored and often preferred by children.

What is your Nujol story? If you have been using Nujol for ten years or more, if you are bringing up your children on it, tell us. Address Stanco, Inc., 2 Park Ave., New York City.

Important Announcement to HOUSEWIVES

why THE GAS APPLIANCE SOCIETY OF METROPOLITAN CHICAGO was formed . . . and what it means to you

DURING the past four months, an organization has been developed which is destined to perform an invaluable service for the women of Chicago.

That organization is the Gas Appliance Society of Metropolitan Chicago.

Its laboratory, located at 700 North Sacramento Blvd., is completely equipped to test gas appliances. Exceptional standards of quality, efficiency, and convenience have been established.

Gas appliances submitted to the society, which measure up to its rigid requirements, will be marked with the "Tested and Approved" seal.

The particular attention of the Gas Appliance Society has been focused on the gas range, because it is the most important and most frequently used appliance in the average home. To be eligible for testing, gas ranges submitted to the Society must already bear the Blue Star Seal of Approval of the American Gas Association.

Modern gas ranges produced by several well-known manufacturers have already been tested and approved by the Society. These ranges are all marked by the "Tested and Approved" seal and are being displayed by nearly 200 authorized dealers who are certified members of the Gas Appliance Society.

We suggest that you visit one of these dealers, whether you intend to buy a gas range or not. Bring yourself up-to-date on the marvelous improvements that have been made in gas ranges.

Find out why the modern gas range makes the foods you cook more appetizing and appealing, and how it saves time and money, saves steps, and makes the preparation of the meal easier and more enjoyable.

Most dealer members of the Society sell "Tested and Approved" gas ranges on easy terms with a small down payment.

Renters—Attention: When you rent an apartment or home, make sure that it is equipped with a modern gas range. Insist upon seeing the "Tested and Approved" seal of the Gas Appliance Society.

The "Tested and Approved" seal identifies the following gas ranges: A-B · Alcazar · Detroit Jewel · Garland · Laurel · Magic Chef · Moore Vanity · Roper · Universal

FIND U. S. BRANCH PLANTS FOREIGN TRADE PROBLEM

Competition with Home Market Questioned.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

American manufacturers seem to be increasing their branch factories abroad at a rapid rate and serious interest is being centered on how far this may tend to "hamstring" American labor and industry in the race for foreign trade, one of the great factors in business recovery.

In 1932 there were 711 United States companies each with $50,000 or more invested in foreign units. The number of their branch factories abroad was 1,819 and the total investment was $2,177,693,244. Estimates are that the number has now grown to more than 2,000 factories and in investment of perhaps 3 billion dollars, when units of less than $50,000 are figured in.

At the end of 1929 American corporations had $1,534,351,000 invested in 1,236 branch plants in foreign lands, after a tremendous expansion abroad when the bull market was at its height. These plants comprise about 10 per cent of the total foreign investments of the United States.

The comparative figures, all of which have been gleaned from various government reports, indicate the growth during the depression era, which has brought into high relief again the question of whether the foreign branch factory movement is a menace or a benefit to American workers and industry.

On this point there have been conflicting opinions for years.

A desire to get behind tariff walls is deemed the leading cause. As a Trojan horse, the branch factory has got into the walled markets where countries have built up retaliatory tariffs. But once in, it is complained, the horse is found filled with foreign labor, and the argument is that the product of the branch then often enters into direct competition in the world markets with the output of the home plants in America. While the branch plant may mean greater dividends for stockholders, it is argued that it ultimately means fewer jobs for workers.

The geographical distribution of American manufacturing plants abroad at the end of 1929, as reported to the senate in 1931 by the department of commerce, is shown in the table below. Excluded from the tabulation were investments which do not represent a transplanting of an American industry to a foreign country in competition with export of American made products. Among investments thus excluded were those in Canadian pulp and paper industries, in smelters, petroleum refineries, sugar centrals, and raw rubber processing, investments which supply raw materials vital to American industries:

AMERICAN MANUFACTURERS ABROAD.

Europe—	No. plants.	Value.
Great Britain	169	$ 268,189,000
Germany	78	138,927,000
France	86	90,913,000

Australia and New Zeal'd	42	$ 49,816,000
Total	1,236	$1,534,351,000

	No. plants.	Value.
Electrical and telephone equipment	42	$164,044,000
Automotive vehicles and accessories	43	83,384,000
Machinery—
Agricultural and industrial	51	59,724,000

Rubber products	7	12,461,000
Miscellaneous	105	158,034,000
	453	$628,895,000

Setup in Canada.

In Canada, of the 524 American branch factories, valued at $540,593,000, six were automobile plants worth $56,097,000, and 32 were in automobile accessories, at a value of $11,000,000. Some $55,000,000 was invested in 22 branch American electrical and telephone equipment plants, and $60,000,000 in 46 branch agricultural and industrial machinery plants. More than $47,000,000 was invested in 8 American branch rubber plants, and $44,000,000 in 113 branch plants in the paint, pharmaceutical, toilet preparations and chemicals industries.

Back in 1929, the attention of congress was attracted to the branch factory movement during consideration of the Hawley-Smoot tariff. The American Federation of Labor in its 1929 convention took the attitude that the establishment of foreign branch plants by American concerns is detrimental to American labor, insofar as the foreign-made product adversely affects the exports of the American factory.

Competition Noted.

The department of commerce in a report to congress in 1931 said that while it is not possible to ascertain the effect of branch factories on our foreign trade, still "it is quite evident that there is a certain amount of competition between the branch factories and the parent plants in the United States as regards neutral markets."

Similar views were expressed by the house ways and means committee in Washington in 1932, in urging an international tariff conference. The committee reported that by reason of retaliatory tariffs, American manufacturers have moved plants to foreign countries with the result that "thousands of American employés are thrown out of employment and their places taken by the foreign working man."

The great movement of branch plants in the last two years has been in the direction of Canada. The Dominion bureau of statistics in September, 1931, gave the number of American branch plants in Canada as 1,071 and the capital investment as $1,189,590,000. These figures included paper and pulp, public utilities and American investments for exploitation of mineral resources.

A report of the Canadian Pacific railroad in 1932 said that 145 American branch plants had been established in the preceding two years, of these 70 being in Toronto, 41 in Quebec, and 20 in Montreal. The investment represented by the new establishments was about $150,000,000.

In getting behind the tariff wall of Canada, our best customer, the branch factories also get behind preferential walls set up for other parts of the British empire. The department of commerce in 1931 pointed out that in other markets, some Canadian exports were likely to be products of American branch factories in the Dominion. These would be in competition with goods mad in the United States.

For instance, 15 per cent of Canada's exports of automobiles went to Latin America, where possible American branch plants in Canada competed for business against American made goods. About 44 per cent of Canada's exports of phonographs went to Latin America, and 28 per cent of its exports of tires; and to a degree in these industries American capital may have made the Canadian worker in an American branch factory the rival of the American workers in the parent factory in the United States.

Show Loss of Markets.

Among instances cited by critics of the branch factory movement is that of an American factory which set up a branch in Poland and took away a market in Europe supplied by a North Carolina mill. A shoe factory set up with American dollars in Czechoslovakia had an installation of up to date American machinery. It turned out a variety of heavy cheap shoes with cheap labor and took away an old market from New England shoe factories.

On the other side of the argument some manufacturers hold that in the long run the branch plants expand the market for parts, materials, supplies, and machinery made in the United States. The critics hold that, while in some industries the branch factory does not enter into competition with its output back home, the broad aspect of the migration of industry is that European industries are being established more and more on an Americanized mass production basis, which, with cheaper labor, strengthens them in the competition for foreign trade in neutral markets.

BRITAIN AND POLAND AGREE ON PROGRAM FOR INCREASED TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, March 15.—Prospects for increased trade between Poland and Great Britain are improving, according to the British trade delegation, headed by Sir Eugene Ramsden, which today departed for London, after an eight day investigation of the Polish market.

The information obtained by the British delegation will be used during coming negotiations in London, when Britain hopes to reduce Poland's favorable trade balance, which last year amounted to $20,000,000.

Conversations between the Britons and heads of Polish industries manufacturing competitive products resulted in the formulation of a tentative program by which larger purchases of herring, textile machinery, certain iron and steel products, woodwork, chemicals, agricultural machinery, tin plate, and electrical goods will be made by Poland, with Britain agreeing to continue buying Polish bacon, eggs, and timber.

The present visit was one of a series of moves which Britain began a year ago to conquer markets of northeastern Europe.

FRANCE SLAPS QUOTAS ON NEW U. S. EXPORT LIST

Limits Many Products for First Time.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 15.—France today dealt herself a handful of aces for the coming game of trade and barter with the United States by suddenly slapping import quotas on a number of important American exports that have hitherto never been under quota.

The products which are placed on quota for the first time are published in today's Journal Officiel and include harvesters, binders, cultivators and other agricultural machinery except cream separators; natural silk hosiery, typewriters, electric wires and cables and nonferrous metals, which means aluminum, nickel, lead zinc and copper. Copper is one of the leading American exports to France, approximately 500,000 tons having been imported last year.

Seen as Trick.

American interests here are informed that there is no economic basis for contingenting these products and they are convinced that the sudden decision to put them on quota is a clever diplomatic move in view of the forthcoming trade negotiations with America. It is presumed that France intends to raise the tariffs on these products and has taken the step in restricting importation by quota to prevent stocking up before the new customs schedules go into effect.

Thus armed, France can announce her willingness to remove the quotas or to raise them to any desired figure and ask America what trade concessions she is willing to grant in return for lowering the tariff on harvesters, typewriters, copper, and the rest of the list. If the negotiations are successful American exporters of these products will be able to sell only as much as they did last year.

This sounds Machiavellic, but it is just part of the international poker game as it is played by all governments and diplomats, and American business men over here only regret that Uncle Sam does not seem to know the tricks so well as his opponents.

In this case it is pointed out that the French seem definitly to have stolen a march, since while they are busy putting on new quotas to be taken off later, the United States government has taken off the only quota we have—the wine quota.

Effect Hard to Estimate.

The immediate effect of the new quotas on American export business is hard to estimate since the government has only announced the global totals for the whole world and has not yet fixed America's share. The global totals, with the exception of silk hosiery, are based on imports into France during 1932.

Thus, if the French government follows the precedent set last January in alloting America 100 per cent of her 1932 figures—which is probable but by no means certain—the best American business can hope for is to equal the export figures of 1932, which was a disastrous year for American trade. tons less in 1932 than last year. In 1932 only some 143 tons of harvesters were sold in France while in 1933 191 tons were sold.

Establishment of the quota on typewriters hits the United States harder than any other country, for nearly all typewriters used in France are of American origin. There is only one prominent French company manufacturing typewriters, and the French cannot get along without American ones.

POLICE SHOOTING CASE TO BE SENT TO JURY TODAY

CRIMINAL COURT.

George Dyorch, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Michael Feinberg.

Joe Binder and Jesse Coco, burglary, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; Edward H. Davies, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Alexander D. Aspell, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Stephen Lakatich, robbery, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge George Fred Rush.

The trial of John Curry, 39 years old, and Hubert O'Donnell, 30 years old, charged with the shooting of Policeman Daniel Donovan, 6830 Ridgeland avenue, during an early morning holdup in the Frog Leg inn, 4233 Lake Park avenue, last Oct. 14, is expected to go to a jury in Judge George Fred Rush's Criminal court today.

The trial has been marked by conflicting testimony concerning the shooting of the policeman, who was wounded above the heart and is permanently crippled as the result.

Morris Musick, one of the original defendants, was dismissed at the close of presentation of the prosecution's evidence. Attorney Harold Levy, representing Curry and O'Donnell, promptly called Musick to the stand as the first defense witness. Musick testified that the wounded policeman originally had positively identified him as his assailant.

The defense attorney further complicated the case by calling as his second witness Miss Patricia Lilly, 4141 Ellis avenue, then an entertainer in the tavern, who was taken to court as a prosecution witness, but was not called to the witness stand. She denied that Curry, now identified as the assailant of the policeman, was the man who did the shooting.

F. L. ROBERTS LOSES CHICAGO U. S. TRADE POST

Frederic L. Roberts, who for six years was manager of the Chicago office of domestic and foreign commerce for the federal department of commerce, has been removed from his post, it was learned yesterday. Roberts, who also was district compliance director for the National Recovery administration in the states of Illinois and Wisconsin, was relieved of those duties on Feb. 15. He is now assistant director of NRA activities in Chicago.

A successor to Roberts' department of commerce post will be named in Washington today. It was reported unofficially that the new Chicago manager will be D. K. Crevey, a former department of commerce attaché in the Chicago office. The removal of Roberts completed the reduction in department of commerce employés begun in Chicago last May 15. Fifteen employés have been dismissed.

ROBBERS HOLD UP FIFTEEN.

Three robbers held up fifteen men and women in the Merchants Wholesale Grocery company offices at 4301 South Ashland avenue and escaped after taking $700 from a safe.

"I'm a Fireman but I'm through with firing a furnace"

"I don't mind fighting fires, but I do mind furnace tending," says Mr. Fisher.

"Why should I mess around with shoveling coal, chopping kindling and hauling out ashes when gas heat rates are so low?" says Mr. Fisher. Here he is playing checkers with a friend.

SERVICE!

HARD-TO-PLEASE laboratory workers, who can't be fooled about what a gas range or gas heater should be, test every type of gas appliance before it is approved for sale in the stores of The Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

If your range, or laundry-drier, or water-heater doesn't work right—even if you bought it at any one of the other places where these are sold—an expert service man from Peoples Gas will tell you what's wrong and, if possible, correct the fault.

All a part of the service supplied to Chicago homes where gas cooks and heats for but a few cents a day.

Gas heat can be installed without allowing your house to cool off

STARTLING TRIAL OFFER!

To prove that every home can afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . and remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

YOU INVEST NOTHING!

Without ONE CENT of investment by you, we install the most modern burner in your furnace or boiler. If you are satisfied, it stays. If not—and you are the sole judge—out it comes and your former heating system is re-installed—AT OUR EXPENSE. We make this offer because of our confidence in the perfection of gas heat.

READ what a fireman thinks of gas heat! "I don't mind fighting fires—but I do mind furnace tending," says Mr. George G. Fisher. "And why should I mess around with shoveling coal, chopping kindling and hauling out ashes, when gas heat rates are so low?

"With gas heat I never even have to think about the furnace. And it's a relief to know that my wife doesn't have to worry about the house being comfortable and warm. She gets just the heat she wants by regulating that little thermostat on the wall."

Thousands switch to gas as rates go down

Imagine your home free from soot, dust, dirt, and furnace drudgery! Imagine getting just the temperatures you want, night and day, by adjusting a little thermostat on the wall. Why put up with furnace worries any longer, when rates for gas heat are so low! Think of it—for heating homes, gas rates are now only half of what they were during the 1930-31 heating season.

And—you can try gas heat without investing one cent! We will install a burner in your present furnace or boiler at our own expense. You pay only the rental on the equipment, which amounts to $3 a month in the average home. This charge is included with the bill for the gas you use. You try it for a month, two months, a year. And if within the year you find that you are not completely satisfied with gas, we will take it out at our expense and replace your former heating equipment in good workmanlike order. But—if you decide to keep gas heat—as we think you will—the rental you have paid applies on the purchase price of the equipment.

WHAT OTHERS SAY:

Henry D. Bentsen
4920 Eddy Street, Chicago

"I like gas heat better than any of the modern conveniences I have in my home. It takes away more cares than all the rest."
Fred A. Johnson
218 S. First St., Geneva, Ill.

"We never knew what comfort was until we installed gas heat. I think it is the only thing. Basement always clean."
Alex M. Gentleman
10701 So. Seeley Ave., Chicago

Act now!

Don't delay! It is pure folly not to investigate this liberal offer on gas heat when it brings so many marvelous comforts and conveniences. Call your local gas company today for full information.

THE VETERANS—WHAT'S THE ANSWER?

When Mr. Coolidge and later Mr. Hoover opposed the veterans' bonus it was upon the ground that the country could not afford it; that it would seriously jeopardize the national financing, and even affect the public credit. Mr. Hoover appealed to the Legion convention with such arguments and was given an indorsement. Many of the veterans opposed their own comrades for such reasons.

President Roosevelt follows the Coolidge-Hoover precedent, but conditions have completely changed. It is useless to try to explain them in the terms of the normal and the abnormal budget, of the balanced budget and the wild budget. Few people will persistently draw the line between the expenses the government can afford and expenses it has but cannot afford. They may understand that President Roosevelt wants a balanced budget within two or three years, but that understanding does not prevail against the facts contained in the emergency expenditures.

When the veterans first asked for their bonus they were asking compensation for military service. Even then the government had many beneficiaries, but nothing like the present. Now it has an applied theory that the federal government shall support the needy and indigent. It is rescuing the debtor from debts he cannot pay, dividing the creditor's dollar about in half, taking the mortgages off homes and farms, paying citizens for things they do not produce upon the pledge not to produce them, and paying for work which need not be done or which is not done. It is an applied theory that purchasing power, the consumer's ability to buy what he wants, shall be pumped up with federal money, which will serve its main purpose if it gets into the hands of people who will spend it.

On the score of restored benefits and pay it is almost impossible to present any arguments to the veterans who are part of the consuming public or to the public servants who had their pay cut by government when the government was commanding that private industry raise wages and reduce working hours. No show of logic or consistency can possibly be made to support the one policy for one hand and another policy for another. When a tentative public debt of 35 or 40 billion dollars is in view as the consequences of abnormal expenditures for public relief, the authority and credibility of economy are lost. In that direction the safety of the nation may lie, in the other direction there may be ruin, but the case for sound finance is hard to present in one or two particulars when the whole general scheme reveals contrary purpose. It is almost impossible to face indignant citizens who have done something for the country or who are now doing it and tell them they are outside the thought of the nation and that they do not rank with the farmers, subsidized for not raising grain or for plowing up cotton, with the CWA worker for whom work was made, with the property owner whose debts are assumed, with the Tennessee valley people whose whole lives have been taken in charge, and with all the other beneficiaries of governmental solicitude.

This point of view is persistent when veteran benefits and government pay are considered, but there is still an argument which can be made against the folly of starting printing press money to pay a bonus. The men in congress who have given and will give their votes to the issuance of greenbacks must have the sense to hope that some agency will save the country from them.

If a final crash is to be avoided the voice of the conservative must be raised and heard; but just now it has been stilled by the purposes and the projects of the planned society.

FUSTIAN.

It appears that declamation contests are still being held in the schools. The contestants all learn the same piece by heart and he who recites it most nearly to the satisfaction of the judges is the winner. Some 10,000 children in the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades of the Cook county schools outside Chicago are at present engaged in such a contest. This year's recitation [O fragrant word!] is entitled "What Makes a Leader."

It appears, also, that the school trustees of District No. 161, in Flossmoor, have objected to the selected composition on the ground that it is political propaganda. Certainly a reading of a brief excerpt does not suggest that the author is a Republican. The praise of the present administration does appear to be a bit fulsome, and we know a number of fathers who would take appropriate action if the brave words of the declamation were to be uttered around the house by Junior.

Still, the school trustees of Flossmoor failed to make their best case. The alleged political partisanship may be objectionable to some listeners, but the quality of the political thinking, and more especially the rhetoric, ought to be universally objectionable. A tolerant parent might retain affection for a son who showed a tendency to become a Democrat, or even a communist, but any son who had been taught to esteem the hifalutin phrases of the declamation would have to be disowned in the interest of the family honor. The best that could be expected of the boy would be a career as a vender of Indian snake oil.

"So yesterday, when the nation was on the verge of crumbling and the pulse of our people was at its lowest ebb, America brought forth a new leader," begins the peroration. That sentence might have educational value if it were used as an example of how not to think and write. If children were taught to recognize that kind of utterance as hogwash, compounded of mixed metaphors and boloney, the republic might be safe for another generation.

One of the great faults to be found with the teaching in our common schools is the widespread neglect of the important subject of demagogics, with the result that citizens are not on their guard against buncombe and do not readily detect it. The spectacle of grown men and women who look to new leaders instead of themselves for the solution of their difficulties is one consequence. Another is Huey Long. It is too bad that the children are not given at least a brief introduction to the demagog, but much worse to invite them to admire demagogic writing.

THE FORGOTTEN COAL MINER.

The coal industry has organized what is called the National Job Saving and Investment Protective league, whose mission it is to call attention to the damage which the government's hydroelectric subsidies can work to miners and mine owners. The organization speaks for both labor and management in the coal industry, both of which clearly recognize the menace which the government's program holds for them.

The league has wisely narrowed the issue for the moment to a particular venture, though as a matter of fact all of the projects, Boulder dam, Muscle Shoals, the Columbia river, and the St. Lawrence power scheme, as well as the Loup river development in Nebraska, all have one thing in common: Not one of them will ever pay even the interest on the money advanced for construction. They are all white elephants. They are all pork barrel products, intended to purchase votes in certain districts at the expense of the taxpayers elsewhere. The Loup river scheme out in Senator Norris' state is not the largest of the schemes by any means and therefore not the most outrageous, but it will serve as well as any for purposes of illustration and it has been chosen as the issue by the league.

Officials of the league telegraphed to Secretary Ickes requesting a public hearing on the economic soundness of the venture. No reply had been received nearly a fortnight later. The inference is unmistakable. The government cannot bring itself to deny so reasonable a request, for that would be an admission that the government is high handed and arbitrary; on the other hand, the government is determined to go ahead with a scheme which it is unwilling to defend at the bar of public opinion. Perhaps there is fear of creating a precedent. If a public hearing were permitted on the Loup river project the authorities could not refuse to hold hearings on the rest of the power program, with results which can easily be foreseen. The refusal of the government to grant a hearing to the air mail carriers has many points of resemblance.

There are various reasons for the certain failure of all the hydro projects. A reason which applies to some but not all of them is the variability in the flow of water over the seasons. A reason which is common to almost all of them is an absence of a nearby market for the electricity to be generated. A reason which applies to all of them, without exception, is the technological fact that there is very little room for improvement in hydro generation because the present equipment does not fall far short of maximum theoretical efficiency, whereas there is still a large possibility of increasing the efficiency of steam generators. The difference in cost between hydro and steam generation today is already so small as to be negligible when it is reckoned in the cost of electricity delivered at the home and factory. The differential is narrowing every year as the efficiency of the steam turbines is increased and it is not difficult to foresee the time when all but a few of the most favorably situated hydro plants will be as obsolete as an old fashioned wall telephone or a 1921 automobile.

Meanwhile, as the National Job Saving and Investment Protective league has pointed out, the construction of these hydro plants must be expected to cause a serious disturbance in the coal industry even though the hydro plants prove uneconomical. The government will have electric power to sell and will sell it below cost and below any price which the most efficient private company can offer. The government can do so because its losses will be paid by taxpayers who will not be consulted. The result, of course, will be the loss of a present and potential market for coal, with resulting injury to a basic industry which was in a grave state of depression long before depression was a national problem.

A narrowed market for coal means fewer jobs for miners and lower wages for those who remain. Collaterally, it means fewer jobs on the railroads [coal traffic constituting the largest single item for many of them] and smaller revenues for the railroad companies, which in turn must lead to higher freight rates on other commodities. It means the destruction of existing investment in private generating equipment and perhaps in private distributing systems as well. All of these consequences are ignored by those who choose to regard themselves as national planners. They talk a lot about the greatest good of the greatest number, but as the fate of the appeal of the league plainly shows, they fear to subject their wastrel schemes to analysis from precisely the point of view of the greatest good of the greatest number. As the record stands, they have convicted themselves of reckless extravagance and hypocrisy.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Times.]

The 1,300 high school editors in their recent convention heard some good advice, let us hope, from their confrères in the field of grown-up journalism. It is not unlikely that they imparted some useful counsel in return. But at any point in the discussions did any one raise the somber question whether the boy and girl editors were not dedicating themselves to a dead-end industry and a lost cause?

Judging from what one hears in the more intellectual circles, the outlook for a free press is no better than for free institutions in this country, along with the rest of the world. What is the use of boys and girls learning how to produce a good newspaper when there will be a Fascist or communist colored shirt to tell them how? When all government has passed into the hands of the strong men life will be just one big "handout." Action, thought, speech will be strictly in accordance with blueprint supplied from headquarters.

That is what the intellectualists say. Our own opinion is that there will be free newspapers in the United States. The high school Defoes and Greeleys are not wasting their time.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"BRIDE Mourns Husband and $1,000."—La Trib. Debating clubs are always writing in for new subjects to argue about. The question which came first, the hen or the egg, or whether General Johnson is greater than Julius Cæsar seems to be pretty well worn thin and they want something fresh and lively. Well, that headline furnishes a grand subject for debate: "Resolved, That a Bride Should Mourn More for the Thousand Dollars than for the Husband." The affirmative could insist that a thousand bucks is a thousand bucks and that even if the bride got her husband back he would probably insist on playing the radio after midnight and he would keep repeating, "Now, that's just what I said was going to happen," every time he read aloud a news item out of the newspaper." On the other hand, the negative could dwell on the fact that the thousand berries is only worth in these days something like fifty-nine cents on the dollar, while a husband could be put in jail for swiping the thousand dollars, and it would be a great pleasure to go over every afternoon and twit him through the jail bars and tell him how many kinds of earthworm he is. Much could be said on both sides and debating clubs ought to go right after it.

REBUILDING.

Come, let us build tonight,
Here, on the ashes of old sorrows,
A fire of new dreams.
Let us warm our hands
Before the clear, pure flames
Of that which is to be.

The new fire crackles,
Contentment fills my heart.
Without, the winter wind;
Within, a strange new warmth.
Yesterday is a day forgotten,
Tonight a vivid hope,
Tomorrow—what shall it be?

Soon dawn shall come, the night past—
And on the hearth the vision brightly glows.

Come, let us build tonight,
Here, on the ashes of old sorrows,
A fire of new dreams.

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

A DEAR OLD Chicago woman, commenting on her sex, says, "Ladies don't smoke and they don't paint their finger nails nor do they drink." But just the other evening there was a great cigaret smoke screen all over the place and under it many feminine hands with the finger nails painted bright red were pushing cocktail glasses back and forth across the bar when the bartender said, "Ladies, it's closing time; closing time, ladies." Somebody's wrong.

THE KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE in the contempt proceedings against an editor says he must pay twenty-five dollars. Which after all was quite a compliment.

OUR PRESIDENT.

(Being the Very Ecstatic Eulogy of Mr. Roosevelt by Ernest Victor Swanson of Grant Park, Ill.)

We know that things are better,
We should yell Hip, Hip, Hooray,
And give thanks to our President
For that good old N. R. A.

He's made the wages higher
And the working hours less,
A really wonderfull thing my friends
I'm sure you will confess.

He's made the future brighter,
His promise he surely kept,
He's only had the job a year,
And still has three years left.

He started the C. W. A. folks
To hurry things along,
He's hired us by the millions,
Lets all burst out in song.

He has other organizations
To cover everything,
To straighten out this mess of ours,
And prosperity surely bring.

We've had a lot of great ones,
Compared to him their small,
They never had such times as these,
If they had they'd surely fall.

He asks us for assistance,
We must do our part,
Buy only at the Blue Eagle Stores,
Let's all ride on the cart.

"HITLERITES MAY BAR Love in Marriage in Favor of Eugenics."—Headline. Looking around at the divorce record in America we might proudly say that we beat the Hitlerites to that idea a long time ago.

PRETTY SOON SPRING will come and we won't have to be bothered by coal bills, blizzards and winter itch. But there'll be mosquitoes and Nudists. After all there are worse things than coal bills, blizzards and winter itch.

BUSINESS AS USUAL.

The muse is not stirred
By threatened starvation:
But at so much a word
Per each inspiration

You can readily see—
Though not usually spoken—
It means money to me
To have my heart broken.

JUDY SHEA.

GENETICS IN EUROPE.

THERE is a definite tendency all over Europe and, in some measure, over North America, to add genetics to health programs. The present political program in Germany grew out of the German Youth Movement, and one of the features of that wave was better physical development. When that movement had blossomed into the present political control we began to hear of the improvement of the racial stock by various genetic procedures, as well as by mass athletics and out-of-door life.

Just now the world is somewhat agast at a proposal to sterilize a half million or more people so as to prevent them from contributing to the German racial stock. This negative eugenics measure is paralleled by others that are classed as positive eugenics procedures. The objective is to build a better racial stock parallel with the building up of a new economic structure. In Germany, education may be going down but health is coming up.

Mussolini is having much to say about intimate affairs of the Italian people. We read of prizes for large families and medals for mothers who have borne many children. He appears to be more interested in quantity rather than in quality. The Italian birth rate is falling. In many cities it is lower than the death rate. Mussolini is keeping books on these cities and on his entire country. He is said to be determined to make them balance more than one budget. If his genetics program covers quality in addition to quantity the news has not stressed the fact.

In Russia health is about the only part of the program that is keeping on schedule. Their health program contains many items and genetics is on the list. They are still a long way behind other European countries but they are catching up. During the last fifteen years there have been few of the great waves of epidemic disease that formerly swept across that country creating such havoc. They are much better vaccinated than we are, and if they are having as much smallpox as we the news is not reaching the world. Genetics is more prominent in their program than in that of any other country. We cannot understand the wisdom or the morals of much of that program, but they are giving us a chance to see what they can do in this line.

In Great Britain genetics is very much discussed. They have not gone as far in sterilization as we have. Possibly they are waiting to get the advantage of the experience of others. Meanwhile, their birth rate is falling rapidly.

APOPLEXY IN MIDDLE AGE.

X. Y. Z writes:

1. What would cause a person, not yet 40 years old, to have a stroke of paralysis?

2. Could it be caused from a slight leaky valve of the heart where it has never given any trouble?

3. Could this heart condition cause rheumatism?

4. Does rheumatism jump from one place to another?

REPLY.

1. A stroke of apoplexy occurring in a person under 40 is apt to be due to old syphilitic infection. Among the possible causes are atheroma of blood vessels of the brain, valvular heart disease, and nephritis.

2. Yes.

3. Yes. Rheumatism is one of the most frequent causes of valvular heart disease.

4. It does. It is a well known jumper.

HAS NOSE BLEEDS.

A. L. writes: I am a boy 20 years of age, 5 feet 9 inches, and weigh 145 pounds. I work as a polisher in a rhinestone jewelry factory. Lately I have been getting quite a few nose bleeds. Can you tell me the cause and the remedy?

REPLY.

Boys and girls 20 years of age and less are very prone to have nose bleed. As a rule, it is of little consequence in adolescents. I have no way of knowing what causes your nose to bleed. As a rule, polishing has hazards, but if the rhinestone jewelry polishing business has any special hazards I do not know of it.

ADDISON'S DISEASE.

Mrs. P. B. writes:

1. What is Addison's disease?

2. Is it fatal?

REPLY.

1. A disease of the adrenal glands, resulting in bronzing of the skin, anemia, and great weakness. It may result from tubercular infection of this gland.

2. In most cases it is. This is especially true of the cases due to tuberculosis. The new treatment is relieving most cases and appears to be curing a few.

CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS.

Chicago, March 11.—[Friend of the People.]—Am I eligible for enlistment in the conservation corps? I am not on the relief roll and never have been. My father is dead and I have a mother to support. At present my mother is living with her son-in-law and I am living with another son-in-law. I served with the National Guard three years and have an honorable discharge. Must I apply to charity before I can join? E. R.

We should like to make it clear that the provisions as to eligibility for enrollment in Civilian Conservation corps have been established by the United States department of labor as selecting agency. Among these requirements the department of labor has indicated that financial need of the applicant and his dependents is of primary importance, and that therefore all selections should be made as far as possible from the rolls of families receiving public and private relief. If any deviation from this procedure is to be permitted, we suggest you confer with the nearest office of the relief administration.

APARTMENT LEASE.

Chicago, March 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I signed a lease for a flat for one year from September, 1933, to October, 1934. 1. Can I notify the owner that I am moving? 2. I will give him two months' rent; that is, March and April. Do you think he would let me move or [3] what would you advise I should do? R. M. P.

1. He could not seize your assets if your rent is paid to date, if that is what you mean to ask.

2. He would not be obliged to accept this in lieu of your liability for the balance of the terms that you agreed upon.

3. You are liable for the full rent that you originally agreed to pay.

CLAIM AGAINST ESTATE.

Rock Island, Ill., March 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When my two brothers and I were children my father and mother drew up a joint will leaving all personal property and real estate to the surviving one, to be divided equally between the children at his or her death. They both lived to be near eighty. My mother died some years ago leaving real estate valued at $30,000. There has been no sale of this property. I spent the best years of my life working at home doing outside work when in need of clothes. During my mother's last illness my brothers promised her they would do the right thing by me. They have since died, leaving widows. Is there any way I can come in for a larger share of the property than they? S. O. S.

You might file a claim in the probate proceedings on the theory that you were entitled to a salary. Your chances of success would depend largely on all the circumstances going to indicate the understanding at the time the services were rendered.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY HUGH CURRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State. — What might be called "the battle of the prayer books" is being waged in Dublin. It is a bloodless affair and has nothing whatever to do with opposing religions, for all Irishmen are more or less on the same side. It is between the workers of the printing trade as against the retailers of prayer books of all religions. The former are seeking to secure the right to print all such religious works in the Free State. The tariff commissioner has been ordered to investigate the facts with the view, if considered desirable, of imposing a prohibitive tariff on imported prayer books.

The imported articles are cheaper by an enormous margin. Catholic prayer books are printed and bound cheaper in Germany, Belgium, and Czechoslovakia than they can be printed at home, and the demand is for a tariff of at least 150 per cent ad valorem.

There used to be a story that most of the Catholic prayer books used in this country were printed by convict labor in Austrian prisons, and in view of the many printing errors which they showed this may have been possible. No allegation of convict labor is now being adduced, but it is clear that low wage rates and high profits for the wholesaler and retailer are the main causes of the prevalence of the foreign printed work. Except in regard to certain books in Latin used by the clergy, which are chiefly printed abroad, the Catholic authorities are adopting a neutral attitude.

Protestant bodies, such as the Association for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge and the Methodist church, which circulate enormous numbers of Bibles, which are printed by mass production, chiefly in England, and sold very cheaply, would regard a tariff which would prohibit these imports as a real grievance. No Irish printing firm could produce these books at the prices at which they are now sold.

The printing trade claims that in former years religious printing was done here and that with protection it could be done again. It is alleged on their behalf that the Catholic bishops in the United States five or six years ago, in the interest of American printers, had issued a decree that no foreign printed works should be used in their institutions, but the chairman of the commission said inquiry had been made as to that allegation and that the information was that the American bishops never made any such ruling. Pending further information that statement would have to be considered as disputed.

It is argued by one newspaper on behalf of the Protestant churches that a tariff would be a breach of the Free State constitution in that it would restrict the freedom of religion.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Address Voice of the People, The Tribune.

SOME CAN'T TAKE IT.

Chicago, March 13.—It seems to me that I see only too often in the Voice of the People letters severely criticizing THE TRIBUNE for its attitude on various subjects, particularly on the present administration. I do not see the same inclination to give space to such strong criticism in other Chicago newspapers. I am sure that the explanation is not that the other newspapers do not receive such criticism, but that they decline to give the complainant the satisfaction of space in their publications. I admire immensely the attitude of THE TRIBUNE in this respect, for I believe it shows its real strength of character, the courage of its convictions, and its confidence in the correctness of the principles which it advocates.

I am old enough to have heard the voice of the American people time and again thanking God for this man and that, and then to have seen that same people repudiate decisively the man that only a few years before they were thanking God for. I have heard them thanking God for Wilson; thanking God for Hoover that he spared us from Smith, and now thanking God for Roosevelt. I want to take this opportunity to do a little thanking on my own part for the priceless service rendered to this country through many years of storm and strife, so I say fervently and sincerely, thank God for our CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

DIEHARD CAPITALISM.

Lake Forest, Ill., March 10.—Your cartoons and editorials making sport of the New Deal are inexcusable. It is too bad that you are allowed to get away with it. If you cannot offer some constructive criticism why not pipe down? Your attitude condones the diehard capitalism that has been the cause of all the trouble. Don't worry, you knockers will be taken care of in due time.

RADICAL.

CONCERNING IRISH SHIRTS.

Chicago, March 9.—In your issue of March 9, J. M. writes that the Irish are wearing real shirts now. His extensive knowledge of this type of apparel would indicate that he has played the rôle of participant instead of observer as he would have us believe.

He attempts to cast reflections in the pond of public opinion but in so doing we see a reflection of J. M. himself still wearing the Minneapolis flour bag or perhaps an Idaho potato sack, who knows?

The fact that the Irish are now wearing real shirts makes him envious. Why? Because he still sticks to the primitive sackcloth.

Buy a real shirt, J. M., and see how you feel. Why not ask the man who wears one?

TELEGRAPHERS' TROUBLES.

Chicago, March 9.—The caption "Are P. O. Conditions Better?" on "Mere Telegrapher's" letter to the Voice of the People today shows an unnecessary ignorance of telegraph conditions as compared with those of postoffice employés.

Casual inquiry of telegraph employés in any of the Western Union or Postal branches in the loop or in the main offices would develop information that telegraph clerks or operators are receiving the minimum under the President's reëmployment agreement [$15] or very little more. Messenger boys, who are exempt from the PRA, receive as little as $3 per week. Well, are P. O. conditions better?

Skilled automatic operators who handle an average of 100 telegrams an hour in the main office are receiving $70 per month. Do you think P. O. conditions are better?

I am not contending that P. O. conditions are satisfactory by any means, but as compared with telegraph conditions they are infinitly better.

After six months of running from one department to another, the Commercial Telegraphers' union has not been able to find out when the telegraph companies will be placed under a permanent code of fair competition. We, therefore, look with some hope that the proposed communications act will be amended so as to provide some favorable labor provisions, similar to those in the railway labor act.

As for censorship of the press under the proposed communications act, I have found nothing which would give the federal communications commission that power, except during war. I would suggest your editorial writer read the act.

FRANK B. POWERS,

BASEBALL OR SYMPHONY?

Monticello, Ill., March 8.—Our favorite musical program, the New York Philharmonic Symphony, is to be taken off the air in the Chicago area when the baseball season starts in April. HITLER RENEWS ARMS DEMANDS IN NOTE TO PARIS

Asks for Regular German Army of 300,000.

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler reiterated his views on armaments in his latest note to France, it was learned authoritatively tonight, and made a new demand for a regular German army.

Slightly more moderate language was used than in previous communications. But at the same time the master of the reich flatly denied the French charge that Nazi storm troopers are actually soldiers.

The government began an immediate study of the note. So serious is the situation that Louis Barthou, foreign minister, changed a message on arms which he expects to send to England.

Seen as Move to Isolate France.

In well informed quarters it was said that the French regard the Hitler note as a new German maneuver to isolate France by uniting Italian, British, and German arms views.

Reports said the note had five chief points:

1. The countries signing the arms agreement would not increase material or the number of men under arms above the present figures.

2. Germany would transform its present defense army into an army of 300,000 men with a reduced term of service.

3. The length of service of the members of the new army would be from eighteen months to two years.

4. Germany would have the right to acquire the necessary defensive armaments for such an army.

5. The agreement would last six years.

The French press referred to the demand for an army of 300,000 men and this point was believed to be the chief matter being studied by government leaders tonight.

Britain Willing to Revise Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—Great Britain desires to make another effort for disarmament and is willing to consent to alterations of its recent proposals if that is necessary. This announcement was made to the house of lords tonight by Earl Stanhope, undersecretary of foreign affairs, during a disarmament debate.

Lord Stanhope declared the government will waste no time in considering replies to its disarmament memorandum.

"I think it is often forgotten that disarmament proposals do not depend on ourselves alone," he said. "The moment you get to the question of guarantees, it becomes extremely difficult, for instance, to get the United States to walk in step with us."

Create New Army Branch.

Simultaneously Alfred Duff Cooper, financial secretary of the war office, announced in the house of commons during discussion of army estimates the creation of a new branch of the territorial army, the British equivalent of the National Guard, to be called the Royal Defense corps.

This is to be recruited from men no longer fit for active service who could be used in an emergency to protect vulnerable points of the country.

A similar force of middle aged men was organized during the great war. They were used to guard roads, bridges, and reservoirs, thus freeing young men for service abroad.

CHINESE PIRATES LOOT NORWEGIAN SHIP; KIDNAP 10

HONG KONG, March 15.—(AP)—The Norwegian steamer Norviken reported today it had been looted by pirates early Tuesday morning off Turnabout island in Formosa strait, 60 miles southeast of Foochow. The Norviken left Shanghai for Hong Kong, but put into Swatow to make its report.

Its officers said 22 pirates boarded the ship at sea. No resistance was offered and there were no casualties. The pirates dismantled the wireless and steered the ship to Chilang Point where native junks took off the loot and 10 Chinese passengers to be held for ransom.

The British destroyer Wishart, which yesterday rescued the crew of the burning U. S. S. Fulton, had passed Chilang Point only three hours previously. Both the Wishart and the Fulton were on pirate patrol duty.

PATROL FIRES ON EX-KING ALFONSO ON AFRICAN HUNT

PARIS, March 15.—(AP)—Former King Alfonso of Spain and his companions, on a lion hunt in the Sudan, narrowly escaped death in an exchange of gunfire with a Sudanese patrol, reports from Egypt said today.

Each group mistook the other for bandits. The hunters, who left Cairo early in February, were plodding over a desolate stretch of desert in the region of the river Dender, when they were fired upon.

The former monarch and his party promptly returned the fire. Both sides continued firing several hours before the mistake was discovered.

Rumania Captures Leader of Outlawed Fascist Guard

BUCHAREST, Rumania, March 15.—(AP)—Corneliu Codreanu, leader of the outlawed fascist iron guard who escaped arrest in December by disguising himself as a woman, was arrested here today. Police had sought him since the dissolution of the anti-Semitic guard three months ago. About 3,500 persons, including Codreanu's father, were arrested at that time.

Whooping Cough Fatal to 20 Indians in Canada

ILFORD, Manitoba, March 15.—(AP)—Donald Bradburn, Creek dog driver, brought word from the Indian encampments near Oxford house, east of here, today that 20 Indians have died of whooping cough, which has reached epidemic proportions.

WORLD COURT ISSUE MAY CAUSE REVOLT AGAINST TARIFF BILL

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Notice that hearings would begin again upon the world court, and reports that the President intends to send a message on foreign debts to the present session of congress added today to the congressional undercurrent of revolt over the pending tariff bill.

It was predicted that should these two additional international matters be heaped upon the tariff controversy the President would have a congress even more unruly than at present on his hands.

Acitvity to get a favorable senate vote on American adherence to the world court is to be renewed March 23, when hearings are to begin before the senate foreign relations committee, Chairman Key Pittman [Dem., Nev.] announced today.

The protocol of adherence was reported out with reservations on June 1, 1932, during the last congress, but, according to senate rules, the whole matter automatically went back to committee at the end of the congress.

In announcing the commencement of hearings Senator Pittman said he was acceding to insistent demands by pro-court groups.

Reports concerning a coming message on debts are nebulous but present. One rumor is that the President is ready to commend a five year moratorium.

Paul Oras, Soviet Naval Attache, Arrives in U. S.

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Paul Oras, soviet naval attaché to Washington, was among the passengers arriving here today aboard the Conte di Savoia of the Italian line. He was accompanied by his wife and two children, Lerio, 9 years old, and Ada, 4. This is Oras' first visit to the United States. He planned to proceed immediately to his new post at Washington. He has just been transferrd from Italy, where he served in a similar capacity. He is 37 years old and served as an ensign in the old Russian navy.

TARIFF HEARINGS END; BILL UNDER REVISION NOW

House Likely to Vote Power to Roosevelt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—The administration's new tariff bill authorizing President Roosevelt to juggle import duties in the negotiation of trade pacts with other countries, appeared likely to begin a stormy legislative journey through congress tomorrow or the next day.

Concluding hearings on the measure, the ways and means committee prepared to begin redrafting the legislation so as to incorporate several amendments suggested by Assistant Secretary of State Francis Sayre. The rewriting operation is expected to be short.

Indications are, however, that the huge Democratic majority in the house will be able to put the bill across.

Basis for Negotiations.

Democrats on the ways and means committee had decided in advance today on the final form of the bill, which they will report to the house within the next several days. In substance, it will grant President Roosevelt discretionary authority to raise or lower present tariff rates by 50 per cent in exchange for preferential treatment for American commodities by a foreign nation.

The President, under one of the amendments proposed in behalf of the administration by Mr. Sayre, will be given partial power over the present "free" list.

It was reported that the President felt he did not need complete authority to remove or add items to that list as had been suggested in several quarters. Under the proposed amendment, he will, however, be able to "freeze" the customs status of any article by assuring foreign nations that any of their imports which are on the free list shipped here by them will not be removed during the life of a reciprocal trade agreement with this country.

The power conferred in this amendment, it was understood, will extend also to excise taxes levied in this country against foreign imports.

The other administration amendments, which are certain to be incorporated in the tariff measure, call respectively for continuation of the flexible tariff provision of the present law with respect to all commodities not involved in a new trade agreement; and for the protection of American wheat producers by requiring domestic millers of Canadian wheat to pay the difference between the preferential rate enjoyed abroad by this country under a trade agreement.

BEG YOUR PARDON

An item printed Sunday said that Charles W. Steel, who died in his home at Grand Detour, Ill., was the last survivor of the 34th Illinois Infantry of the civil war. Mrs. Charles N. Hoagland of Elgin said yesterday that her father, Willis Ray, 95 years old, who is living in Elkhorn, Wis., was a member of the regiment.

SEIZE WOMEN BOOKMAKERS IN LOOP RAID

Two women bookmakers were arrested yesterday in a raid by police on a gambling room on the second floor of the building at 30 North Dearborn street. Some thirty patrons, most of them women, were allowed to depart by police, but Miss Florence Simon, 25 years old, 3842 Wilcox street, and Mrs. Esther Mack, 32 years old, 1809 North Park avenue, were taken to the detective bureau.

In a series of other raids in the loop and on the west side a number of gambling places were closed and a score of keepers arrested. The raids were said to be the result of a warning by Police Commissioner Allman last Saturday that police captains would be held directly responsible for the enforcement of the law against gambling in their districts.

Beginning today all gambling cases will be heard in the South State street court by Judge Frederick W. Elliott instead of in several branches of the Municipal court as heretofore.

Bandit Trio Gets $1,900 in Two Quick Holdups

Three armed men yesterday entered the office of the Bridgeport Tobacco company at 3257 South Halsted street and compelled the manager, Leo Handler, to surrender $300 and cigarets valued at $30. Twenty minutes later three men, believed to have been the same trio, halted at a Marshall Field & Co. garage at 4700 Lake street and took $1,600 from John Lamont, cashier ,and two other employés. In each robbery the holdup men fled in a small automobile.

HIT-RUN MOTOR DEATH ADMITTED BY BOY DRIVER

Two Other Youths Held After Confession.

John Meyers, 19 years old, 1714 Hastings street, was arrested yesterday and confessed to police of the Marquette station that he was the driver of an automobile which struck and killed Adam Suchocki, 54 years old, 1616 West 17th street, early yesterday morning.

Following the accident, which occurred at 17th street and Ashland avenue, Meyers fled. Two youths who accompanied him also were held by the police. They are Arthur De Vries, 19 years old, 1315 South Ashland avenue, and Daniel Tuane, 18 years old, 1456 South Ashland avenue. Meyers said he fled because he was frightened. He was traced through the license number of the car, obtained by a woman witness.

Second Hit-Run Driver Held.

Another driver who fled after an accident was held to the grand jury at a coroner's inquest yesterday. He is Charles Dooling, 27 years old, 8129 Stewart avenue. The victim was Patrick O'Connell, 75 years old, 1018 West 79th street, who was struck and fatally injured March 1 at 66th and Halsted streets.

Three men were injured yesterday in a collision of automobiles at Ogden avenue and Harrison street. They are James McCarthy, 53 years old, of St. Clair, Ill.; Albert Rothman, 30 years old, 3251 Ogden avenue, and Thomas McCauley, 49 years old, 2127 South Oak Park avenue, Cicero. McCarthy, riding alone, was critically hurt.

Year's Toll Reaches 247.

Two deaths yesterday increased the total of motor fatalities in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 247. The victims:

Kenneth Lindgren, 15 years old, 7520 South Lincoln street, a schoolboy. Killed last night when he was struck by an automobile while he was riding a bicycle at 79th street and California avenue. The auto driver, William J. O'Connor, 30 years old, 8157 Maryland avenue, took Lindgren to the Auburn Park hospital, where the boy was found to be dead. O'Connor, who is secretary of the Industrial Service club, was held.

Unidentified man, about 60 years old. Killed last night by an automobile as he stepped off a safety island in Western avenue at Coyne street. He was wearing a ring on which were engraved the initials "J. J. G." Wayne Morgan, 28 years old, 1926 Wolfram street, driver of the automobile, was held by Shakespeare avenue police for an inquest today.

Jno. A. Simpson, President of Farmers' Union, Dies

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—John A. Simpson, 63, of Oklahoma City, president of the National Farmers' union and for two decades a leader in the battles of the American agriculturist, died early today in Emergency hospital here. The last act of his long career before legislative bodies was an appearance yesterday before the senate finance committee, where he spoke in opposition to a proposed federal gasoline tax.

ROBERT LONG, LUMBER MAGNATE, IS DEAD IN KANSAS CITY AT 83

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—(AP)—Robert A. Long, 83, chairman of the board of the Long-Bell Lumber company and founder of a large lumber fortune, died tonight after an operation for an intestinal obstruction.

Mr. Long's condition took a turn for the worse late this afternoon when physicians detected a weakening of his heart action. He had been under an oxygen tent for brief periods since the operation Tuesday.

Mr. Long was conscious late today and conversed with his daughter, Mrs. R. Pryon Combs, and Mr. Combs. Mrs. Hayne Ellis, another daughter, was en route here when her father died. Her home is in Washington, D. C.

CRAZED FATHER THRUSTS BABY INTO FURNACE

Akron, O., March 15.—(AP)—Seized with what police described as a fit of religious insanity, Howard K. Gross, a hardware merchant, tonight killed his infant son by thrusting him into the furnace of his home.

He related the story of his act in halting phrases as he was taken into custody and questioned by police.

Gross was injured in an automobile accident Tuesday, and repeated questions developed the possibility that he had been made insane by head injuries.

The child, John, 2 years and 9 months old, died in St. Thomas hospital tonight, a few hours after he was pulled from the furnace by a hysterical maid, who forced her way past Gross when he tried to block the doorway to the basement as the child screamed in pain.

NOTED CANADIAN ARCHÆOLOGIST DIES IN CHINA

PEIPING, China, March 16 [Friday].—(AP)—Davidson Black, the archæologist famous for establishing the identity of the so-called "Peking man," died today at his desk. He was stricken with heart disease.

Dr. Davidson Black, a Canadian, was the custodian of the skull which gave rise to the "Peking Man" theory and startled the world with evidence that men or menlike creatures lived near here approximately 1,000,000 years ago.

Dr. Black decided subsequently that the skull was that of a woman.

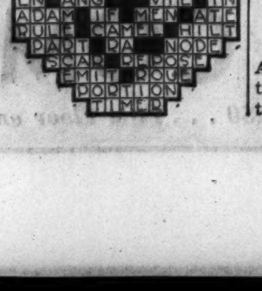
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



DR. CHANG SAVES HIS LOVED ONES FROM 'DISGRACE'

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Dr. Chang Sei Kim esteemed the culture and honor of his ancestors.

Because modern China is a land where thugs and bandits have destroyed the civilization he revered he abandoned the land of his ancestors, came to America, and in its civilization won fame and honor.

Today he slew himself to save the honor of his friends and family. The underworld had crashed through the veneer of civilization in his adopted land. When blackmailers threatened him with disgrace he destroyed himself rather than have his friends embarrassed.

Dr. Chang, 41 years old, holder of degrees from Johns Hopkins university, health commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, Manhattan council, moved from his residence at the Harvard club and chose an apartment on West 55th street for the scene of his self-destruction.

The learned Chinese physician and philosopher calmly wrote letters to two friends, carefully closed doors so that his unsuspecting brother-in-law, Frank Lee, would be unharmed, took pains to see that his personal appearance was orderly, turned on the jets of the gas range, and lay down on the floor to sleep forever. Dr. Chang knew his wife and four children in far Shanghai would never be disgraced.

From Dr. I. J. Miller, one of Dr. Chang's closest friends, detectives learned, however, that he had been greatly distressed recently because of threats of violence and extortion made by an American who was in possession of certain letters written by the Chinese.

CHARLOTTE FOLDS IS DEAD; LEADER IN CHURCH WORK

Miss Charlotte E. Folds, 1501 Wesley avenue, Evanston, prominent in Episcopal church activities, died yesterday at the home of her brother, George R. Folds, 1713 Asbury avenue, Evanston. She was 65 years old.

Miss Folds was chairman of the religious education division of the women's auxiliary of the Episcopal diocese here; vice president of the Guild of St. Marks, and a member of the board of the Church Home for the Aged, an Episcopal institution.

Funeral services for Miss Folds will be held at 2:30 tomorrow in St. Mark's Episcopal church, Evanston. She will be buried Monday in her home town, Oshkosh, Wis. Surviving is her brother, George.

"WITNESSES FOR GOD" BARE "PLOT" BY RADIO CHAINS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Before a house committee "Jehovah's witnesses" took the stand today to testify that the national broadcasting chains and "organized clergy" are "conspiring to exercise a religious censorship" over radio.

The "witnesses," members of a Bible group headed by Joseph F. Rutherford of Brooklyn, N. Y., appeared before the merchant marine, radio and fisheries committee in support of the so-called McFadden bill prohibiting radio stations and chains from barring the use of their facilities to any one able to pay.

E. S. Wertz, counsel for the Bible group, declared that "coercion, threats and boycott tactics had been brought by a certain religious organization on broadcasting stations" to prevent the use of the radio by "Jehovah's witnesses," Mr. Wertz admitted in response to an inquiry, that the "witnesses" attacked other religions in their broadcasts.

At the present time, Representative Robert Ramspeck [Dem., Ga.] explained, radio stations and chains are private business enterprises and as such have full authority to accept or reject any proposed broadcast, just as a newspaper has the right to take or turn down any advertisment which it feels might injure the good name or position of the paper.

HOLD SERVICE FOR DR. MILLER; BURIAL TODAY

Funeral services for Dr. Charles Henderson Miller, 67 years old, 6347 Maryland avenue, were held at 8 o'clock last night in the Woodlawn Methodist Episcopal church, 6355 Woodlawn avenue. The evening services were held to accommodate hundreds of hospital nurses and doctors, as well as other friends, who could not otherwise have attended. More than 500 of them were present. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery today. Dr. Miller died Monday. He was a founder of the Woodlawn hospital. Surviving him are his widow and two sons.

Theatrical Friends Pay for B. M. Combe's Funeral

Boyce M. Combe, British actor who died penniless Sunday in the Eastgate hotel, will be buried in Rose Hill cemetery today, through the generosity of two theatrical friends. According to Ralph Tucker, 8106 Eberhart avenue, who undertook to raise burial funds for Combe, the money has come from Alice Brady, screen actress, and Frank Fay, actor and husband of Barbara Stanwyck, also a film actress.

Mrs. Mary Nessinger Dies; Funeral Service Monday

FRANCE HEEDS UNREST; ACTS TO REFORM STATE

Chamber Names Body to Overhaul Constitution.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 15.—With the public jittery over recurrent reports that communists and Fascists are secretly arming for a coup d'état, official concern over the political situation in France manifested itself today in several ways.

Perhaps the most significant manifestation was the voting by the chamber of deputies of two bills setting up parliamentary committees to study the possibilities of overhauling and renovating the whole political machine.

One committee will lay the ground work for "reform of the state." The other has the more limited task of recommending specific modifications of the constitution. While it remains to be seen whether the different parties can agree on the reforms necessary, the action of the chamber virtually amounts to a vote in favor of the principle of reorganizing the state.

Government Worried.

The government on its side has showed that it is worried over the increasingly dangerous reaction of the whole population, rural as well as urban, to the failure of the police to find the murderers of Judge Albert Prince, who was to have been an important witness in the investigation into the $60,000,000 Stavisky bond scandal. The staggering revelations of police conditions which are published daily by the parliamentary committee of investigation also add to the general unrest.

Henry Cheron, minister of justice, again conferred with police and judicial authorities to prod them into greater activity and because of the pitiful showing of the surete generale [secret state police] in the Prince case, their deadly rivals, the Paris detective force, have been ordered to assume an active part in the operations. Premier Gaston Doumergue likewise conferred with Minister of Interior Albert Sarraut regarding police matters.

The rumor that extremist groups are arming and that civil war is in the offing evidently is gaining a hold on the public nerves. The royalist paper Action Francaise printed hair raising details today about machine gun parts for the Reds being smuggled in from Germany. It claimed that the communists already are preparing machine gun emplacements in windows commanding the principal boulevards and expressed the belief that an uprising may occur in April.

Le Temps Alarmed.

"It must be admitted," says le Temps, "that the political situation still is uncertain and all the danger is not conjured up. The present state of public opinion causes the wildest rumors to receive credence and all sorts of catastrophes are anticipated. Scandals, investigations of scandals and sensational police cases, if they continue, will certainly constitute a serious danger. Paradoxically it is the truce between political parties which has caused politics to take the disquieting drift toward direct action."

Le Temps added that only a strong government can maintain order and for this reason advocated strengthening executive authority.

Speaking of the present talk of revising the constitution, le Temps said: "The régime needs to be restored to its original foundations and to be renovated and modernized. Our institutions must be rendered less oligarchical. At the same time the republic should be given the authority without which democracy is a conglomeration of tyrannies."

'A BETTER PROGRAM' TO SPEED RECOVERY OFFERED BY HYDE

Ottumwa, Ia., March 15.—(AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, appealed here tonight for what he called "a better program" than that of the Democratic administration.

"It is short," the Trenton, Mo., attorney said of his plan in an address prepared for the Wapello county Republican central committee. "It is in harmony with experience. It jeopardizes no man's liberty. It is this:

"Balance the budget, quit monkeying with the dollar; stop squandering the people's savings; smash the growing burocracy, release individual initiative; and then get out of the road."

PAIR ACCUSED OF SWINDLING HOME OWNERS

William Walsh, 1421 Farwell avenue, and Miss Muriel Davis, 1920 South 11th avenue, Maywood, who are alleged to have defrauded more than 100 small home owners of $1,000 to $10,000, were held yesterday at the Oak Park police station on charges of conspiracy, confidence game, and embezzlement.

Walsh and Miss Davis, who operated the Real Estate Owners' board at 412 North Austin boulevard, Oak Park, are alleged to have accepted payments of $10 to $100 from the complainants on the promise of obtaining extensions on mortgage payments. Police said investigation disclosed that Walsh and Miss Davis had failed to take action of any kind after taking money from the home owners.

A fraudulent check given the Mont Avers Fuel company, 3839 Montrose avenue, by Miss Davis in payment for coal led to her arrest and that of Walsh. After the arrest complaints began to pour in from alleged victims.

Enjoins Candidate from Posting Signs in Office

Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher issued an injunction yesterday restraining Harry L. Dunn, independent Democratic candidate for sherif, from posting campaign signs in his offices in the Ashland block, 155 North Clark street. The injunction was sought by A. B. Mason, manager of the building. Mason told the court that in renting the rooms Dunn had declared they would not be used for political purposes nor would signs be placed in the windows.

ADMIRAL BYRD'S PLANE CRASHES; FOUR ARE INJURED

It was a single engine Fokker monoplane and was to have been used in the transport of equipment and supplies to a depot being established 100 miles south of here. Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd warmly congratulated Schlossbach and three passengers for their escape and said it was due to the pilot's quick thinking. The admiral added that the accident would not halt operations.

Sends Out Second Plane.

He immediately sent a second plane out on a test flight and when the test was pronounced satisfactory, the plane took off for the southern base with supplies.

"Good weather is too precious at this season to be wasted," he said. "From now until April 19 when the winter nights set in, good weather will be rare. We must take full advantage of it."

Mechanical difficulties apparently caused the crash. A new gasoline tank had been placed in the plane to increase the cruising radius.

Schlossbach took off with three other expedition members, Arthur A. Zuhn, Mount Pleasant, Ia.; Fred J. Dustin, Revere, Mass., and Harry Young, New Zealand, as passengers after ice and snow had been removed from the monoplane.

A light southwesterly wind was blowing and the plane squared into it. From the start the motor had a peculiar sound and, failing to gain speed, the plane rose very slowly.

Schlossbach flew past the camp as the ship began to sag and wobble, tipping to right and left, and rising and falling. Schlossbach, obviously trying to return to the landing field, swung around to the left and headed down wind as all the men in the camp, headed by Admiral Byrd himself, watched fascinated.

Admiral Byrd suddenly shouted orders to get out the fire fighting equipment and a crew rushed for the chemical tanks.

Slowly the plane came down, Schlossbach trying to make as easy a landing as possible. Then it struck the ground, going into a partial ground loop and piling the four occupants in a mass inside the cabin. Schlossbach cut the switch just before the crash and the plane did not catch fire.

Four Suffer Slight Cuts.

All four persons suffered slight cuts and were severely shaken up.

Admiral Byrd said the equipment could be salvaged.

Half an hour later, the second plane, with William Bowlin and Clay Daily as the crew, departed for the southern camp, carrying 800 pounds of food rations. A third plane will be pressed into service to help transport the 8 tons of stores, fuel, and equipment needed at the advance station.

FORMER EMPLOYE TELLS PLAN TO EVADE GAS TAX

Charles W. Davis, former plant superintendent of the Consumers Gas and Oil company, was the main state witness yesterday in the trial of the three owners of the company on charges of conspiracy to evade payment of $200,000 state gasoline tax. The defendants are Max Johnson, Al Johnson and Sam Levin.

Davis told the jury in Judge Donald S. McKinlay's court that the defendants had planned to purchase new motor equipment for their business out of the money they saved by not paying the tax.

STATE BEGINS PROBE OF TWO PRISONS' BOOKS

An investigation of charges that the books of the Joliet and Stateville penitentiaries show numerous discrepancies was begun yesterday by John C. Weigel, fiscal supervisor of the state department of public welfare. One of the charges made in the report of an auditing concern is that the records of receipts and withdrawals of morphine used in the prison hospitals show quantities of the drug missing.

Frank D. Whipp, warden of both penitentiaries, beyond asserting that there was no shortage in the cash accounts, refused to comment on the charges.

"I don't know whether there is a shortage in the narcotic supply or not," said Weigel as he began his investigation. "If we find that the present system of accounting used in the drugroom does not guard against possible error we will change it immediately."

Prison physicians said that the morphine supplies were closely watched and scoffed at the suggestion that drugs were stolen and sold to the convicts.

The house of representatives at Springfield yesterday named a committee of five to investigate the penitentiaries' administration. Representative Howard L. Doyle [Dem., Decatur] was named chairman.

U. S. COAST GUARD LOSES 8 OF ITS 11 SHORE STATIONS

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Government economy today caused the abandonment of eight of eleven coast guard bases and the scattering of their patrol boats to numerous ports on the Atlantic, Gulf, Pacific and great lakes coasts.

Coast guard headquarters announced orders decommissioning the bases at New York [Staten island], Woods Hole, and Gloucester, Mass., Cape May, N. J., Norfolk, Va., Charleston, S. C., Biloxi, Miss., and San Pedro, Cal.

ALE? BEER? LIQUOR?

What is your pleasure?

It was noticeable that many tourists from the States in Canada preferred Ale, in spite of the fact that good liquor could be obtained at reasonable prices.

Now that we no longer have prohibition in the States, there is even better reason for this preference. Many people have found our Ale pleasanter and milder in flavor than beer. It is heavier in body, and consequently it can be made considerably stronger in alcohol.

A good Ale is very healthful. Your party is just as gay as though you were serving strong liquor—and you need not worry about what you are drinking.

Drewrys is the first Ale bearing a Canadian name, to be made in the U. S. A.—and so vastly superior in quality, that it is by far the most popular Ale in this country.

NORRIS ASSAILS WATERWAY FOES; GALLERIES LAUGH

Nebraskan Pokes Fun at G. O. P. Senators.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Senate rules were laid aside today and the galleries allowed to laugh at will as Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, arch and chronic insurgent from the Republican party, harpooned Republican regulars for voting against their platform pledge to support construction of the St. Lawrence waterway. The Nebraska radical spoke in mock opposition to a resolution in which Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota, another Republican insurgent, sardonically asked the appointment of a committee of Republican regulars to investigate charges that the treaty negotiated during the Hoover administration would betray American interests.

"I am opposed to any action on the part of the senate that would drive these senators out of the Republican party," said Senator Norris. "In some future contest we may need them. The results of the last election indicate that we ought to have more numbers in the party. If we keep on with this kind of procedure we may drive everybody out of the regular organization except the senator from Ohio [Mr. Fess] and myself."

Attacks Senator Dickinson.

The Nebraska senator turned his fire upon Senator L. J. Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], keynoter at the last Republican convention, who made a campaign speech lauding President Hoover for having negotiated the treaty, then declared against it in yesterday's vote.

Senator Dickinson sought to explain that he had not realized at the time of his speech how the treaty cut off the Mississippi valley.

"We are in danger of injuring the Republican party, if on account of the insurgency of the senator from Iowa, we read him out of the party," Senator Norris persisted. "He has demonstrated that he can be a very valuable member. He can try with a straight face to convince the farmers of America that this treaty is one of the greatest things that ever came down the pike, and that the man who negotiated it, Mr. Hoover, was one of the greatest statesmen that ever lived, when as a matter of fact if we take what he says now, he did not know that the treaty said, although it had been published for two weeks.

Speaker Waxes Sarcastic.

"A man who can work the farmers of America or even try to on that kind of thing ought never to be put out of the regular organization, because such tactics will be useful in many campaigns that are to come in the future. It is true that the senators mentioned in this resolution perhaps technically deserve expulsion from the regular Republican organization, but as one of the regulars I advise against it. I do not believe we ought to punish them in that way when we may need their services, especially when it is demonstrated that at least one of them can show such political acrobatic ability as to be on all sides of a question without ever knowing what the question was."

SEAWAY TREATY DEFEAT BLOW TO PREMIER BENNETT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15.—Expressing his regret "for many reasons" at the defeat of the St. Lawrence waterways treaty in the United States senate, Premier Bennett today read a statement to the Canadian house of commons. In it he said that, in consequence of the action in the United States, the treaty would not come before parliament this session.

"I had felt," Bennett said, "that the example of mutual trust and confidence set by these two great countries might have proved an impulse and a guide to better international relations on other continents."

The premier said he believed the seaway would have been a "constructive and forward step. He repudiated a desire "to comment on the reasons why the treaty has been defeated in the United States." Bennett concluded with the declaration: "There is no purpose now in attacking the interests in our country who have seen fit to join with similar interests in the United States that have succeeded for the moment at least in defeating this seaway development."

Daniel J. Gallagher, 5530 North Artesian avenue, was sentenced to three years in Leavenworth penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone on a charge of counterfeiting. Assistant United States Attorney Austin Hall told the court that Gallagher was a member of a gang which manufactured almost $1,000,000 worth of spurious money. None of the money was put in circulation, the prosecutor said.

GENERAL ILL

MAJ. GEN. HUGH L. SCOTT.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—The condition of Maj. Gen. Hugh L. Scott was reported "unchanged" tonight by Walter Reed hospital attachés.

The 80 year old retired officer was brought here Monday seriously ill. Results of a diagnosis of his case were not available.

Gen. Scott, who was chief of staff of the army nearly four years, is a veteran of service against Indians, in Cuba, the Philippines, and along the Mexican border. His home is Princeton, N. J.

CHARITY GROUPS FORM COUNCIL TO LIMIT TAG DAYS

4 Organizations Merge Interest.

A step toward reducing the number of city-wide and neighborhood tag days allowed by the city council was taken yesterday by the Veterans' Poppy Day association, the Federation of Aged and Adult Charities, the Chicago Children's Benefit league and the Chicago Federated Charities, whose tag days are provided for in the city code.

Meeting at the First National bank representatives of the four groups formed a permanent organization to be known as the Council of Official Tag Day Organizations. Its purpose, according to by-laws as adopted, is to limit and regulate the number of tag days in Chicago.

Represent 328,000.

The organizations represented in the council include 253 posts and camps of ex-service men of all wars, and 121 charitable organizations. Combined, these organizations have a total of approximately 328,000 members and sponsors. All of them are approved by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Formation of the council is the culmination of several years' efforts by these and other civic groups which have sought to set a limit on the promiscuous granting of tag days by the city council. The groups also oppose the frequent granting of neighborhood tag days by aldermen in various parts of the city.

Seek to Raise Standards.

In its first action the council voted to dispatch a letter to the city council and Mayor Kelly requesting that it be notified when applications for granting of tag day permits are filed or granted. The group also voted to pledge coöperation with the city council, the Association of Commerce and the Chicago Better Business Bureau in efforts to raise the standards among charities.

Difficulties attendant upon the holding of frequent tag days for numerous charitable organizations during the last five years led to the consolidation movement. Officials of the new council explained that they feel that there will be a more liberal and enthusiastic response on the part of the public to tag days if these could be reduced to three a year.

HELD ON ROBBERY CHARGE.

Herbert McGurk, alias Howard Bradley, 28 years old, was held to the grand jury in bond of $45,000 yesterday by Judge Frank M. Padden on two charges of robbery and one of assault to rob.

Eli Bates Board Will Sponsor Ballet Opening

'Union Pacific' Premiere to Be a Feature.

BY JUDITH CASS.

LESS than two months after the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe scored a social as well as an artistic success in its Chicago opening on Feb. 16 under the sponsorship of the Woman's Aid society of Passavant hospital, it is returning to the city for another week's engagement.

On the evening of Saturday, April 14, the hard working board of the Eli Bates settlement is presenting the ballet in the Auditorium.

At the opening the troupe of 64 will present for the first time here the new American ballet, "Union Pacific," which is based on the building of the first transcontinental railroad, also "Les Presages," which was one of the hits of the February programs. The ballet comes from New York and leaves here for Europe and home.

The Eli Bates board, with Mrs. Wesley M. Dixon as its president, made its decision to sponsor the performance yesterday, and today the members will gather for luncheon at the Casino to select committees and map the ticket campaign.

To judge, however, by the hundreds who were turned away from the Auditorium in February because of sell-out houses, it isn't likely that the Eli Bates campaign will be a very strenuous chore.

Mrs. Thorne Will Be Luncheon Hostess.

Mrs. Robert J. Thorne, who is to be chairman of advertising for the benefit, will be the luncheon hostess this noon. And attending the luncheon will be, among others, Mrs. Louis Skidmore, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, Mrs. James L. Houghteling, Mrs. Phelps Kelley, Mrs. Robert Hixon, Mrs. William M. Spencer, Mrs. Charles D. Frey, Mrs. Edward M. Bertha, Mrs. William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Charles C. Haffner Jr., Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins, Miss Virginia Winston, Miss Nancy Avery, and Mrs. James B. Forgan Jr.

The Eli Bates settlement is one of Chicago's oldest charities, having its beginning in 1876 when the Woman's society of the Unity church started a sewing class for neighborhood girls in a cottage on Larrabee street. Within a year a day nursery was added and then so important did the work become that Eli Bates, a wealthy pioneer, gave money in 1884 for a building at 621 West Elm street.

This is the present settlement house where activities for the neighborhood children . . . and grownups . . . are carried on. One of Eli Bates' industries is a band of sewing women from the neighborhood whose handiwork is sold at a shop run by the society at 124 East Delaware place.

Lighthouse Aids Hold Ball April 14.

No doubt some of the Lighthouse Volunteer Aids, who are meeting for luncheon this noon at the Casino, will be signing up some of the Eli Bates board members for their annual ball, which falls on April 14, the same night as the Monte Carlo ballet opening. Since the Lighthouse benefit is a ball at the Bal Tabarin of the Hotel Sherman, however, it will be possible for society folk to attend both.

Another benefit performance very different in character is being announced this morning. It is a buffet supper the evening of March 28 at the Casino, followed by Mrs. Arthur Meeker's delightful and illustrated talk, "House Hunting in Africa," with that national shrine, Kenmore, in Fredericksburg, Va., the beneficiary.

Kenmore is a stately colonial house built by one of the patriots who fought to make us a nation, Col. Fielding Lewis. He was George Washington's brother-in-law, having married the latter's gay and pretty sister, Betty Washington.

Col. Lewis spent so much of his fortune during the revolutionary war

MR. AND MRS. NEWTON C. KING LEAVING ST. CHRYSOSTOM'S CHURCH.

Spring Colors Add Charm to Bokum Wedding

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

Although spring does not arrive officially until next Wednesday, the springlike wedding yesterday afternoon of Miss Doris Bokum to Newton C. King made all of their friends present at St. Chrysostom's church definitly aware that a change of seasons is upon us.

At 4:30 o'clock the bride, eldest daughter of the Norris H. Bokums, came down the center aile of the church on the arm of her father. Her blonde beauty and slender height were enhanced by a wedding gown of ivory satin, perfectly plain but for a narrow trim of pearl beading that outlined the bodice. It was cut with a cowl neckline, a five yard train, and long sleeves that finished in points over her hands.

The bride's godmother, Mrs. Warner Coburn, lent her own old lace bridal veil. A pearl coronet held the tulle cap and veil in place. The bride carried a bouquet of white orchids and lilies of the valley.

The flower girl and bridesmaids were a symphony of spring colors in delicate shades of green and peach. Miss Mary Margaret McAlpine of Detroit, the honor maid, wore a frock of apple green organza with an off the face hat of matching tulle and carried a full bouquet of peach colored freesia.

The bridesmaids, Miss Betty Alexander, Miss Lucy Harrison, Mrs. Richard M. Lamport [Julia Kramer], and Miss Frances Canfield, wore identical gowns but in a soft peach color with matching tulle hats. They carried lavender freesia. Sally Bokum, 9 years old, was her sister's flower girl, and she, too, was dressed in apple green with a little brimmed hat to match. Her old fashioned bouquet was of sweetheart roses and spring flowers.

Frederick Macfarlane was best man for Mr. King, and ushering were Richard D. Bokum III., the bride's brother; Harry Bryant, Robert Shotwell, Paul Poole, Howard McIlvaine of Philadelphia, and Christian de Guigné of New York and Bordeaux.

After the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhardt of Christ church, Winnetka, a classmate of the bride's father at Princeton, pronounced the benediction the new Mr. and Mrs. King and their parents and the wedding party went to the Drake hotel where a reception was held. Mrs. Bokum, at the head of the receiving line, was handsomely gowned in a light gheen ankle length dress and shorter matching coat trimmed with red fox. With it she wore brown accessories and carried orchids. The bridegroom's mother was gowned somewhat similarly in an ensemble of tea-rose color trimmed with blue fox. She carried orchids.

Mr. King and his bride, who was also celebrating her 19th birthday, left soon after the reception for New York and will sail tomorrow for a honeymoon in Bermuda. On their return they will be at home on the near north side.

Maria Jeritza to Be Star in Operetta Here

New York, March 15.—[Special.]—Good news for Chicago playgoers, starving for Broadway theatrical productions, developed in two important quarters today.

The first break concerned an upspeeding in the plans of the Theater Guild and the American Theater society to make good on its season of six plays guaranteed to Chicagoans on a subscription basis.

Assurances came from Warren Munzell, Guild manager, that the Theater society has no intention of reneging on its promises to subscribers.

From the office of Lee Shubert came news that indicated the Shuberts have softened in their attitude against the presentation of shows in Chicago until assurances are received that the attendance will justify the outlay. The Shuberts announced that Maria Jeritza, late top ranking diva of the Metropolitan opera, will open a Chicago engagement at the Grand Opera house on April 9 in Rudolph Friml's new operetta "Annina." Jeritza opened in this operetta in Boston recently and is now playing there to the acclaim of critics and audiences alike. Allan Jones, a Chicago favorite, is her tenor.

"Annina" is described as a musical extravaganza in the Viennese manner, full of romance and waltzes. Its locale is Vienna in the 1770's. For this production Chicago will get the jump on New York, for it will not reach Broadway until the fall after Jeritza has had a summer in Europe.

As set forth in the Tribune recently New York producers, with few exceptions, had indicated intentions to neglect Chicago because of poor audiences this season. Spokesmen for the Theater Guild, when asked for a definite statement regarding fulfilment of their subscription schedule, disclosed their plans.

Three more dramas will be forthcoming to round out the bill, two from the Guild's own productions and another under the sponsorship of an allied management.

Chicagoans are to see "Ah, Wilderness," Eugene O'Neill's comedy of adolescence, starring George M. Cohan, and "Mary of Scotland," Sherwood Anderson's drama, in which Helen Hayes has scored a triumph.

The only indefinite point about the Guild plays, Munzell said, was the time of presentation—whether they would be taken to Chicago this spring or next fall. In the case of "Mary of Scotland" it was said that Chicago patrons probably would have to wait until fall to see it, inasmuch as prospects were good for its running here well into the summer. On the other hand, it is likely that "Ah, Wilderness" may close here in time for spring presentation in Chicago. Failing that, it will go west in the autumn along with "Mary of Scotland."

Irish Consul Will Address Catholic Woman's League

The Catholic Woman's league will learn about present day Ireland through Daniel J. McGrath, Irish Free State consul, who will address them in Curtiss hall on next Saturday afternoon on "Ireland, Its Economic Conditions and Prospects." Miss Margaret E. Sweeney, Irish harpist of the Woman's Symphony orchestra, will play. Mrs. Richard M. Hallinan, president, with her past presidents and charter members, will receive. The social committee, following the old-time Irish custom, will serve tea.

Frantz Proves a White Hope Among Pianists

Appears with Symphony in Exciting Program.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It took until the Chicago Symphony orchestra series was entering its last lap to get the most exciting concert of the season, but it was worth waiting for.

Dalies Frantz, pianist, born in Denver and for some years a sojourner in Ann Arbor and the University of Michigan, made his first appearance as soloist with the orchestra last night, playing the long familiar Liszt Concerto in E-flat almost to make you think you had never heard it before. Preceding his appearance by only a few moments, Frederick Stock served Rachmaninoff's Second Symphony in the same fashion. Two such high spots in one evening are fairly explosive in their effect.

Long experience teaches one to be a bit wary about predicting the future of an artist on the strength of one performance of one composition. But if Mr. Frantz continues on the course he took last night he is considerably more than the pianistic white hope. He is the sensational American artist that people have claimed they were looking for.

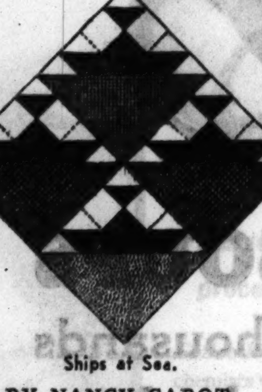
For this was something of a three-ring circus performance with a burst of fireworks to set it off. Mr. Frantz, tall, broad shouldered, blond, looks rather more like a football player than a pianist. But what he displayed was the most brilliant of Michigan football tactics transmuted into terms of the keyboard. He has all the strength that ever a piano needed for its most thunderous effects; he has all those muscles under perfect control for the finest song that a piano can make, and he would seem to have the idea that the Liszt Concerto should be studied from a fresh and individual viewpoint.

At least that is the way he played it. He followed the line, but he sharpened the outline. Salient features were a little more prominent, hollows were dug a little more deeply, a little extra high polish was applied where it showed. And while the audience, or most of it, sat still and implored him to play an encore he declined. He just came out time after time, bowed, and went back again.

What Mr. Frantz did with the concerto Mr. Stock had just done to the symphony. Long as it is, he piled up one excitement after another, with force here, with song there, with a racing impulse at the end that quickened the circulation and started an ovation from the audience such as these concerts seldom witness. It was a complete climax from Moussorgsky's "A Night on the Bare Mountain" through Liadow's setting of eight Russian songs, and most of all into the symphony.

There was frantic pounding of palms, there were shouts of "Bravo!" from on high in the gallery and down on the main floor. It went to such a point that there was a temptation to rub one's eyes and make sure that this was neither a popular concert nor was Mr. Stock a visiting conductor. But it was a grand night to be in the hall.

Credit Is Due to Maine for Origin of Nautical Quilt



Ships at Sea.

BY NANCY CABOT.

This nautical block has a salty tang that designates a point of origin on our eastern seaboard. As a matter of fact, the state of Maine may proudly claim the credit of creation. "Ships at Sea" is simply and quickly pieced in blue, print, or checked material of light blue, or green and cream. Accuracy in cutting and piecing is a most important point to be remembered, especially in a block of this type.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents each, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

More Stabilized Married Life Is Seen by Ogburn

More marriages, earlier divorce, and a more stabilized married life in later years are predicted for the American family by Prof. William F. Ogburn, University of Chicago sociologist. Discussing "The Future of the Family" in a lecture last night in the Art institute, Prof. Ogburn predicted that the family will continue to be a significant part of the social picture despite the loss of traditional functions of the home and a decrease in the size of the household.

Prof. Ogburn first discussed changes in the important functions of the family during the last 100 years brought about by the advent of steam and the factory. The home is, he pointed out, no longer the center for religion, education, recreation, and protection. It is no longer an economic institution and no longer does one's family determine an individual's status, he declared.

"Economic functions will continue in the future to go out of the home," Prof. Ogburn continued.

"There is a possibility that eugenics will restore the family pride should Hitler's sterilization plan, or sets of requirements as to who should marry, be followed. I see no tendency to bring religion back to the home. In fact different religions are ceasing to be a bar to marriage. One may say that the family as a social institution is losing in significance rapidly and will continue to lose."

With the breakdown of what were considered definite family functions, Prof. Ogburn said, the family has become free to handle personality functions such as the relationship of husband and wife, and parents and child.

"But despite all this," Prof. Ogburn concluded, "there are some surprising contradictions. A larger percentage are married now than 40 years ago, even if we have had the invention of the holeproof hose and buttons that won't come off.

"The tendency will be for divorce to take place earlier in life, and in later years married life will be more stable than now. College graduates seem to be better risks for matrimony, particularly couples going to the same college. The clergy are taking a greater interest in personality problems. Birth control and marital clinics are being formed. There will always be a family."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Small girls, like big girls, are getting all set for Easter and, take it from us, they're as much concerned about curls that will peep beneath their brand new bonnets as they are about the bonnets.

And they're nearly all having curls, thank you. Even the misses under 15 are feeling the effects of the "back to femininity" movement. In several of the Chicago shops we've toured recently we came across small but determined bands of children with firm ideas about the way they want their hair done. And sometimes their ideas are better than their mothers'—a little bit freer from Hollywood notions.

The better hair stylists around town are refreshingly free from a weakness for sophisticated or trick effects for the small child.

Individualized hair styles for children are being created in a great many shops; our picture today shows one of the most charming we've stumbled across in a long time. It suits the pert face and the freckled nose.

Children's hair styles, as a matter of fact, occupy so much of the attention of alert stylists that several will be shown at the style show for the public, sponsored by the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association that is planned for March 21 at the Hotel Sherman.

Dice Furnish New Ideas in Button Styles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Ever since Schiaparelli startled the fashion world with clips that looked like dollar signs during the lowest spending era the best pie charts could prove, buttons, clips or the doohickeys you use to keep smart dresses and suits wrapped around your anatomy have been the most exciting gadgets you could buy for your money.

The designers still contrive numbers that make the most hardened button buyer gasp with astonishment. The newest tricks include dominoes, in black with white dots, or the same thing reversed, and the big sporting array, the dice buttons, very liberal appearing squares that must have seen action somewhere other than on the tailored front sectors of swanky tweed coats and woolen suits.

Huge metal objects that might have been picked up in a hardware store are amusing as well as interesting button devices . . . chromium still glitters in buttons and clips in every known form and size and shape. Bamboo and tropical wood fashion some light tan or beige colored belt buckles and matching clips and buttons, the bigger the better.

The shops offer for your approval large buckles that look like sections of fences, or round rings of wood that look like underdone or very lightly browned doughnuts, but the minute you anchor them to sports clothes of wools and tweeds they suddenly become the swankiest and most distinctive extras of the year.

Anchors and stars are lavishly displayed, anchor clips, buttons, and belt buckles of silver or gold metal . . . patriotic displays of red and blue star buttons and clips and the inevitable matching belt clasp make you splendidly aware of the fact that the private life of a button isn't the simple round affair it used to be.

The newest clothes are dated by the battalion of buttons that do double duty as decorations and decoys for buttonholes.

MERINGUE FORMS MAGIC BASIS OF FLUFFY KISSES

Proper Method Insures Crunchy Results.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 2 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

It seems that there's just no stopping an egg white when it begins to expand. Witness the meringues and such that got started in yesterday's cooking column! They thought they'd get me to talk about pie meringues, frosting meringues, and meringue kisses, and what happened? Number one and number two took on such proportions that there wasn't room for even a good-by kiss!

So, just to fool 'em, today we'll have nothing but kisses and allied sweetness which turn up when meal getters dash much sugar into egg whites and proceed to bake the blend.

But here comes a big black warning. This type of meringue may be most crunchy and luscious if properly made and most woefully doughy and stringy if mismanaged. Some members of the tribe have crisp crusts and creamy interiors. Bake them longer and they become crisp all the way through.

Snowy whiteness is a big point in any meringue's favor. The answer is usually cream of tartar, tart fruit juice, or vinegar to whiten the faint creamy tint and to keep the crystals small. A very slow oven is necessary for the job. It allows this type of meringue to dry out all unhurried. Otherwise there will be a terrible flop and yelps from the family.

Although a true torte is somewhat different, here's a member of the kiss family which has taken on the name of torte:

MERINGUE TORTE.

6 egg whites, beaten stiff
2 cups granulated sugar
1/8 teaspoon salt
3/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 1/2 teaspoons vinegar

With a rotary egg beater whip the sugar and the vinegar little by little into the stiffly beaten egg whites. Add the salt and vanilla. When all has been added and thoroughly mixed wet an unglazed wrapping paper and place it on a baking sheet. Drop the mixture on it from a teaspoon, leaving room between each. Bake in a slow oven (250 degrees F.) until crisp and browned.

Then also there are the real kisses which sometimes turn up under the name of maringue glace, or sometimes they're called macaroons. Here's the how of them:

MERINGUE KISSES.

4 egg whites
3/4 teaspoon salt
1 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon vanilla

With a rotary egg beater whip the egg whites with the salt until stiff. Add the sugar, two tablespoons at a time, beating in each addition thoroughly. Fold in the vanilla. Now add one-third cup of finely chopped nuts, if you like 'em. For dropping these kisses a teaspoon will do or put the batter gently into a pastry bag and press it out into little mounds. But however you do it form the kisses on wet paper and bake in a slow oven (275 degrees F.) for half an hour.

Still another meringue does it with a sirup. These laddies are the ones which may be scooped out later and filled with ice cream or fruit or may be made in rings with flat bottoms, also to be filled with sugared fruit:

SIRUP KISSES.

3/4 cup water
2 cups sugar
5 egg whites, stiffly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/8 teaspoon salt

Boil the sugar and water together until a little forms a soft ball in cold water (238 degrees F.). This is best stirred just while the sugar is dissolving, but not afterward. When cooked pour the sirup in a thin stream into the beaten egg whites, beating constantly. Beat steadily until the mixture is cold and will hang from the beater. Fold in the flavoring and salt and let stand for twenty minutes, covered. Have ready moistened paper on baking sheets. Drop on this the meringue, using a teaspoon or a pastry bag. Place in a very slow oven (275 degrees F.) and bake forty to seventy minutes, depending upon the size. If you wish, and there is a soft section still in the center, scoop it out and fill the shell with sugared sliced fruit. Strawberries are most glorious of all.

POTATO-NUT-CELERY LOAF.

2 large stalks celery
3/4 cup chopped nuts
3 cups mashed potatoes
3 tablespoons fat
1 egg
1 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons grated onion

Wash the celery, cut in small pieces, and cook until tender in a small amount of boiling salted water. Drain off the liquid, which may be used for soup stock later. Then add the other ingredients to the celery in the order named. Mix them thoroughly, pack them into a greased bread pan, and bake in a moderate oven, about 375 degree Fahrenheit, for thirty-five minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

CABBAGE DELICIOUS.

1/2 large head of cabbage
1 tablespoon butter
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup cream
1 egg
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Cook the cabbage in boiling salted water until it is just tender. Be careful not to overcook, as it darkens and changes the flavor of the cabbage. Mix together the salt, cream, beaten egg, and lemon juice. Add the cabbage and mix in well. Pour into a buttered baking dish and dot with the butter. Bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until set.

RICE OMELET.

2 tablespoons butter
2 eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup hot boiled rice
1/4 cup chopped green pepper

Beat the eggs until frothy and add the salt and rice. Stir in melted butter and green pepper. Turn into a hot frying pan with an additional teaspoon of butter and cook slowly until firm. Brown slightly under an oven flame and serve immediately.

MINNESOTA PUTS OUT A NEW PEAR AND CRAB APPLE

Seeds for 'Parker' Found in Manchuria.

Two new fruits for Minnesota are being introduced this spring by the division of horticulture, University of Minnesota. One is a pear named "Parker," the other a crab apple named "Flame."

Orchardists regard the development of this pear as an outstanding achievement since it is the first variety sufficiently hardy to withstand Minnesota winters. It has been named in honor of Edward C. Parker, who visited Manchuria in 1908 and sent back some seeds of native pears he found in that country to the Minnesota fruit breeders.

For South of State.

One of the seedlings grown from that seed proved to be a desirable variety. For the last few years it has been known as Minnesota No. 1, but is now to be known as the Parker and is recommended for general planting in the southern half of Minnesota. It is also suggested as worth trying in favorable locations farther north.

Beautiful and Useful.

Prof. W. H. Alderman, chief in horticulture, says the tree is large, vigorous, and free growing. The fruit is medium to large with smooth medium thick skin; color, clear medium yellow, usually with blush. The flesh is tender, medium fine grained, juicy, sweet, and of very good quality. The fruit ripens in midseason or late September.

The Flame crab apple, formerly Minnesota No. 635, serves a double purpose, being primarily useful as an ornamental tree, but also bearing a heavy crop of fruit, which though small is of excellent quality for jelly making and eating fresh.

The tree is small, compact, and hardy enough to be grown anywhere in Minnesota. Not only is the tree a beautiful sight in the spring when blooming, but is also very attractive for weeks in the fall when it is flaming with brilliant red fruit.

POTATO BUG HITS ANGLO-FRENCH DEAL ON TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, March 15.—The Colorado beetle—potato bug—has threatened to wreck the Anglo-French trade treaty negotiations before they have begun.

At the first meeting of delegates yesterday, the French put forward an immediate claim for withdrawal of the British embargo on imports of French potatoes, lettuce and tomatoes because of the prevalence of the beetle in France. Today Walter E. Elliot, minister of agriculture, and M. Lesage, French director of agriculture service, conferred over what could be done about it.

Experts, however, report the beetle still is busy in France and that the pest which formerly was prevalent only in the south is spreading northwards. The French are seeking to advance some plan to guarantee movement of potatoes from unaffected districts.

HEINZ

an out-of-season thrill!

Last August we immortalized the wonderful Heinz tomatoes! We picked the prize beauties from our pampered, pedigreed Heinz tomato plants. We washed them. Pressed them. Sieved the juice and sealed it up in tins and glass bottles. We did this all in a few hours, to trap and hold the fresh flavor and the full food value. Thus perpetuated, we offer it to you now.

Drink Heinz Tomato Juice. All of you. Every day, regularly. For health—and for the thrill of its fresh August flavor.

HEINZ cooks you a Spaghetti Supper!

When you feel the urge for a surprise dish, slightly foreign, just for fun, serve Heinz cooked Spaghetti. Here's a grand food, first to last! Heinz makes the spaghetti—from fine Durum wheat flour. Then cooks it—just right. Then blends into it an enticing Heinz made Italian-style sauce, of cheese, tomatoes, milk, butter and lively spices.

Try it! And lay in a supply of it—for emergency "hurry-up" meals.

HEINZ COOKED SPAGHETTI

HEINZ

In the early days of our country business was simple and neighborly—almost a family matter. Relations between the merchant and his customer were of a personal character. It was in those days that the old saying, "His word is as good as his bond" was born. It was in those days, too, that the Heinz business was born. And that is one reason why we continue to value so highly the intimate good will of our customers. We can never hope to know them all personally, because many of them live as far away as Tokio and Melbourne. But we try to deal with them just as honestly as though they were standing across the old-fashioned counter of other years.

Our Forefathers Faltered Over OVEN-BAKED BEANS

LISTEN to some scandal about our straight-laced sires. They had a weakness, a grave, recurring weakness, for oven-baked beans! They could hardly wait for Saturday night supper. They would fret about the house all week long. They would hang around the kitchen on Saturday, getting in the way. They would sniff at the bean-pot in the oven. They would get a wild, wild look in their eyes.

That is how the trouble all began. Those old Colonial dames knew a bag of baked-bean tricks. And they used them.

They baked their beans slow and they baked their beans long. They baked them till they were munchy, and mealy, and sublime. They baked the moisture out of them and baked the rich sauce in. They baked them till our forefathers couldn't bear it any longer.

Then they watched our forefathers munch—and munch—and munch.

Now these beans, ladies, have the old sure-fire lure, if they're baked in the same old way. So we bake the Heinz Beans through and through in hot, dry ovens.

And the gentlemen still sniff and munch the way they used to do.

So hurry to your grocer's for a tin of Heinz Oven-Baked Beans. Heat them and serve them to your man.

And please do bear in mind that

HEINZ are really oven-baked BEANS

Baring intimate soul-secrets of HEINZ TOMATO KETCHUP

Ssh! This is how we make that captivating, irresistible sauce of ours. This is how we give it that food-glorifying, appetite-goading flavor. Don't think it doesn't strain us to the uttermost. It does. Listen to the rules:

(1) Get the tomatoes! Cross-breed seeds. Cultivate plants. Keep at it till you get tomatoes more luscious, more wholesome than ever before.

(2) Get them FRESH! Watch the tomatoes till they are at their red-ripe prime. Then pick them, rush them to the ketchup kitchens, sort, wash, scald and sieve them. Quick—a few brief hours from the growing plants—set their lively goodness to simmering.

(3) Get the spices! Get the finest spices there are, with the keenest, most enchanting flavors. Go round the world. Select them first hand. But get the best!

(4) Blend them just so! . . . Enough, enough! The secret of this blending we will not bare. That is the deepest, darkest secret of this rare and wondrous sauce. Taste it!—and you will understand why we cherish the magic formula.

POTATO AND VEAL PRICES HEADLINE FOOD BARGAINS

Many Basic Items Offer Market Savings.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Gratifying declines in prices of such basic items for the family market basket as potatoes, butter, veal, lamb, carrots, some types of flour and asparagus will be found by Chicagoland food shoppers this week-end. While the bulk of staple foods are still some 12 per cent more costly than they were a year ago at this season, little increase in prices will be found in the grocery purchases when compared with prices a week or two weeks ago.

The lower prices of potatoes are the big news feature of the day, so far as housewives are concerned, and are credited entirely to the attitude of farmers and others who have been holding back large stocks of last summer's small potato crop. For several weeks, beginning early in January, potatoes have been out of the low price class.

Potato Shipments Grow.

Now, however, the new crop of potatoes is beginning to come into local markets in appreciable amounts, and the baking and mashing potatoes are being shipped to Chicago in heavier quantities from the northwest and western potato storage areas. Receipts were considerably higher this week than they have been for some time, the shippers making good use of favorable weather to ship without chance of extreme cold weather freezing the "spuds" en route.

A market position quite opposite is to be noted for Florida strawberries. The berries have been so cheap in recent weeks as to build up a considerable demand that is likely to bring disappointments for the next two or three weeks. The last of the gulf area crop is now coming in, and the Louisiana berries are not expected to reach Chicago in sizable amounts until the middle of April.

Veal Prices Attractive.

This is the height of the season—so far as meat markets are concerned—for fresh veal. Nearly any cut of veal is cheap and tender at this time and veal is being recommended by most butchers to those who find lamb somewhat lower than a week ago but still in the luxury class among meats.

Pork prices, for the most part, are still higher than beef—with the exception of chuck roasts of beef. Calves' liver is quite plentiful and reasonably priced now, too—a factor in supplying vitamins for wintertime appetites. The attractive prices are attributable to the large number of calves coming to market at this time.

Most local merchants feel that prices for butter during the last two weeks have been the highest that will be experienced this spring. The advance of 8 to 15 cents a pound, retail, which occurred between the holidays and last week was due, mostly, to government purchases of excess butter in the wholesale markets for feeding the unemployed, and to boost farmers' dairy prices.

Consumption declined somewhat as a result. This, coupled with increased production of butter through creameries, is expected to bring a gradual decline in retail prices in the next few weeks.

Citrus Fruits at Low Level.

Citrus fruits are improving in quality and remaining very low in price, it will be noted in most local stores. The exceedingly light storage stocks of apples, on the other hand, will make any decline in apple prices unlikely this spring, and may even cause some rise in price or continued restriction in quality selection.

"Seldom have I seen such liberal stocks of potatoes, lettuce, carrots, cabbage, and other perishable foods at this season," declares W. H. Hall, market expert on Chicago fruits and vegetables, "as is to be seen now in the South Water market. The extremely low prices are certainly more advantageous to consumers than to those who grow or market them."

Another group of foods which has kept down in price in spite of upward trends in the cost of living recently includes coffee, tea, salt, sugar, some types of flour, bread, milk, cheese, pastries, breakfast cereals, most spices, and the better known types of canned goods.

Mushroom Souffle Ring

1 pound mushrooms
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
½ pint cream
4 eggs

Parboil the cleaned mushrooms in salt water. Remove, drain, and chop fine. Cook, smothered in the butter, until the mushrooms are tender. Blend the cream and flour to a smooth consistency and blend with the mushrooms mixture. When the mixture thickens, take from the fire and add the beaten egg yolks gradually. Then add the stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a well buttered ring mold and cover with a buttered lid. Put into a pan of hot water and cook on the top of the stove slowly for 20 minutes. Remove from the top and place the mold, also in the water, in the oven and cook for 20 minutes at 350 degrees F.

CHICKEN SPAGHETTI CASSEROLE.

2½ cups cooked, diced chicken
2 cups cooked spaghetti
1 cup shelled pistachio nuts
2 chopped pimientos
1 small can mushrooms
½ cup fine buttered bread crums
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
White pepper
¾ teaspoon salt

Break the spaghetti into small bits and cook in salted water until tender. Drain and blanch. Make a white sauce of butter, flour, milk, and seasonings. When thickened, add mushrooms, chicken, spaghetti, pimiento, and nuts. Pour into a buttered casserole, dust with crums and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] for thirty minutes.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FORCED TO SPEND NIGHT IN HAITI

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 15.—(AP)—An unexpected delay today forced Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, speeding homeward by air from an inspection trip of the West Indies to spend her wedding anniversary Saturday with the President, to remain overnight in this ancient city.

The airliner bearing her party toward Miami lost three hours and ten minutes when it turned back to San Pedro de Macoris, Dominican republic, to avoid a tropical rain. Mrs. Roosevelt said the delay was not an inconvenience, pointing out the anniversary could be celebrated Sunday, as her son, John, would be home from school.

After the trip over Haitian mountains when visibility at times was poor, the plane arrived here at 12:50 p. m. Mrs. Roosevelt now plans to arrive in Miami about 11:30 a. m. [C. S. T.] tomorrow and take a 2:30 p. m. train to Washington. Previously she had planned to fly to the capital.

The first lady left San Juan, Porto Rico, in a Pan-American Airways flying boat at 6 a. m. on the 1,045 mile flight to Miami. The liner reached San Pedro de Macoris at 7:05 a. m. Shortly afterward the party departed, but 120 miles out a rain squall was sighted and the pilot, Charles Dewey, turned back to San Pedro de Macoris, where Mrs. Roosevelt had an early lunch. The plane hopped off at 10:26 a. m. for Port-au-Prince.

AAA CHIEF FINDS 2 MILK DEALERS VIOLATED CODE

Will Ask Sec. Wallace to Revoke Licenses.

A recommendation that the licenses of two dairies in the Chicago district be revoked will be made by Elmer Hays, chief of the Agricultural Adjustment administration license enforcement section, he announced yesterday at the conclusion of a four day hearing in the United States Customs court at 610 South Canal street.

The recommendation will be made Monday to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Plans were also made to test the validity of the license revocations in the courts.

Find Code Violations.

At the hearing, evidence was produced that the People's Dairy company of Cicero and L. V. Shissler, milk broker of Lombard, had violated the federal milk code. The code fixed a minimum milk price for dairy farmers in the Chicago area and the defendants were accused of various infractions of the code.

The proposed punishment for the violators of the code is the first to be imposed in this area under the present agreement.

Plan to Seek Injunction.

Attorney Joseph Kanak, representing the defendants, said he would appeal to Secretary Wallace not to revoke the licenses. If the appeal fails he will join with the government in a court test of the secretary's action.

The government, it was reported, will ask a United States court to issue an injunction restraining the dairies from operating without a license. A decision on such a petition will decide whether the AAA has the power to revoke licenses and also to assess fines of $1,000 a day for operating without a license. Attorney Kanak will contend that the administration legally has no such power.

At the final hearing yesterday, the defendants admitted some of the violations of the code which were charged against them. These included failure to report purchases and sales of milk since Feb. 5, when the license became effective, and failure to report to the Chicago milk administrator, Frank C. Baker, prices paid farmers for the milk.

Baked Date Pudding

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sliced dates
½ cup chopped peanuts
¾ cup sugar
1 egg
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon lemon extract

Sift the dry ingredients together and blend thoroughly with the dates and nuts. Add the sugar gradually to the well beaten egg, then stir in the milk and flavoring and finally the dry ingredients, nuts and dates. Bake in a shallow pan in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] one hour. When done, chill, cut in squares and serve with whipped cream.

MALTED COFFEE.

3 tablespoons malted milk powder
1 cup strong coffee fusion
2 cups sugar
¾ cup milk
¼ cup cream

Combine the coffee, which should be hot, with the malted milk powder, and beat until smooth. Dissolve the sugar in the mixture, add the milk and cream. Chill thoroughly and serve with crushed ice. This will serve 3.

HERE'S A CHANCE TO PURCHASE $100 WORTH OF ADVICE

A new type of rummage sale, in which professional services as well as tangible property will be auctioned, is to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Gary Memorial Methodist church in Wheaton. The Rev. C. Claud Travis is pastor of the church.

A Wheaton barber has offered a dozen haircuts, an attorney $100 worth of advice and a kindergarten a year's tuition. Some prospective bridegroom may compete in the bidding for a marriage license and the performance of the marriage ritual as well as for household furniture and a baby carriage. Physicians have offered medical attention.

The auction will start at 3 p. m. C. O. Dickelman will be the auctioneer. Proceeds will go to the benefit of the church.

NEW MELLOW COFFEE FLAVOR WINS PRAISE IN CHICAGO

Battle Creek, Mich., March 15.—"Best coffee flavor ever" is the enthusiastic opinion expressed about Kaffee-Hag, the famous 97% caffeine-free coffee, in hundreds of letters received here recently. Coffee-lovers of Chicago and other Mid-West cities praised particularly its new mellowness of flavor!

"I for one, and my husband too, think that Kaffee-Hag Coffee is just fine and will take the place of our ordinary brand. We both love coffee and drink more of it than is good for us. So for the past eight months I have been very nervous ('crabby', my husband says,) and never felt rested no matter how much I would try to sleep. Well, a friend of mine told me it was coffee that made me so restless, and to stop drinking it. I wanted my coffee. So she said to try Kaffee-Hag as it was real good coffee with the poison drug taken out, and that it wouldn't affect my nerves or weak heart. I didn't take her word for it, but I tried it myself. Now I sleep better and feel so much better." So writes Mrs. R. L. Fisch, 4900 Medill Avenue, Chicago.

"It makes a wonderful cup of coffee," says Mrs. M. Donner, 2244 Sunnyside Avenue, Chicago. "I had company from out of town a few days ago and I served Kaffee-Hag Coffee. They complimented me on it. I prepared it with an egg as I usually do and they said they couldn't tell the difference from any other fine coffees. When I told them it was Kaffee-Hag one of my friends determined to use it regularly as she has high-blood pressure. I expect to use Kaffee-Hag in my home from now on."

A Vicious Circle

By ALICE CAMPBELL

SYNOPSIS.

Tommy Rostetter, Paris correspondent of the London Times, is persuaded by his friend, Helen Roderick, editor of L'Etoile, to take her place at a dinner party. Otherwise there'd be thirteen guests. The party is given by Dorinda, known as Dodo Quarles, in the Paris apartment that was her mother's. Dodo's mother was Helen's closest friend. Dodo herself is untrammeled by scruples or breeding. Her stepfather, Basil Jethro, celebrated Oxford scholar, is her guardian and trustee. He has long since given up trying to curb her. Helen had promised Basil she would keep Dodo under her wing for a bit. Basil appears for a short while on the eve of the party. Tommy's dinner partner is Dinah Blake, young American artist, whose engagement to Christopher Loughton in the American embassy, according to rumor, was broken on account of Dodo. Bannister Mowbray, of forbidding reputation, is the guest of honor. The hostess hands one of her guests a savage looking dirk to use to cut fruit.

INSTALMENT V.
DRUGGED GUESTS.

When the fruit reached Tommy, Dinah Blake's eager hand sped past him and caught up the knife.

"I must feel it! Algerian, isn't it? I love a thing like that, all scoured, and bright, and deadly. Look at the point! So—so utilitarian."

"How about a bread knife? That's utilitarian, too."

"Not like this. Tell me," she appealed to Soukine, "if you wanted to kill some one—quickly, not bungling it—where would you aim?"

"Here." The painter gravely indicated the upper edge of her bertha. "If you'd worked in a butcher's shop, as I once did——"

"A butcher's shop!" She was stroking the blade with a sort of fascination. "But what a practical experience!"

Once again, after Soukine had taken the weapon from her, she got hold of it to play with absently—a fact which stood forth stark and unforgettable when the rest of the dinner had become a jumbled memory, though at the moment it was her slender, capable hands which drew Tommy's attention.

"Not three! O, I implore you, not three cigarets with one match!"

It was Hummuck's piping voice dramatically protesting. With a sardonic smile the poetess tendered him her lighter.

"Superstitious, eh? Then it may interest you to learn we came near being thirteen at table tonight. What would you have done—swooned in our midst?"

"Thirteen! My dear lady! And tonight of all times, just when we're about to embark on——"

"S'sh—don't spoil it. Some of them don't——" The words were lost in a grumble.

Some of them don't—what? During a sudden lull Tommy became aware of expectant eyes fixed on Dorinda, who, with fumbling nonchalance, was unwrapping something dark, gummy, and odoriferous, and cutting it up into small cubes. She called loudly for a plate and, having arranged the lumps upon it, set it in front of Mrs. Cope-Villiers.

"Now!" she exclaimed in childish triumph. "Don't ever say you've tasted this before, because you haven't. It's a grand novelty; first appearance in Paris. They serve it at feasts in Burmah—or is it Siam? I forget, but never mind, it's marvelous stuff. Try a bit."

"An Indian sweet?" Dick giggled, examining a cube doubtfully. "Looks fairly foul, like those Spanish atrocities, all honey and almonds."

"More like toffee and senna pods," put in Rosemary Anson across the table. "But what's it taste like?"

"Musty. Not bad and not so good. You having some of this essence of Hindu bazaars, or is it an old story to you?"

Thus addressed, Ronald Cleeves accepted a morsel and without a flicker of expression chewed it slowly. The adjacent guests followed suit, and in due course the plate arrived at the lower end of the table. Dinah Blake and Tommy helped themselves. The latter, having taken a biggish cube and decided to make two bites of it, was still sampling the first half and trying to identify the odd, medicinal flavor when, looking up, he caught Dorinda's gaze full upon him. Mingled with the fixed brilliance of slight inebriety was an impish gleam, which suggested a joke was being played and the perpetrator thereof watching avidly to note the result.

The whole atmosphere was one Tommy mistrusted. The disagreeable tales emanating from Corsica rushed before him, and he wondered uneasily if Mowbray and the daring hussy beside him had hatched a plot the nature of which was transparent to all save the American girl and himself. Unmistakably something was going on.

Bending towards his partner he whispered impulsively, "I say, suppose you give that a miss. Unless I'm wholly off the track it's——"

"It's what?" The blue eyes flashed on him in surprise. "Nothing wrong, I hope? Because if so it's too late. I've swallowed mine."

"All of it?"

"Yes, every scrap. Why, what's up?"

A shout of laughter interrupted them. Dorinda, unable to hold in any longer, burst out with her announcement.

"Know what you've eaten? Dope! Mowbray's own particular dope! Silly asses, didn't you guess? O, what a gorgeous swiz! Now we're in for it—sink or swim together, every one of us. Here till morning."

Amidst the turmoil of counterfeit excitement Dinah gasped and put her hand to her throat. With frightened eyes and cheeks suddenly pale she clutched at Tommy's sleeve.

"Did she mean that?" she whispered. "O! How beastly of her! I—I—what are we to do about it? Dope! It's the first time in my life I've ever—O, O, I——".

Tommy, inwardly raging on his own account, squeezed her fingers reassuringly. There was nothing to be done. The stuff was eaten, all but one lump left on the plate and the unconsumed portion he still held. Surreptitiously he consigned the remaining bit to the pocket of his dinner jacket, muttering, "Listen! Let's hear what Mowbray's got to say."

"Perfectly innocuous," Mowbray was drawling in his curiously high pitched voice. "Nothing to get worked up about—yet."

"But later on?" demanded Hummuck craftily. "Ah, you wicked man, now that we're in your power it's up to you to prepare us. Are we in danger of doing anything rash?"

Rita Falkland's too-golden head nodded approval. "Quite! Are we going to have disturbing hallucinations or just oblivion?"

"First," Mowbray explained pedantically, "you must know that this concoction is as commonly used in the east as tobacco is with us. Wealthy citizens have their private mixtures of it, as we do with China tea. This brand is a mild one, only as it's unfamiliar to you a small quantity will suffice——"

"For what?" broke in Dorinda, cracking an almond with her teeth. "Go on, tell us. Benedetto! More brandy."

"To make you feel amazingly alive. To exaggerate your perceptions of touch, taste, and so on. Time will expand. Your senses of humor will grow acute, perhaps a little distorted."

["Hasheesh," was Tommy's comment. "I thought as much."]

"And then," pursued their mentor, fixing his torpid gaze on a candle flame, "consciousness will dull over. Drowsiness will close down upon you. You'll fall asleep, and you'll dream."

"What about?"

It was Dinah who fired the question. Her face troubled, she was leaning forward, breathing quickly.

"How can I foretell the nature of your dreams?" retorted Mowbray. "They will tend towards wish fulfilment, of course, but the character will vary with the individual. All I can predict is that if any one of you cherishes a desire ordinarily forbidden he may—though I can't guarantee it—taste an illusory joy of accomplishment. Have I made myself clear?"

Soukine glanced at Dinah. "And what denied satisfaction do you hope to attain?" he asked softly.

EAT AND HAVE SLIM FIGURE, SAYS EXPERT

Shows Reducing Need Not Be Hardship.

Frozen Banana Cream

1 banana
2-3 cup confectioner's sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream
2 cups coffee cream

Slice the banana very thin, add the sugar and mix thoroughly. Add the lemon juice and coffee cream. Pour into the refrigerator tray and freeze until firm. Put into a chilled mixing bowl and beat with a rotary beater until light. Fold in the whipped cream and freeze.

In order to show that one need not jeopardize health in order to develop a slim figure, Dr. Leo K. Campbell of Rush Medical college has cited results of a current scientific study.

"Reducing need not be a hardship in any sense of the word," Dr. Campbell asserted. "The idea that in order to lose weight one must choose a more or less unpalatable diet, low in meat and other appetizing foods, has been disproved. The fact that marked weakness and other serious symptoms often accompany the use of certain reducing diets is a fairly good indication that they are nutritionally inadequate, if not harmful."

Diet Should Be Normal.

Dr. Campbell exposed the fallacy of the opinion that it is necessary to select an abnormal diet in order to lose weight. A reducing diet, he said, should be normal, with its caloric value some 25 to 40 per cent below basal maintenance. Such a diet should contain proteins of good quality; minerals such as iron, phosphorus, and calcium; vitamins; sufficient bulk; and a minimum amount of carbohydrates and fat.

"We know definitly," he continued, "that lean meat is a valuable food in the reducing diet since it is an excellent source of high quality protein, iron, and phosphorus; is one of the most palatable of foods, and creates a feeling of satisfaction long after the meal is over. The use of lean meat along with other nutritious foods not only makes it possible for one to reduce normally with no discomfort, but the meat may actually aid in the loss of body fat."

As proof of the efficiency of a reducing diet, liberal in its meat allowance and, except for lessened calories, normal in all respects, this medical authority called attention to the results already obtained in the study now being conducted under his supervision. Over a period of 14 weeks the group of patients, with whom the study is being carried on, have lost an average of 26 pounds per person, he said.

Here's Daily Menu.

A typical daily menu of these patients is as follows:

BREAKFAST.
1 serving of fruit (3½ oz.)
1 egg
1 slice of toast (2/3 oz.)
1 pat of butter (1/3 oz.)
Coffee (black or with very little cream and sugar)

LUNCHEON.
2 servings of vegetables, 1 cooked and 1 raw (3½ oz. each)
1 small serving of lean meat (3 oz.), or 2 eggs, or 2 tablespoons cottage cheese
1 slice of bread (2/3 oz.)
1 pat of butter (1/3 oz.)
1 glass of milk (7 oz.)
1 serving of fruit (3½ oz.)

DINNER.
1 large serving of lean meat (5 to 6 oz.)
2 servings of vegetables, 1 cooked and 1 raw (3½ oz. each)
1 slice of bread (2/3 oz.)
1 pat of butter (1/3 oz.)
1 glass of milk (7 oz.)
1 serving of fruit (3½ oz.)

The number of calories in this menu is about 1,500, or from 1,000 to 1,500 calories less than the normal daily menu, according to Dr. Campbell. The meat intake averages a little less than one-half pound daily.

On this diet a girl 14 years of age and weighing 286 pounds, whose weight should have been about 112, lost 54 pounds in six months. The greatest loss of weight in the case of any one person—3¼ pounds per week—occurred in the case of a woman 28 years of age.

"It will be observed that the foods in the foregoing diet are of the 'stick-to-the-ribs' type," said Dr. Campbell. "The best recommendation as to the adequacy of the diet is given by the patients themselves. In addition to the fact that they have enjoyed the meals, finding them palatable and satisfying, they state that they feel better with the excess weight removed.

FILLED COOKIES EASY TO MAKE AND HERE'S HOW

Refrigerator Saves Time and Worry.

The making of filled cookies used to be a tedious process, with much rolling, cutting, and pinching. But that was before some one had the bright idea of rolling the filling up in a refrigerator cookie dough, chilling it, and slicing off the cookies. Here's how it's done:

FILLED REFRIGERATOR COOKIES.
One-half cup brown sugar
One-half cup white sugar
One-half cup butter.
One egg
One and one-half cups flour
One teaspoon baking powder
One teaspoon vanilla
Pinch of salt.

Cream the butter, add sugar and eggs and beat thoroughly. Sift the flour, baking powder, and salt together and add to the first mixture. Add the vanilla and pat out in a rectangle one-half inch thick. Spread with the following filling:

One-half pound dates, pitted and cut in pieces
One-quarter cup sugar
One-quarter cup water
One-quarter teaspoon grated orange rind.

Combine the four ingredients and cook until thick, stirring constantly to prevent burning. Cool before using. Then spread on the cookie dough and roll up like a jelly roll. Wrap in waxed paper and keep in the refrigerator overnight. Cut into thin slices and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.] 10 minutes, or until golden brown.

Another method of making filled cookies is to chill refrigerator cookie dough in a roll 2½ inches in diameter. Slice thin and place a teaspoon of jam conserve, or marmalade, between two cookies. Press edges of the cookies together with a fork to seal and bake in a moderately hot oven [375 degrees F.].

Delicious MACARONI PRODUCT

JOAN: "Cupid, you rascal, are you really selling your arrows? What is this I hear about your taking on a partner?"

CUPID: "So the gossip's reached Hollywood! I might know a girl born near Broadway would have all the latest dope. Yes, Joan, I've gone into partnership with your old friend Lux Toilet Soap."

JOAN: "I see what you're up to, Dan—you don't want to work any more!"

CUPID: "Why should I work when Lux Toilet Soap makes a girl so lovely that some man is trying to date her up every minute? You ought to know."

JOAN: "I have to admit that Lux Toilet Soap does make your skin simply ravishing. And men do fall for a beautiful complexion every time."

CUPID: "You said it! Why, that soap turns spinsters into brides—and swell-looking ones at that."

CUPID AND JOAN know what they're talking about! Lux Toilet Soap does do such lovely things to the skin that of the 694 important Hollywood actresses, including all stars, 686 have used Lux Toilet Soap for years. There's no reason why your skin can't be as alluring, as captivating as theirs. Get yourself some Lux Toilet Soap and see!

IRISH COOKING URGED FOR DAY OF ST. PATRICK

Salads Offer Green Note for the Table.

BY DOROTHY PARKHURST.

Shure, and it's Irish food you'll be wanting to serve tomorrow, the day for the wearing of the green. For, though St. Patrick's day has a religious significance, to many it means a day of gayety, with foods turning up in the shape of shamrocks, Blarney stones, and all.

For a simple home dinner you'll enjoy a real Irish stew.

IRISH STEW.

3 pounds breast of lamb, cut in pieces.
½ cup carrots, cut in cubes.
½ cup turnips, cut in cubes.
1 onion, sliced.
4 cups potatoes, cut in ¼ inch slices.
¼ cup flour.
Salt and pepper.
Dumplings.

Some Further Advice.

Put meat in a kettle, cover with boiling water, and cook slowly for two hours, or until tender. After cooking for one hour add carrots, turnips, and onion. Half an hour before serving add the sliced potatoes. Thicken with the flour, which has been mixed with ¼ cup cold water. Season with salt and pepper and serve with dumplings. This will serve eight generously.

Or the piece de resistance might be Irish "turkey," known to most of us as corned beef. Serve with Irish potatoes prepared in this manner:

O'BRIEN POTATOES.

1 slice onion.
2 tablespoons butter.
3 canned pimentos, chopped.
3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley.
3 cups cubed potatoes, fried in deep fat.

How to Fix Potatoes.

Melt the butter in the skillet, add the onion, and cook for three minutes. Add pimento and potatoes and heat thoroughly, stirring frequently. Serve sprinkled with the parsley.

Gay Irish green may turn up in a salad of lime gelatin and fruits. Or decorate a slice of pineapple with several green apple shamrocks. These are made by cooking slices of apples until tender in a sugar and water sirup to which green coloring has been added. Cool the apples and cut with a small shamrock cutter.

BLARNEY STONES.

Break fresh angel food cake into uneven pieces approximately two inches across. Make a simple confectioner's frosting tinted pale green with food coloring. Dip the pieces of cake into this, drain, and place on waxed paper. Sprinkle with a few finely ground nut meats.

IRISH SNAKE COOKIES.

Make a rich sugar and butter cookie dough from your favorite recipe, roll it out quite thin, and cut in strips about four inches long and half an inch wide. Arrange these on a greased baking sheet, curving them about in the shape of a letter S, snake fashion. Taper down the noses and the tails with a little pinch, and then, with melted chocolate, add an eye and a few stripes at intervals across the snakes. Bake in a hot oven until crisp and golden brown.

President Angell of Yale Visits City En Route West

Dr. James Rowland Angell, president of Yale university, and Mrs. Angell passed through Chicago yesterday bound for a western speaking tour and a trip to Honolulu. The couple left on the Chicago and North Western's Columbine limited. On many of his appearances Dr. Angell will lecture before alumni groups, including those in Denver, Los Angeles, Seattle, and Honolulu. He will deliver the "charter day" address at the University of California on March 22.

Wife of President's Son Christens New Warship

Quincy, Mass., March 15.—(AP)—The destroyer Farragut, first of her class to be built since the completion of the wartime program, glided down the ways here today to join Uncle Sam's battlefleet. Mrs. James Roosevelt, daughter-in-law of the President, bestowed upon the vessel the name of the famous American naval hero.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Baked potatoes will be more mealy if a small piece is cut off one end. This allows the steam to escape during baking.

Muffins should be removed from the pans as soon as they are baked to prevent sogginess.

A fish odor may be removed from the hands by washing them in a strong salt solution.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: Suffering in Silence

ATTRACTIVENESS FIRST ART IN SERVING FOODS

Meats, Then Vegetables to Be Considered.

Do you remember your first visit to a cafeteria when you headed down the line with intentions of picking up a light lunch, and loaded enough on the tray for a couple of husky dinners? Call it what you will, psychology, palate appeal, or eye appeal, cafeterias have a strange power of making us hungry. While the restaurants and tea rooms tempt us with good sounding names on the menus, the cafeterias display their food in such tantalizing ways that they seem to say, "Come, get me."

Which brings the thought that perhaps an observing trip along the cafeteria counter would teach housewives about serving foods attractively.

Meats Are First.

First are the meats, all decked out in their crispy brown coats. Pork chops are decorated with slices of grilled pineapple, salmon loaves with slices of hard cooked eggs, chop suey with rounded mounds of steamed rice, and fish sprinkeld with paprika. Enticing, aren't they?

Next, the vegetables. Psychology is partly responsible for their arrangement, and we might try it on the next vegetable plate we serve. Green, red, white, and yellow vegetables are placed alternately to enhance the colors of their neighbors. Two shades of green, or two shades of red vegetables are far enough apart that the colors can't clash. Sprinkles of chopped parsley, paprika, and melted butter add to their beauty.

Salads Hard to Pass.

It's hard to pass up the salad counter. Individual jelly rings, crispy vegetables and attractive combinations of fruit invite us to stop. Among the variety of salad garnishes we notice the bright maraschino cherries on waldorf salads, bits of green candied apple, complimenting the colors in orange and peach salads, while curly endive and watercress flank the sides of vegetable combinations.

Whether we wanted dessert or not, it's hard to resist them. Whipped cream and the pastry tube have joined forces to form dainty rosettes on cornstarch puddings, fruit gelatins, and whips. Powdered sugar is sprinkled over the top of fruit pies [which do not ooze out of their crusts] and the cake frostings and fillings are smooth and creamy, but not soft and runny.

The orderly rows of breads and muffins, platters of cheese and plates of cookies, all inspire one to try neat, attractive arrangements of food for the family table.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm By Bob Becker

Separate Pig "Table"

A BIG change in the feeding habits of the little pigs is now under way here on the farm. It's a sort of "separate table" arrangement. The mother pigs which have numerous offspring get their meals outside of the hog house on a concrete platform. The little grunters have to eat at a separate table inside. When mealtime comes they break forth into a chorus of shrill squealing and low pitched grunting as they hustle around on the floor to get a mouthful of tankage and corn or some ground oats. The recent mild weather has been much to the liking of the noisy little porkers. You don't see any more of those football pileups with every little pig trying to get as close as he can to his pals in order to keep warm.

Ginger, the little cocker spaniel dog that gets a big thrill out of the lambs, has had some of his enthusiasm for these animals given a severe check. Everything was all right when one or two of the little fellows were brought into the kitchen to be warmed or given a bottle of milk. Ginger had a grand time with the babies. But yesterday he decided he'd like it right in the sheepfold where lambs now are so numerous that you have to watch where you step so as to not put your foot on one of them. Ginger no more than stopped into this busy place crowded with ewes and their lambs than one old mama gave him a regular bum's rush.

Of course she didn't know that the cocker dotes on newly born lambs and is the most friendly, affectionate little animal on the farm. The ewe just figured she had better protect her baby, and so Ginger was told to step on it right away. The dog will have to enjoy his social meetings with lambs in the kitchen from now on. There will be no more visits to the sheepfold.

Every day now more lambs are being born. Practically all of these are arriving at THE TRIBUNE's auxiliary farm west of Wheaton. They can be seen by driving on Roosevelt road west of Wheaton to the Winfield road, then turning south to the first gravel cross road. Going east on this gravel road the first farm on the north side of the road is where John Rawlings has his sheepfold and the big brown lambing tent. More than 100 of the little bleaters are running around the sheepfold.

Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm, has been drawing up his plans for the location of experimental crops on the farm. It's quite a job to take a map of the property and figure just which field will take which crop, because he wants to locate nearly all of the experimental crops where they can be seen quite easily by visitors. The advantage of such an arrangement is in favor of the visitor, inasmuch as he will not have to do a lot of driving or walking on lanes through the farm when he wishes to see a certain kind of soy bean, corn, or whatever the crop may be that he is interested in. When the crops have been planted and are high enough to be inspected Clarence is going to install signs telling what each planting is and why it has been put in.

The crows on the farm are showing a lot more activity. The way they are acting is a pretty good indication that they know spring is just around the corner. It won't be long until the Kendall county crow hunt will decimate the flocks of these birds, which are far too numerous for the good of both song and game birds in the valley.

DEFENDS TAX METHOD USED IN '31 ASSESSMENT

TAX COLLECTIONS.

Real estate tax collections yesterday, including those for 1932, were $1,173,471, making a total of $115,763,934 collected since the enforcement of the Kerner-Skarda act began on April 28, 1933. The day's collection of real estate taxes and the uncollected taxes for four years follow:

	1928.	1929.
March 15	$ 12,334	$ 68,567
Uncollected	14,935,050	40,122,918
	1930.	1931.
March 15	$ 57,516	$ 178,221
Uncollected	63,641,922	60,433,905

The day's collections of 1932 real estate taxes totaled $855,333; of 1931 personal property taxes $7,765, and of 1932 personal property taxes $89,585.

N. Max Dunning, former member of the committee which advised Assessor J. L. Jacobs on methods to be used in the 1931 quadrennial assessment, testified yesterday before County Judge Jarecki that the assessment did not discriminate against small property owners. Dunning is now assistant director of the national housing division of the Civil Works administration.

He was called as a rebuttal witness by Henry P. Chandler, counsel for Mr. Jacobs, in the hearing on the petition of the Chicago Real Estate Board for a 15 per cent reduction on the 1931 real estate assessments of the 438,000 homes and small flat buildings in Cook county. Dunning said that an analysis of the best data available had shown that the square foot base price system used in computing assessed valuations on real estate was an equitable method. After Dunning's testimony Judge Jarecki continued the hearing to March 20.

Mr. Jacobs announced that last night at midnight was the deadline for the filing of 1933 personal property schedules in North township. The deadline in Lake View township is March 26.

ETHYLENE GAS REMOVES HUSKS FROM WALNUTS

See Revolutionary Change in Harvesting Nuts.

The use of ethylene gas for the development of a desirable color in mature citrus fruits, originated several years ago by chemists of the United States department of agriculture, has recently been adopted by walnut growers as an aid in removing the husks from "stick tight" nuts.

In the commercial harvesting of walnuts the trees are shaken as soon as the outer husk of the nut begins to crack. On from 15 to 50 per cent of the nuts the outer husk has not been cracked. Those which have commenced to split can be husked in the field, washed, and taken to dehydrators. Those which have not split, and which are termed "stick tights" must be subjected to a rather lengthy treatment, entailing additional expense and staining of some of the shells, so that the nuts must be sold as culls.

The ethylene gas treatment has apparently solved the problem of "stick tight" nuts. On account of the ease with which the new method can be applied, together with its low cost, estimated at 6 to 8 cents a ton, and the higher grade of nuts so treated, walnut growers believe that a revolutionary change in walnut harvesting is at hand. However, nuts so treated will not be placed on the market until storage tests indicate that no adverse effect of any kind has been produced.

HOW TO MAKE SURE YOUR FISH WILL TASTE DELICIOUS

Ocean fish are caught by fishing fleets which bring them into the great fish market of Boston. This market grades them number 1, 2 and 3 grade, according to quality and according to how old the fish are.

All three grades are sold to you as being of fine quality, but at all kinds of prices. It is hard for you to tell whether you are buying number 1, 2 or 3 grade. But you can be sure of better than number 1 grade if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish and get them in the 40-Fathom wrapper.

For 40-Fathom Fish are caught by the 40-Fathom fleet, cleaned, boned and rushed to your dealer. They fairly fly from the 40-Fathom sea-nets to your dealer with the fresh-caught flavor of the sea all through them. They are like Grade A Milk or a choice cut of meat—the tenderloin of the sea—ready for the fire—easy to cook as bacon.

You can make sure you are buying better than number 1 grade and you can make sure your fish will taste delicious, if you ask your dealer for 40-Fathom Fish by name and see to it that the fish come to you in the 40-Fathom wrapper with the name 40-Fathom Fish printed on the wrapper. But if the fish are not in the 40-Fathom wrapper, they are not 40-Fathom Fish.

Indians Want Only Indians in Redskin Roles

Chief Many Treaties Seeks Help from NRA.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., March 15.—[Special.]—Jim Thorpe and a Blackfoot Indian actor known as Chief Many Treaties have gone on the warpath saying "the studios are using Mexicans, Hawaiians, Arabs, Chinese and Negroes to play American Indians instead of real American Indians of whom there are 500 in Hollywood. A real Indian can't get a studio job as an Indian any more, they assert. Many Treaties said he had talked it over with Sol Rosenblatt, national administrator for the movie code, when Rosenblatt was out here and obtained Rosenblatt's sympathetic attention. "We'll go direct to President Roosevelt himself if we have to," he said.

Lionel Barrymore, back from a personal appearance tour, starts with Jean Harlow as his partner next week in filming a story titled "100 Per Cent Pure." . . . Johnny Weissmuller may be sent to the south seas this summer for his next movie for MGM, with whom he yesterday signed a new long term contract. . . . Jean Hersholt, who had been with the same studio seven years, also has signed a new MGM contract, "after three days as a free lance following expiration of the old contract." . . . Metro is bringing Charles [Henry VIII.] Laughton over from England to play the father with Norma Shearer in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," which will go into porduction in about thirty days. The studio will re-create the front and interior effects of No. 50 Wimpole street for the story.

Mary Brian in "Private Scandal," with Phillips Holmes and Lew Cody, is back on the Paramount lot which gave her her start in films in "Peter Pan." It's Mary's first visit to her old home lot in three years.

The stand-in for Ginger Rogers in "Change of Heart" at Fox studio is Marie Osborne, former Baby Marie of silent films. Jack Blystone, director of the picture in which Ginger, Jimmy Dunn, Charlie Farrell and Janet Gaynor are appearing, used to handle some of Baby Marie's baby pictures before sound.

Gene Raymond, back from his European trip visiting Paris, St. Moritz, Berlin and England with his mother, Mrs. Mary Kipling, novelist, says his jaunt taught him one thing—to properly admire American girls, the way they wear clothes and their sprightliness.

Gifted Children Are Marked by Definite Traits

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

We all have a way of making fun of the proud parent who tells his child's bright sayings. But does it surprise you when I say that the average parent of a really brilliant child doesn't know he's brilliant—and is even surprised when he is told? Yet such is the fact. Parents are often amazed when told the result of special testing.

It may be of interest to parents—and a help to the misunderstood bright children—to know some of the signs of superior mentality. Having verified by my own experience certain symptoms that a well known authority on this subject lists I am going to quote Dr. Hollingworth to you.

"The mentally superior child usually evinces early in life an interest in the exact meaning of words and in numbers. I have had most interesting examples of this. I have seen young children start a sentence, find that its construction was not going to express perfectly their meaning, and go back and begin all over again, deliberately recasting the form to convey precisely what they meant.

"I have also seen young children almost as soon as they learned the value of various coins do mental gymnastics with quarters and dimes and dollars. And later toss large numbers about long before they could really "do arithmetic"—I mean such things as "a thousand thousand makes a million, don't they?" or "a half of a million is the same as five hundred thousand, isn't it?"

The bright child is drawn to dictionaries and encyclopedias.

He is often the youngest in his class.

He does not talk or think loosely. What his mind does it does with precision.

to feed and clothe the soldiers of his regiment that he was impoverished and had to sell all that he had to pay his debts. He always hoped that the congress of his day would reimburse him, but he died a disappointed man.

Since then, however, patriotic citizens throughout the country have given their time, effort, and money to restore this home so that it is now a national shrine. Every January school children are allowed to visit Kenmore without charge. Last January 5,000 passed through the home.

Mrs. Meeker is regent of Illinois' Kenmore friends. Mrs. Joseph Medill Patterson is the chairman of the program, assisted by a committee that includes several with southern attachment. There are Mrs. John L. Cochran, whose home was originally in Baltimore; Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., a southerner; Mrs. Charles J. Faulkner, whose father was a senator from West Virginia; Mrs. William B. McCluer, a Virginian; Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, whose ancestry goes back to Virginia and Baltimore; Mrs. Richard T. Crane Jr., and Mrs. Morris Leidy Johnston.

For those who do not care to have dinner at the Casino the night of the benefit, tickets will be sold separately for just the lecture.

German Professor to Lecture on Art.

Members of the Renaissance society and others interested in art are showing interest in the lecture that Dr. Erwin Panofsky of Hamburg university is going to give Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in the auditorium of International house, 1414 East 59th street. The lecture will be open to the public, but only the Renaissance members and their guests are invited to a dinner for the professor that is being given beforehand, also at International house. Dr. Panofsky, who is visiting professor of the history of art at New York university, will talk on "Classical Mythology in Medieval Art."

Dr. Panofsky will also lecture at the Art institute and at the Arts club during his stay in Chicago. The Arts club has invited its members to hear him lecture on "The Conception of Transcience in Poussin and Watteau" next Monday morning at 11 o'clock.

Benefit Program for University Settlement.

A dozen or more dinner parties precede the benefit show for the University of Chicago settlement tonight in Mandel hall on the Midway. Prof. and Mrs. Edgar J. Goodspeed will entertain Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney, President Robert M. Hutchins, and Mrs. George Nichols Jr.

Prof. and Mrs. Henry Gordon Gale and Prof. and Mrs. Arthur H. Compton will be joint hosts and hostesses to Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Harper, the Rev. and Mrs. Von Ogden Vogt, and Dr. Karl Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Prof. and Mrs. Andrew McLaughlin will entertain Mr. and Mrs. William B. Greenlee, John V. Farwell, and Mrs. Cyrus Bentley.

The performance, which is the 35th annual show given by the university community for its favorite philanthropy, the settlement "back o' the yards," includes three plays this time. They are "Box and Cox," a 100 year old farce which will be acted by faculty members; "Roots," a short problem play which will be acted by students, and "Town Hall Tonight," a comedy to be given by alumni.

Oxford and Cambridge men are gathering at 6:30 this evening in a private dining room of the Harvey restaurant for a boat race dinner that they hope to make an annual custom. Tomorrow afternoon the Oxford-Cambridge race will be run in the Thames river from Putney to Mortlake.

Union League Club to Hear Miss Skinner.

If last year's turnout is any criterion, the dining room of the Union League club will be filled tonight when Cornelia Otis Skinner is the guest of the club at dinner. There were, we recall, 1,200 guests last year when she was present and gave a program of her skits.

All of the members of the Winnetka Garden club have decided to be present at Mrs. Robert Gardner's home at 96 Indian Hill road, Winnetka, at 2:30 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon to hear Mrs. Preston Rice speak on "Gardening—Art and Craft." Mrs. Rice, an easterner, has promised that her talk will be a practical aid in solving gardening problems. While in Winnetka Mrs. Rice will be the guest of Mrs. Samuel M. McCauley.

Polish General to Arrive Today.

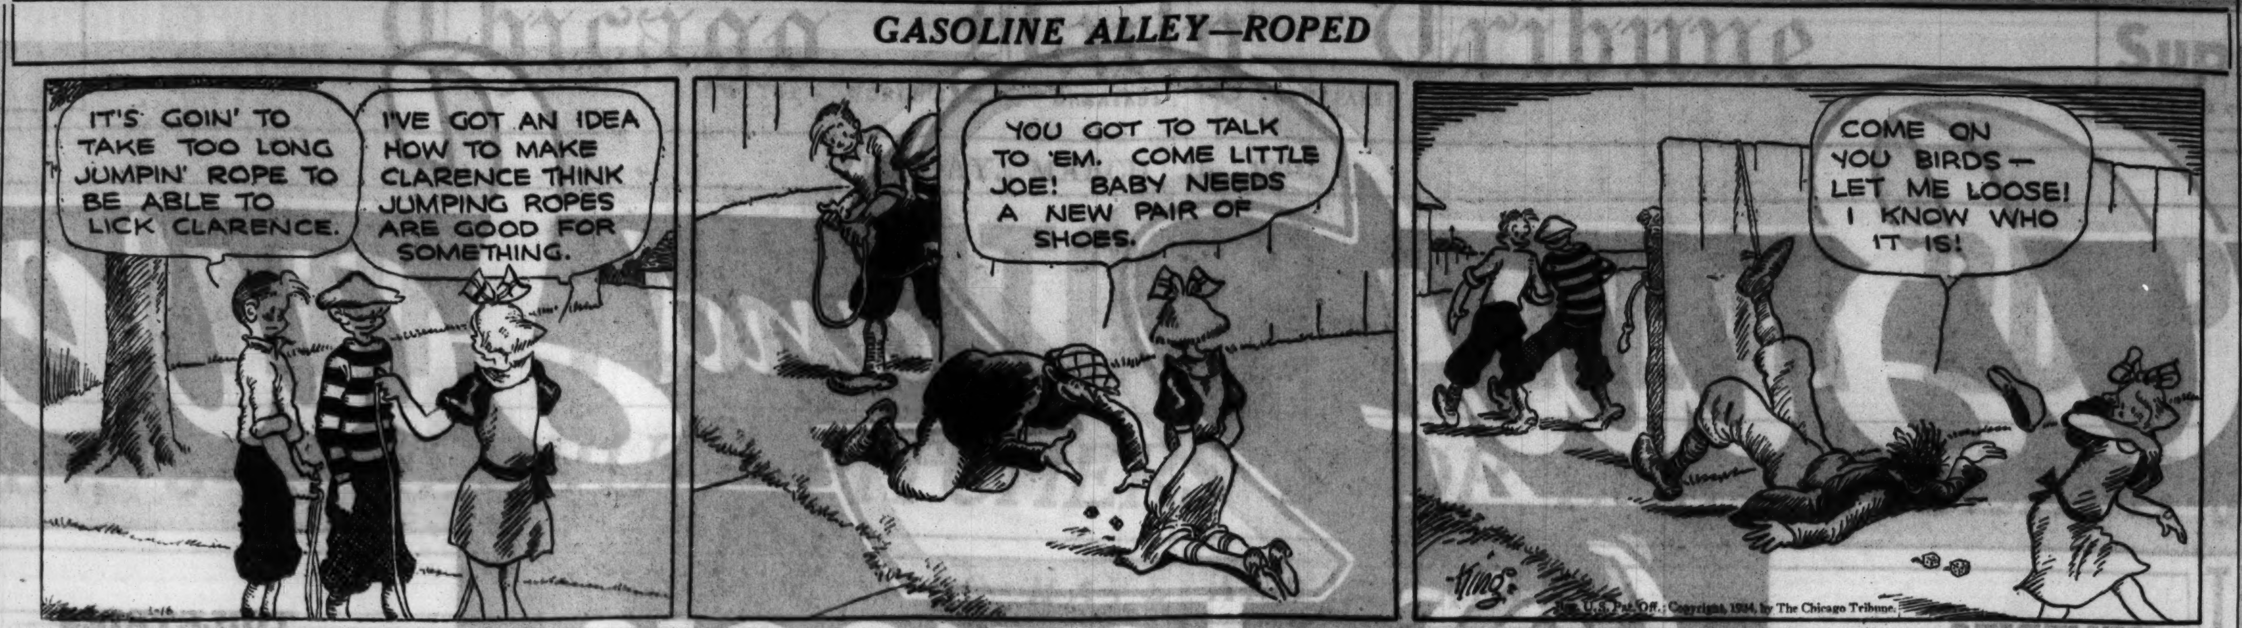
The Polish consul general, Titus Zbyszewski, and many Polish-Americans and Americans interested in Poland will be waiting to meet Gen. Josef Haller, the commander in chief of Polish forces during the world war, who arrives in Chicago today with a staf of four and his son, Eric. They will stay at the Drake hotel for the week they are in town.

The consul general is giving a luncheon for the general tomorrow in his apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive, which the consul staf will attend. Mr. Zbyszewski is also giving a reception for the general tomorrow evening at his apartment, to which he has invited his friends.

Dorothy Dillon to Wed Chicagoan.

Yesterday in New York Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Dillon of New York and Dark Harbor, Me., announced the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Anne, to Philip Elsworth Allen of Chicago, son of the late Charles Allen and of the late Mrs. David Percy Williams of Pittsburgh. Miss Dillon attended the Chapin school in New York and was graduated from the Foxcroft school in Virginia. She made her debut in 1930. Mr. Allen, who was graduated from Cornell in 1923, is in business in Chicago.

GASOLINE ALLEY—ROPED



Mrs. Browning Gives Party on 97th Birthday

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

"The fountain of youth may be in Florida but the source of gracious loveliness that knows no age cannot be far from the shores of Lake Otsego."

With this tribute Admiral Wat T. Cluverius congratulated Mrs. Stephen Garretson Browning yesterday on the occasion of her 97th birthday. Admiral Cluverius was one of Mrs. Browning's host of friends and admirers who stopped in at the Drake hotel in the late afternoon to extend good wishes at the birthday reception given by her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Loesch.

"I never visit Cooperstown, N. Y., spread so quietly along lovely Lake Otsego, without thinking of Mrs. Browning, for there it was that she was born," Admiral Cluverius continued yesterday. "It seems to personify the youth that has held on to her spirit, yet the mellow charm of years, added score upon score, that has molded her personality."

Any debutante might have been envious yesterday of the attention showered on this lady who counts as many years as Chicago itself. (Chicago was incorporated March 4, 1837. Mrs. Browning was born the daughter of Col. John Holmes Prentiss on March 15, 1837.) Beaux waited in line to shake her hand while bowers of flowers decorated the Lord Nelson room in which the party was held.

"I don't know whenever I have been so happy," Mrs. Browning remarked as she stepped down from the little dais where she had been receiving to cut her great white cake edged with 97 pink candles. Standing beside the cake she looked like a Dresden doll, her blue eyes twinkling with humor, her white hair brushed softly from her forehead, and her hands covered with black lace mitts. She carried a charming old fashioned bouquet. Pinned at the neck of her black lace gown were two purple orchids.

"I thank you all so much for remembering me," she continued. "My grandchildren, the Henry K. McCargs, came out from New York and brought me a brand new dress for my birthday. And think of it, the bellboys here in the hotel sent me a telegram.

"I often wonder why the Lord has left me in the world so long. I'm sure it's not to see President Roosevelt in the White House. But I'm happy, happy as can be. The blessing of the Lord on you all and may you enjoy life as I have."

James Fenimore Cooper, grandson of William Cooper, who founded Cooperstown, and son of James Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, remembered Mrs. Browning's birthday with a letter. "Blessed art thou with eternal youth," he wrote.

Husbands Now Assuming Role of the Nagger

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"He nagged her when she got home late!"

"Yes, I would come home late at night after working twelve to fourteen hours, and he would keep me up for hours making sarcastic remarks. That made me nervous."

This vision of the nagging industry passing into other hands might be more ominous were it not a moving picture star complaining. There is no question but that the irregular hours and the long, long days of work to which the cinema folk are subjected is one of the major influences in the Hollywood marriage debacle. The work out there in Hollywood is trying on nerves.

But it was of a non-professional's adoption of the nagging rites that we started out to talk about. The woman works until 11 o'clock, the one and only job she has been able to get, and earning the one and only income in the family. Before she leaves for her work she does every bit of the housework, washing, ironing, mending, everything, leaves the dinner practically prepared. Home at 11:30 p. m., she enters as tired as you may imagine to be greeted with suspicious accusations and ceaseless nagging. The wonder is not that the husband nags, but that the woman takes it.

We understand, of course, that a goodly part of this male nagging is nothing more than a man's resentment against the woman assuming his place as bread winner.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Crocker of 655 Buckingham place announce the marriage of their daughter, Jeanette, to Sanford S. Ruttenberg, son of M. Ruttenberg of Madison, Wis., which took place March 8. Mr. and Mrs. Ruttenberg are in California on their wedding trip.

Paris Takes to White Lace for Evening Frocks

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Spring makes styles a transparent fact in Paris. The new fashions move toward softer, more fluid effects, with all stiffness and masculinity gone, and in this new mode Paris takes to white lace as a smart evening fabric. Later in the summer lace will come out in the daytime according to present forecasts.

The debut of this beautiful material was at the recent "White and Gold" ball at the Ritz in Paris when Comtesse Elie de Gaigeron appeared in the Molyneux frock shown in our sketch. It is made of thread lace with a spray pattern and is pure white. The simple bodice is surpliced in front and the skirt is flared by plaited godets from knees to hem. The comtesse wore a bouquet of shaded red velvet roses with this frock, the only bit of color, except for several heavy bracelets set with jewels.

This frock brings out the new tendency to uncover the arms and shoulders for evening, and as spring advances, you will see more of this kind of frank décolleté for formal evening.

Review Democratic Principles, Appeal to D. A. R. Convention

Illinois members of the Daughters of the American Revolution were warned yesterday at their annual convention in Evanston not to forget their responsibilities as voters.

"More than the foreign born, women who are proud of their revolutionary ancestry must renew their pledge to the flag, to review American history, to study the principles of democratic government and strengthen their sense of responsibility as voters," said Mrs. I. E. Stone of Springfield, state chairman of the Americanism committee.

Dr. Rolf Jaeger Is Named New German Consul Here

Dr. Rolf Jaeger, acting German consul since the retirement of Dr. Hugo F. Simon last August, yesterday was appointed consul general at Chicago, according to a dispatch from Berlin. Before coming here Dr. Jaeger headed the German consular corps at New Orleans. He has been in the diplomatic service since 1929. His first appointment took him to Barcelona, Spain. The new consul has been vacationing in Berlin since Jan. 1. His predecessor, Dr. Simon, has been living in Chicago since his retirement. He plans to return to Germany June 1.

Frequent Tonic and Cleansing Benefit the Eyes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

I don't think that we have been talking half enough about eyes lately. We've been more concerned with their cosmetics than with the freshness of the eyes, the good, firm texture of the lid before the shadow goes on. Much the same thing as trying to paint a face over a crinkled, wrinkled skin and expecting a charming effect is daubing a wrinkled, crinkled lid with green or blue eyeshadow.

When you think of all the nice, clean, dirty work you can get in with those orbs, it is a shame that you don't coax them along better. Strong eye lotions I am not for, unless they have been recommended professionally for eye troubles. But there are mild lotions that are cleansing, and strengthening and brightening. A little boric acid in water is one of these. But salt water, a bit of salt in a glass of warm water, does nice things for the eyes. And, of course, there are good eye lotions on the market that contain simple ingredients. Even water alone is good. Warm water pads applied at night, and cold water ones in the morning, are eye tonics. Or, if you don't want to bother with the pads splash the warm water into the eyes at night, and the cold in the morning.

Goodness knows how many women never treat their lids to a creaming. The rest of the face gets it all. No wonder the skin crinkles. This skin needs nursing along just as the skin on cheek, and nose, and chin does.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., March 15.—[Special.]—Mrs. Henry A. Wallace, wife of the secretary of agriculture, was entertained at luncheon today by Mrs. Lester J. Dickinson, wife of the senator from Iowa, at the Congressional club. Among the other guests were Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Mrs. James F. Byrnes, Mrs. Bennett Champ Clark, and Mrs. J. Ryan Duffy, wives of senators; Mrs. W. C. Ramseyer of Iowa, Mrs. Chester C. Davis, Mrs. Seth Thomas, Mrs. George N. Peek of Chicago, and Mrs. Richard Hughes.

Mrs. Dern, wife of the secretary of war, was the special guest at luncheon yesterday of Mrs. Wayne Chatfield Taylor of Chicago in her Georgetown home. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will have with them for the spring vacation their son Hobart, who will come in a few days from his studies at St. Mark's.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

OPENER'S PROCEDURE AFTER RESPONSE OF TWO NO TRUMPS.

AFTER you have opened the bidding with one in a suit and your partner responds with two no trumps, your position at the table should govern your next bid.

If you have opened in the first or second position then your rebid may be more optimistic in nature than if you were in the third or fourth position. This is because your partner has had no previous chance to enter the bidding and may have a clear original bid in his hand.

It is true that we advocate passing ace, king, and an ace in the first position with a defensive type of hand, but how often does this occur? If your partner has already passed and then gives this strong response you must provisionally give him credit for only a minimum of two tricks in distributed form with stoppers in the three suits not bid by you. If he can later reveal that he passed three primary tricks, so much the better for a slam try. Do not overlook the possibility that he may have a hand such as the following:

Spades—x x Diam—J 9 x x
Hearts—Q 10 x x Clubs—A K Q

If you opened with a spade, your partner could not bid one no trump, a "signoff," for fear you would pass; he knows that with any proper kind of a bid in your hand game is assured. So he must respond with two no trumps.

The policy of showing your second suit is particularly effective when your partner holds a hand of the above type. If you can bid hearts over his response and you are short of diamonds, it will be impossible to miss game and you surely will make overtricks if you do not contract for a slam.

The response of two no trumps generally denies normal support for the opening bid. Your second suit of four cards might find your partner with a holding of four to an honor and it is better to play as trumps an eight card suit divided 4-4 than 6-2. For this reason, bid this suit.

North: ♠A-Q-10-5 ♥K-Q-10-6-3-2 ♦7-3-2 ♣None
West: ♠6-2 ♥9-5 ♦K-9-8-6 ♣K-Q-8-7-6
East: ♠J-8-3 ♥A-J-7 ♦A-5-4 ♣10-9-5-3
South: ♠K-9-7-4 ♥8-4 ♦Q-J-10 ♣A-J-4-2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	Pass	1 Ht. [1]	Pass
2 N. T. [2]	Pass	3 Sp. [3]	Pass
4 Sp. [4]	Pass	Pass	Pass

1. An aggressive type of hand. Can be rebid twice.
2. Spades and clubs are both doubly stopped if North holds as good as the ten spot in the suits. There are over two tricks in the hand.
3. Showing less spades than hearts, so partner knows that there is a possibility that the hand is a shaded two-suiter of the aggressive type.
4. Even if the opening bid was shaded, South is anxious to play for game. His raise assures North that he holds four spades with an honor.

The play:

Trick.	East.	South.	West.	North.
1.	♣10	♣A*	♣8	♦2
2.	♥A*	♥8	♥9	♥Q
3.	♣9	♣2	♣7	♠5*
4.	♠3	♠4	♠2	♠Q*
5.	♠8	♠K*	♠6	♠10
6.	♥7	♥4	♥5	♥K*
7.	♥J	♠9*	♣6	♥2
8.	♠J	♠7	♦6	♠A*

North now makes his last three heart tricks.

If hearts had been the final declaration North must lose two heart tricks and two diamond tricks.

In the play of the cards, North must draw only two rounds of trumps and then hope that the hand that contains three hearts has the third spade. If so, the contract cannot be defeated, otherwise he will be set one trick.

Matronly Figures Are Flattered by Tailored Lines of Shirtwaist Model

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Shirtwaist dresses are as popular for matrons as for the younger generation. This is an easy dress to make, and you'll certainly like it when made. The front, buttoned closing, short or long sleeves, pockets, and the pretty skirt with inset plaits at the front are all smart details. Any of the usual cottons, tub silks, etc., are suitable.

The pattern, No. 2574, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Films of Microscopic Life Will Be Shown at Field Museum

Motion pictures of microscopic life will be shown at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum. The films are made with special cameras in combination with microscopes, X-ray machines, and with an elapsed time device which permits condensing into a few minutes pictures of natural phenomena which took place over days or months.

The films were made by Dr. Arthur C. Pillsbury, scientist of Berkeley, Cal., who will lecture on "Miracles in Nature." Dr. Pillsbury is the inventor of the complicated camera with which the films were made. The pictures show flowers opening, growing, passing on to another stage of their lives, and germination of plant life.

rain on the roof

Let the rain patter on the roof. It's warm and comfortable inside. After meals, while sitting around the fireplace, when it's raining, have you ever tried serving steaming, fragrant cups of Hills Bros. Coffee? There's nothing quite so good as really good coffee on rainy days. Or any other days, for that matter. Please remember this: Hills Bros. Coffee is made for those who like good coffee—for families of two or twenty-two who like to count the pennies. Because of greater strength and abundance of flavor, Hills Bros. Coffee is actually more economical to use—compared cup for cup—than "bargain counter" coffees. Order Hills Bros. today!

CUBS WIN, 3-2; RECRUIT PITCHERS STOP LOS ANGELES

THE GUMPS—TO HAVE AND TO HOLD

BILL LEE HURLS FOUR INNINGS IN BIG TIME STYLE

Angels Threaten in Ninth.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—The Cubs opened the annual Uncle Tom's Cabin circuit tour this afternoon by beating the Los Angeles Angels of the Coast league, 3 to 2. The final score might lead to the impression it was a teeming struggle, but as a matter of record, it was only a sorry spectacle in which 35 athletes did a good job of putting one thousand spectators to sleep.

WOODY ENGLISH.

The Cubs, represented by sixteen men, did nothing to prove themselves major leaguers. They showed a trace of hitting skill in the first inning and then adopted a policy of watchful waiting. This procedure happened to work out properly. The two runs in the sixth by which they clinched the decision were forced on them by the wildness of one of the three Los Angeles pitchers. The victory almost got away in the ninth because of a flurry by Roy [Lefty] Joiner, one of the freshman pitchers.

Lee Keeps 'Em Guessing.

About the only commendable thing coming to Manager Grimm's attention was the pitching of Bill Lee, the tall boy from the Columbus, O., team. Lee pitched four innings and only two Angels fluttered as far as first base. One got a hit and the other walked.

One tally was the best the Cubs could produce from a double, a single, and another double in the first inning. English led off with a two bagger to left center. He scored on a drive along the right field line by Billy Herman, but the latter was thrown out by Demaree when he tried to go to second. Cuyler grounded out. Klein introduced himself to Coast league circles by doubling to left.

Jurges Starts Trouble.

As soon as Joiner took over the Cub pitching in the fifth trouble popped, but the bald headed southpaw wasn't to blame. He set down the first two Angels, whereupon Jurges juggled Lepanovic's roller. Mesner, a 16 year old athlete, went in to hit for Nelson. Earlier the breezy youth had stopped Manager Grimm cold by remarking that the Cubs needn't think they are going anywhere. Mesner added insult by doubling to rifht, scoring Lepanovic.

After being kept more or less in leash by Nelson for five innings, the Cubs made good use of his successor, Lefty Judd, in the sixth. English fouled out and Billy Herman doubled to left. Cuyler fanned, but reached first on a missed third strike. Billy Herman stole third at the same time. A pass to Klein loaded the bases. Stainback, who took Babe Herman's place, also walked and W. Herman scored. Tate fanned, but Jurges walked and Cuyler was forced to score. Then Judd was relieved by Buxton, who struck out Jones.

The disturbance kicked up against Joiner in the ninth appeared after the first two Angels were retired. Gilly Campbell, a former Cub, batted for the pitcher and singled through Jurges. Mattick, a son of Chink Mattick, once with the White Sox, sent Galan spinning with a torrid single. Lepanovic singled to left, scoring Campbell and putting Mattick on third with the tying run. Then Mesner bounced into a force play.

WINTER HORSES.

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., March 15.—The Wake has asked several owners and trainers at Hialeah Park whether, in their opinion, 2 year olds and 3 year olds can be raced this early in the season and still retain their form for the later meetings in Maryland, Kentucky, Illinois, and New York.

Differing views were elicited. Those most positive against early racing naturally did not wish their identity revealed lest it be construed a knock against the pleasurable sport here. They maintained it was suicidal to a 2 year old's later chances to race it over the oval where flamingos grace the infield, and that it could not be beneficial to a 3 year old to endure such a long campaign.

There were some, however, who maintained a colt or filly, if high class in the beginning, could start in such a stake as the Florida Derby Saturday and still be kept in form for the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Preakness at Pimlico, American Derby at Washington Park, Belmont stakes at Belmont Park, Classic at Arlington Park, and Saratoga Handicap and Cup at Saratoga.

Even this affirmative coterie qualified its opinion with the provision that somewhere along the line the colt must be let down in training and then taken up again; in simpler language, perhaps, eased up and then sharpened. In such effort there always is the chance the youngster will not come back to his previous form if it was topnotch, although there seems no reason, unless weariness, why he should not.

The fact remains that the greatest performers usually do not race at winter tracks. It's a turf axiom that "winter horses do not win Derbies" similar to "fillies do not win Derbies." There are exceptions, as Black Gold proved in 1924 by annexing the Louisiana Derby, then coming north to win the Kentucky Derby at Louisville, Chicago Derby at Hawthorne and other stakes. There is also Inlander last year.

Charley O., owned by the R. M. Eastman estate of Chicago, was winner of the Florida Derby last year, with a net value of $10,475. Because of his impressive win he was well considered at Louisville, but finished third, beaten by Brokers Tip and Head Play. In the American Derby, won by Mr. Khayyam, Charley O. was fifth.

But look at Inlander, a "winter horse" which finished third in the Florida Derby. Inlander ran ninth in the Kentucky Derby, but was surprise winner of the Arlington Classic, coupled with Okapi, and afterward won the Travers mile. He was leading 3 year old money winner with $57,430 earned and had as good a right as anything to claim the scrambled 3 year old championship. He's a concrete argument that horses may race here and still capture later season stakes.

AURORA TO OPEN CHICAGO RACING SEASON MAY 1

Sportsman's Park Given Autumn Dates.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A schedule calling for 158 days of horse racing at six tracks in the Chicago district was announced by the members of the new Illinois racing commission yesterday. The season will open Tuesday, May 1, and end Wednesday, Oct. 31.

Three of the tracks—Arlington Park, Lincoln Fields, and Hawthorne—received everything they asked of the commission when they filed their original application for racing days.

The other three did not fare quite so well.

Sportsman's Park, Chicago's only half mile track, was denied a permit to conduct a spring meeting from May 1 to May 19. Its application for a fall meeting of 21 days, extending from Oct. 8 through Oct. 31, was granted.

Aurora Gets 20 Days.

Aurora applied for twenty-six spring racing days, beginning May 1. It was granted 20 days, so its season will end Wednesday, May 23.

The Washington Park association had asked for 30 days. It was given a permit for a 27 day season opening on May 24 and ending on June 23.

	Opens.	Closes.	Days.
Aurora	May 1	May 23	20
Washington Park	May 24	June 23	27
Arlington Park	June 25	July 28	30
Hawthorne	July 30	Sept. 1	30
Lincoln Fields	Sept. 3	Oct. 6	30
Sportsman's Park	Oct. 8	Oct. 31	21

The owners of the tracks whose dates were curtailed had no statements to make last night. There were hints that Sportsman's Park might ask for a rehearing in an effort to get back on the spring schedule, yet these reports did not come from any one in authority.

Draw Up Stake Schedule.

Heads of the larger tracks were busy drawing up a schedule for the renewal of their stake races. Col. Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association which owns Washington Park and Lincoln Fields, expected to be able to name the date for the running of the American Derby within the next couple of days. It probably will be run on either June 9 or 16.

The Arlington Futurity, which will be the richest race run in Chicago this season and which will carry a possible gross value of $60,000, likely will be run Saturday, July 28. When the Futurity was added to the Arlington program it was the idea of the officials of the Arlington Jockey club to run it on the last day of each season.

Dates for the running of the Arlington Classic, Hawthorne Gold Cup, Illinois Oaks, Lincoln Handicap, Illinois Owners' Handicap, and many other early closing events will be announced within a few days.

Contract for Baer-Carnera Bout June 14 Is Drawn Up

New York, March 15.—(AP)—A battalion of lawyers clicked shut their brief cases today and left the much argued heavyweight title defense of Primo Carnera against Max Baer all set for June 14 in Madison Square Garden's bowl on Long Island.

Cautiously the Garden announced that there were still a few minor details to be ironed out and that there was still a possibility the big match would strike a snag. But the lawyers, who have been in full command of almost 24 hour discussions for three straight days, seemed satisfied at last.

Contracts Drawn Up.

The contracts for the match have been drawn up and, after further examination, may be signed within the next 24 hours by Louis Soresi, manager of the champion, and Ancil Hoffman, pilot of the challenger. Hoffman planned to leave immediately after the signing for California to round up Baer and set him to work. Col. John Reed Kilpatrick, who conducted negotiations for the Garden, left by plane tonight for Fort Worth, Tex., on other business.

No heavyweight title match in recent years presented the obstacles that had to be overcome in bringing together the warriors who rose last summer—Carnera by his knockout of Jack Sharkey for the title, Baer by flooring Max Schmeling for the count. Negotiations have been under way ever since.

Baer's Cut Increased.

The Garden finally compromised on Baer's demand that Jack Dempsey be invited into promotion of the match by increasing the challenger's percentage to a point where he can reimburse the former champion himself. Although the terms were not made public, Baer probably will receive 20 per cent of the receipts, Carnera 37½. Baer always has felt deeply indebted to Dempsey for promoting the Schmeling match, in which the big Californian leaped to fame.

KEARNS IS SUED FOR $23,400 TO SUPPORT A CHILD

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—John L. McKernan, better known as Jack Kearns, fight manager, was sued for $23,400 today by Elizabeth Williams. She claims he is the father of her daughter, Mary Helen McKernan, 8.

Richard H. Sampson, attorney for Miss Williams, said she formerly was a cigar counter clerk at a hotel owned by Dempsey. She asked $150 a month for the support and education of the child until the daughter becomes 21 years old.

BULLETIN.

The German team, Ewald Wissel and Franz Lehmann, took the lead in the six day bicycle race at the Stadium at 3 o'clock this morning.

Three hours of riotous riding threw the six day bicycle race into the wildest tangle of the week at the Chicago Stadium last night.

When the jamming ended at midnight, after five of the stars in the race had gone down in perilous spills, five teams were in a tie for the lead and they were riding with an abandon which caused nearly all the 9,000 spectators to forget to go home.

The leaders were:
McNamara and Lands.
Reboli and Severnini.
Peden and Schaller.
Debaets and Ottevaere.
Walthour and Ritter.

Spencer Knocked Out.

The first of a series of vicious spills came soon after the 9 o'clock sprints started. McNamara and his partner, Lands, went down on a pickup and Spencer crashed into them. The three riders slid into the bikes at the trackside and knocked wheels and a rest stand into the air. Spencer was the most severely hurt. The race was held up for 18 minutes, while doctors worked over him.

Debaets and his riding companion, Ottevaere, also got into a tangle on a pickup and they rolled over and over until they hit the bottom of the pit. At the bottom they smashed into Willard Mann, a trainer, who was severely cut and bruised.

Debaets and Ottevaere were unconscious when picked up. Ottevaere recovered within a few minutes but the race was held up for forty more minutes before Dr. Mitchell S. Corbett and his staff of assistants could get Debaets back into condition to resume riding.

Audy Takes a Tumble.

Later on Jules Audy from Canada took a solo roll down the pine saucer when his legs refused to function. His balance was off also. He looked something like a sailor who had overstayed his leave when they picked him up, but he was back within five minutes chasing the leaders around the treacherous curves.

The field was reduced to ten teams at noon when Laurent Gadou of Montreal and Fred Zach of Switzerland retired. They were only a lap behind the leaders when Gadou hurried to Dr. Corbett's offices in the Stadium for examination.

Something was bothering him, but he didn't know what it was.

"Boils," said Dr. Corbett, and he ordered the Canadian rider out of the race and to bed.

1—Grimm, Winter, Letourner, Rodman.
2—McNamara, Thomas, Debaets, Ritter.
3—Grimm, Letourner, Lands, Lehmann.
4—Spencer, Audy, Ritter, Peden.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

WALTER HAGEN recently wrote to Col. Charles Lindbergh offering to trade him lessons, golf for flying. . . . Walter is still waiting for an answer. . . . Pat Malone's pet yarn is an incident that occurred one day when Chuck Klein hit two home runs against him. . . . When Chuck came up the third time Pat whispered to Hartnett he would throw a nothing ball. . . . The next moment a line drive cracked against his shin with such force that for a time he thought a leg had been broken. . . . Klein walked up while Pat was writhing in agony and inquired if the blow hurt. . . . Leslie Munns, rookie Brooklyn pitcher, wears a size 48 shirt and another Dodger recruit, Art Hering, said to be the smallest man in baseball, wears a size 3½ shoe. . . . Carnera wears 14¾.

When Lefty O'Doul made a particularly bad shot on a Miami golf course the other day he threw his favorite and most expensive club far down the fairway, prompting Mel Ott, a Giant teammate, to remark: "My, how your throwing arm has improved." . . . When Northwestern's boxing team was winding up training for its recent meet with Purdue Ed Whalen, football guard, dropped into the gymnasium. . . . He asked to spar with the heavyweight. . . . He lost no time knocking out his opponent and he was picked himself to make the trip to Lafayette. . . . Alvar Hermanson, University of Chicago fencing coach, was intercollegiate fencing champion of Sweden while at North Latin college, Stockholm. . . . He also captained the soccer, swimming, ice hocky, track, and water polo teams of his college and found time to win the amateur boxing championship of Sweden at his weight. . . .

George Dunlap Jr., national amateur golf champion, began the game as a southpaw at the age of three, on the Pinehurst course, but his father, a New York publisher, finally broke him of the habit after several protests from young George. . . . The Cubs' roster includes two former boxers. . . . Lynn Nelson once competed as the Masked Marvel. . . . Richard Ward, rookie pitcher, was a good amateur mitt wielder until a practical joker framed him by putting him against a professional. . . . Ward took a sound beating and then decided a baseball career would be less strenuous. . . . Richard Cole, orchestra leader, once played football for Bob Zuppke at Oak Park High school. . . . Dave Hunn, Michigan's sophomore pole vault star, and Steve Remias, a likely regular in the Wolverine back field next fall, applied for admission to the University of Chicago when they were high school seniors.

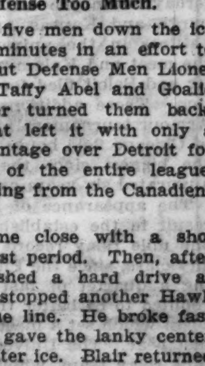
There is a policeman in Chicago named Frank Olis. . . . Years ago, when Frank Chance was manager of the Cubs, Olis was taken along for a trial on an eastern trip. . . . He was slightly overweight, due to a fondness for beer, and Chance ordered Jack McCormick, then trainer, to run the fellow around the Philadelphia ball park. . . . Before the game next day Olis told Secretary Charley Williams that if big league baseball was that tough he wanted to go home. . . . He did and joined the police force. . . . The vagaries of amateurism are strange indeed. . . . Australian golf officials planned to send two of their women stars, Olive Kay [and they do say she's O. K.] and Bessie Gaisford, to the 1934 British women's championships, paying all their expenses. . . . The Royal and Ancient Golf club of St. Andrews refused to admit them under those conditions, stating it was necessary for the gals to pay their own way. . . . The club then came back and said that if they would come to England as a two girl team and play an international match against two British girls a week before the tournament the Australian organization could pay their expenses. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—The Chicago Maroons' chance for an undisputed basketball championship was knocked awry when Wisconsin handed them a 30 to 14 beating in the last game of the season. . . . The result threw three teams, Chicago, Wisconsin, and Illinois into a tie for first place. . . . Dean Brownell of Illinois shattered the world's indoor pole vault record while his teammates won the fourteenth annual Big Ten indoor track and field championship. . . . Harry Kipke of Michigan was placed on the all-conference basketball team. . . . The Cubs lost a double header on the coast to Seattle and Los Angeles.

GOTTSELIG AND TRUDEL SCORE CHICAGO GOALS

Conacher, Abel and Gardiner Star.

TORONTO, Ont., March 15.—(AP)—The Chicago Blackhawks, still battling for a second place position in the Stanley Cup playoff series, tonight defeated the powerful Toronto Maple Leafs, 2 to 1, in a National Hocky league game. The victory brought the Hawks within a half game of the second place New York Rangers, who lost to Boston tonight. The Rangers and Hawks each have one game left to play, the Hawks meeting the Leafs again at Chicago Sunday, while the Rangers battle the Leafs here Saturday.



JOHNNY GOTTSELIG.

The defeat here was a rare experience for the Leafs, who have been almost unbeatable on Toronto ice during the current season. After Toronto had taken the first period lead on Happy Day's goal, the Hawks returned in the last two periods to outskate and outcheck them. Young Louie Trudel tied the score for the Chicagoans in the second period on a solo rush, and Johnny Gottselig scored the winning goal in the third period on passes from Lolo Couture and Donnie McFadyen.

Hawk Defense Too Much.

Toronto sent five men down the ice in the closing minutes in an effort to tie the score, but Defense Men Lionel Conacher and Taffy Abel and Goalie Chuck Gardiner turned them back. Toronto's defeat left it with only a one game advantage over Detroit for the leadership of the entire league, the latter winning from the Canadiens tonight.

Gottselig came close with a shot early in the first period. Then, after Cotton had lashed a hard drive at Gardiner, Day stopped another Hawk rush at the blue line. He broke fast with Blair and gave the lanky center the puck at center ice. Blair returned it at the Hawk defense and Day scored with a beautiful shot to the corner.

Abel was still in the box to start the second period, but the Hawks refused to play defensively. As Blair, Doraty and Cotton piled into the Chicago territory, Thompson broke away and had a clear path to Hainsworth's net. The latter forced him to move first and blocked the shot.

Coulter and Levinsky were banished for jousting at the Toronto blue line. Thompson brought Hainsworth sprawling to save his hard drive. On the return play Shill worked in close on Gardiner, who took his corner bound drive on his left foot.

Trudel Scores Unassisted.

Sheppard led a neat combination move in the Leaf defensive zone, but his pass to Goldsworthy went astray when the left winger was in a scoring position. Trudel went in on a solo play for a shot which Hainsworth stopped easily. Trudel then got the puck at center ice and made a swift dash around Levinsky to tie the score with a perfect shot to the corner.

March started the third period with a speedy dash that wound up with a shot from an impossible angle deep in the corner. Hainsworth cleared and Charley Conacher sped back for a high shot that just missed Gardiner's head. A beautiful passing play sent the Hawks into the lead when Couture carried deep into the Toronto zone and McFadyen relayed his pass to Gottselig. Johnny made no mistake with a bulletlike drive to the corner.

Leafs Rush Gardiner.

The Leafs then tore in, Blair, Cotton, and Sands raining shots on Gardiner, with Clancy backing their play, but Chuck turned everything back. Lionel Conacher broke up a Toronto attack and led a dangerous rally that wound up when Levinsky's stick blocked the big Chicagoan's shot when he was alone with Hainsworth. Thoms and Kilrea combined for a threatening dash on Gardiner, but the latter was too good.

Close Battle Expected in Relay Events.

Smashing of existing track and field records at the 36th annual Central A. A. U. indoor championship meet tonight in the University of Chicago fieldhouse is promised by the large entry list, which contains the names of some of the leading stars of the central states.

The two feature events will be the 1,600 and the 3,200 meter relay races which are being held for the first time. Wisconsin, Michigan State, Marquette, Illinois, South Parks and Oak Park Y. M. C. A. have entered teams in the 1,600 meter relay. In the 3,200 meter relay Illinois, Indianapolis Y. M. C. A., Michigan State Purdue and Marquette will be the leading contenders. Brocksmith, former Indiana university miler, and Sears will run on the Indianapolis Y. M. C. A. team. Pope Joy of Purdue will be the anchor man for his team.

Berwanger Enters Five Events.

Jay Berwanger of the University of Chicago, is entered in five events. More than forty men are entered in the 60 meter dash. Among the starters will be Ralph Metcalfe, U. S. Olympic star from Marquette; Robert Packard, Rockford sprinter; Bob Grieve of the University of Illinois; Jimmy Johnston of the South Parks, and Galleti of Loyola.

Thirty are seeking honors in the 300 meter dash. In the pole vault Schoeninger of Illinois will be vaulting against Ike Lennington, former Illinois athlete, who holds the record at 13 feet 4 inches. Three of the men entered in the shot put, Dave Cook of Illinois, Berwanger of Chicago, and Rubow of Wisconsin, have consistently tossed the iron weight more than 45 feet. Twenty men will start in the 600 meter run and fifteen in the 1,000 meter race. Twenty men, including Milo of Chicago, are competing in the 3,000 meter run.

Jumping Stars to Compete.

John Brooks, former Chicago record breaker now competing for the South Parks; Berwanger and Dreusckie of Elmhurst, Little Nineteen champion, assure plenty of action in the broad jump.

ARMOUR RELAYS SATURDAY

Entries for Armour Tech's relay carnival increased to twenty-nine institutions and over 300 individuals yesterday when the University of Pittsburgh and Kansas Aggies filed competitors in the university section of the meet and Kalamazoo college, Butler and Beloit filed for the college section. These additions will make the Armour tournament at the University of Chicago field house tomorrow night the biggest since the event was inaugurated six years ago.

The appearance of Pittsburgh may result in the establishment of a new one mile relay record for the university class, since the Pitt team is bringing a quartet of fast quarter milers reputed to be better than the Panther team which set a meet record of 3:23.5 last year. The University of Chicago mile relay team, which also will compete, was timed at 3:23 in the Big Ten meet last week, in which they tied for third.

Sears Stays Out.

Sears of Butler has not been entered in the one mile run, and there is little chance for a record in this event, although Charley Popejoy of Purdue, George Farley of Northwestern, Paul Krueger of Wisconsin, King and Young of Notre Dame, and Bremer of North Central will give class to the race.

Preliminaries in the 70 yard dash, 70 yard high hurdles and 70 yard low hurdles will be held at 4:15 tomorrow afternoon, immediately after the finish of the City High school track meet. Twenty-two events, including semifinals are scheduled for the evening, beginning at 7 p. m. One of these events is an 880 yard relay for football letter winners, in which Chicago, Northwestern and Michigan State are entered. The Chicago team was picked yesterday, and will consist of Jay Berwanger, Pete Zimmer, Ed Cullen and Bart Smith, all back field men of the last season.

Expect Close Race.

A close race is in prospect in the 880 yard run, in which Pongrace of Michigan State is a close favorite over Jack Fleming of Northwestern, Baughman and Lindsey of Illinois, Johnny Crossman of Purdue, Kubash of Marquette, Forbes of Illinois State normal and Matchett of Monmouth.

Grannis, Lake Forest Boy, Is Princeton Swim Captain

3 Chicago Prep Quintets Win in State Meet

Three of Chicago's four representatives survived the first round of play in sectional tournaments in the battle for the Illinois state high school basketball championship last night. Tilden Tech, runnerup for the Chicago Public High School league heavyweight title, was the only squad to lose. It was defeated by Thornton, defending champion, 34 to 15, at Joliet.

The three victorious teams are Lane Tech, Chicago heavyweight champion; Marshall, and Englewood. Lane Tech, playing in the Waukegan sectional, triumphed over Batavia, 29 to 28. Marshall scored a 35 to 22 victory over Belvidere and Englewood won from Winnebago, 28 to 23. Both games were played at De Kalb.

Last night's play reduced the field to 64 teams. Second round contests will be played in all 16 sectionals tonight and the winners will meet tomorrow night. The sectional champions will compete in the final round for the title at the University of Illinois next week.

Catholic High of Joliet will meet St. Philip for the heavyweight championship of the Chicago Catholic High School league at Loyola university gymnasium tonight. The lightweight title contest between St. Mel and Leo will be played at De La Salle institute gymnasium Sunday afternoon.

Tonelli Battles Terry Tonight

Laddie Tonelli, Marseilles, Ill., welterweight, and Johnny Terry will meet in the eight round windup bout tonight at Rainbo Fronton, Clark street and Lawrence avenue. Tonelli was awarded a close six round decision over Terry at Arcadia Gardens last Dec. 20. On Jan. 26 Laddie beat Johnny Owens in 10 rounds at Kansas City, Mo. Don Messina and Art Donovan, junior welterweights, clash in the five round semi-windup. Other matches:

Jack McCarten vs. George Schrosbree [4], 138.
Joe Serletic vs. Les Schultz [4], 150.
Jack Kranz vs. Bob Stone [4], heavyweights.
Al Chappelle vs. Hassen Ahmed [wrestling].

Adolph Wiater, Green Bay, Wis., heavyweight, and Willie Davies signed yesterday to meet in a five round encounter on the Laddie Tonelli-Jackie Ausborn program at Marigold Gardens Monday. Izzy Lubansky faces Danny Neenan in the five round semi-final. Al Woznica will wrestle Jack McAdams.

The gymnasium at 116 West Madison street, which was closed by Kid Howard last Jan. 10, and transformed into a shop to place bets on horses a few weeks ago by others, was raided by the police yesterday. . . . The amateur boxing show scheduled at the 24th Ward club has been postponed until next Friday because of a charity bazar tonight.

Frankie Sigilio, west side lightweight, is to begin sparring this afternoon with Carl Scalise for his six round main event against Midget Mike O'Dowd of Columbus, O., at Cicero stadium next Friday. Scalise boxes Lou Taylor in a supporting bout. Jimmy Eliopoulos, bantamweight, is boxing with Nick Scalba, former International Golden Gloves champion, at Northwest gymnasium for a six round affair against Bobby O'Dowd of Sioux City, Ia.

Johnny Coulon broke into the headlines before he became world's bantamweight champion. In 1905, when he was 15 years old, Coulon saved 7 year old Edward Kane from drowning in the East river, Brooklyn, for which he was awarded the congressional medal. Kane now is a New York stock broker.

Jimmy Cummings, Golden Gloves graduate, has signed to box at Marigold Gardens Monday. His opponent most likely will be Matt Dour. . . . Johnny Martin, Springfield, Ill., fighter, intends to turn professional next month. . . . Jackie Sharkey goes to Evansville, Ind., Monday for a 10 round battle with Billy Frick next Thursday. . . . Lou Vine went three rounds against Geno Salvatore yesterday in preparation for an eight round engagement with Young Geno at Midway arena Monday. . . . Harry Dublinsky, welterweight, expects to return from New Orleans, La., Tuesday. . . . Jackie London, lightweight, resumes boxing Monday for pending bouts. . . . Solly Dukelsky and Hank Bueker sparred three rounds at Trafton's gymnasium. Dukelsky opposes Johnny Phagan at Marigold March 26. F. M.

FAST FREIGHTS ELIMINATED FROM N. A. A. U. TOURNEY

Kansas City, Mo., March 15.—[Special.]—Chicago's last hope in the National A. A. U. basketball tournament faded here tonight when the defending champion Diamond Oilers of Tulsa defeated the Fast Freights, 40 to 38.

The Oilers forged into a 10 to 0 lead in the first 10 minutes and led 21 to 16 at the half. Twice during the last half the Chicagoans threatened to close the gap, but as many times the Oilers met the challenge. Score:

Maroons Get Minor Sports Letter Awards

Letter awards to three University of Chicago teams which won championships this winter were announced yesterday by T. N. Metcalf, director of athletics.

Eight major letters were granted to the Maroon swimming team, the members of which won the Big Ten water polo title. The recipients are Dan Glomset, Des Moines, Ia.; George Nicoll, Oak Park; Hubert Will, Milwaukee; John Barden, Winnetka, and Frank Nahser, Charles Dwyer, Donald Bellstrom, and Phillip Stein of Chicago. Old English awards in swimming went to Joseph Stolar and John Roberts of Chicago and Lloyd Bush of Fullerton, Cal.

The championship Chicago gymnastics team was awarded six major letters and two Old English. Major awards went to Capt. George Wright, of Chicago, who won the all around title of the conference three years; Ed Nordhaus, River Forest; George Constantine, Tulsa, Okla.; Harold Murphy, Wichita, Kas., and Charles P. R. Adams and Martin J. Hanley of Chicago. Hanley, who weighs only 98 pounds, is the lightest athlete ever to win a major letter at the Midway. The minor awards went to Peter Schneider and Emory Fair of Chicago.

Three major awards were made to the fencing team, which also won the Big Ten title. The recipients are Ormand Julian of Chicago, individual winner of the saber event; Burton Young of Chicago, twice Big Ten champion in the epee, and Charles H. Lawrence, also of Chicago. An Old English grant was made to Louis Marks of Chicago.

DRAW PAIRINGS IN NATIONAL PREP TOURNEY TONIGHT

32 Teams to Start Play at Loyola Wednesday.

Pairings for the eleventh annual national Catholic interscholastic basketball tournament will be drawn tonight at Loyola university, where 32 teams will compete for the title beginning Wednesday.

For the first time in the history of the tournament a consolation bracket has been added for losers in the first round, with a number of these games scheduled for St. Ignatius gym, a short distance from Loyola.

Four More Teams Enter.

Four more schools from three states were added to the list of contestants yesterday. They were St. Benedict's of Shawnee, Okla.; St. John's Cathedral High school of Milwaukee, Wis.; Columbia academy of Dubuque, Ia.; and St. Mary's High school of Menasha, Wis.

The Milwaukee school is the city Catholic champion and is returning with practically the same team which won last year's trophy for being the best coached team in the tournament. St. Benedict's also played at Loyola last year. This season the team won the state Catholic championship.

Buffalo School Withdraws.

Canisius High school of Buffalo, N. Y., has withdrawn because of financial difficulties. Another New York team probbaly will be substituted.

Barney Ross Signs for Fight in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., March 15.—(AP)—Barney Ross, world's lightweight champion, was signed today to appear at the Olympic auditorium March 27. His opponent probably will be Bobby Pacho, El Centro, Cal., Mexican, who formerly held the state lightweight crown, or Ceferino Garcia, Filipino, at the junior welterweight limit, with the Chicago boxer putting up his synthetic title.

North Avenue Y. M. C. A. to Hold Basketball Meet

North Avenue-Larrabee Y. M. C. A.'s fourth annual open basketball tournament will begin April 11. Teams are assured of at least two games, as there will be a consolation round for the losers. Entries close April 9.

Lather or Brushless
Which for YOU?
Let's debunk the debate!
W. G. Mennen

WHICH is the better shave — Lather or Brushless? I tell you without bunk:—it depends on your individual type of beard and your type of skin.

That's why I make both—Mennen Lather Shave and Mennen Brushless Shave. Both wilt whiskers. But only your own skin can decide which is best for you.

For dry skin I recommend Mennen Brushless Shave. It's a cream—not a grease—which benefits a dry skin.

If your skin is normal, then it's a question of personal like. Either Mennen Brushless or Lather wilts whiskers!

AHA! SOX PLOT TO WALLOP CUBS COMES TO LIGHT

Boys Work on Strategy for Week-End Games.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 15.—The White Sox today worked on strategems through which they hope to keep their tremendous edge over the Cubs, come Saturday and Sunday.

Manager Lew Fonseca, heavily laden with schemes, told the lads to leave their bats in the clubhouse at today's practice, though there was no need of cooling them off after yesterday's final with the Los Angeles Angels.

The Sox, as they remind the world on occasion, have beaten the Cubs in eight of the last nine all-Chicago contests. The one Cub victory was in the first game played in Los Angeles last spring. The Sox won the other game here and the two in Chicago, and followed with four straight in last fall's city series.

Picks Sox Pitchers.

Fonseca remembers the one Cub victory just as well as he does the eight Sox wins, and since it showed his lads in very sloppy rôles he is bearing down against a possible repetition in this year's spring opener.

Manager Fonseca said tonight he would employ Heving, Pomorski, and Wyatt in Saturday's game and Earnshaw, Stine, and Jones in Sunday's encounter.

Ed Durham, who was of little use to the club during the last half of last season, but who had been counted upon heavily this year, has developed a new set of South Carolina miseries and apparently has launched another era of rest, it was reported tonight. It is thought he will be too tired to participate in either of the games against the Cubs.

Four Enough, Says Grimm.

Manager Grimm of the Cubs has made it known that he thinks he can get by with two pitchers in each of the week-end contests. Warneke, Bush, Malone, and Tinning have been designated as ready to stop the eager White Sox.

The Sox had hoped that Charley Root would start the game Saturday. It not only will be St. Patrick's day but Root's 35th birthday as well. The Sox like Charley and wanted to fire a basehit salute in his honor. Instead, however, they will probably get Warneke and Bush. Lon lost one game in the last city series while Guy dropped two of the four.

Four Due for Ax.

While Fonseca looked to the future he did not let his protégés get by without some scolding over their miserable showing in the final against the Angels. The game served to help him a bit in his ax swinging plans, however, and it is likely that about four gents will be shipped away from here by next Monday.

The big disappointment of the three game series with the Angels was the pitching of Paul Gregory. Sox officials had counted on Paul to develop into a sensation and it had been hoped that his foldup last season was only a temporary lapse. He has shown the same tendencies this spring, however, and it is probable that Paul will go away as soon as he is provided with a place to light.

Other Deals on Fire.

Mr. Comiskey will remain with the team till Sunday night. He hopes to complete a deal or two with other American league clubs before he departs for Chicago. The Red Sox and Yankees are mentioned as parties to possible transactions.

Rosenbloom Beats Smith in 10 Round Nontitle Bout

Alumni of Oxford, Cambridge Hold Dinner Tonight

Chicago alumni of Oxford and Cambridge universities will hold a dinner at a restaurant in the Straus building tonight, the eve of the annual boat race in England between the two universities.

For years similar dinners have been held in London and New York. This is the first time that one has been held in Chicago. The committee in charge of arrangements includes Gaylord Donnelley, Chauncey W. L. McKeever, John McDonough, Durand Smith, and William C. Parke.

Among the prominent Cambridge men in Chicago who are expected to attend are James H. Douglas, former assistant secretary of the treasury; Prof. Baker Brownell of Northwestern university, and Maj. Lenox R. Lohr of A Century of Progress.

The Oxford men include Gilchrist B. Stockton, former American minister to Austria; Prof. Bernadotte Schmidt of the University of Chicago; E. Lyman Jr., secretary to President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university; Ralph Hines, Henry Field, Samuel M. Rinaker, and James H. Winston.

Boston Helps Blackhawks by Defeating Rangers, 3-2

New York, March 15.—(AP)—The Boston Bruins defeated the New York Rangers, 3 to 2, tonight in their final game of the National Hocky league season.

The defeat cost the Rangers a chance to clinch second place in the league's American division, leaving them only a point ahead of the Chicago Blackhawks in the race for the runner-up berth.

Two goals by big Nels Stewart scored less than a minute apart, decided the game after the teams had battled in a 1 to 1 tie from the early part of the second period.

DETROIT, 4; CANADIENS, 1

MONTREAL, Que., March 15.—(AP)—The Montreal Canadiens dropped a 4 to 1 decision to the Detroit Red Wings tonight and thus lost a chance to clinch second place in the National Hocky league's Canadian division. The Canadiens, however, remained in a tie with the Montreal Maroons. Each has one more game on the schedule.

Laurie Aurie scored the first Detroit goal midway through the opening period. Happy Emms made it 2 to 0 in the second period and Herb Lewis added still another in the third period before the Canadiens broke through on a pass from Pete Lepine to Johnny Gagnon. Eben Goodfellow closed the scoring with Detroit's fourth goal in the last minute of play.

AMERICANS WIN, 3-2

OTTAWA, Ont., March 15.—(AP)—The New York Americans tonight handed the Ottawa Senators a 3 to 2 beating in a National Hocky league game between the two also-rans in the race for play-off positions.

Trailing 2 to 1, after Frank Finnigan had scored for the Senators in 1:07 of the third period, the Americans tied the score less than a minute later on a tally by Rabbit McVeigh and then won the game when Eddie Burke took a pass from Red Conn and scored in 6:14. Bill Brydge scored the first American goal in the opening period with Nick Wasnie tying the score for Ottawa late in the second period.

Roy Worters, star American goalie, suffered a deep cut over the left eye late in the first period when he was struck by a hocky stick and had to retire. Alex Connell, Ottawa's spare goalie, was borrowed for the remainder of the evening.

St. Cloud Upsets Baby Ruth Six in Title Play, 3 to 2

The State Teachers college hocky team of St. Cloud, Minn., scored an upset last night in the mid-western senior championships at the Coliseum by defeating the Baby Ruth Cardinals, Chicago champions, 3 to 2. The northerners played the same six men throughout the entire sixty minutes of the game. A crowd of 2,700 saw the battle.

Dick Gasperlin scored all three of the visitors' goals, one unassisted, the second on a pass from Bjork, and the third on a double pass from Bjork and Winters. Goalie Brimsek of the Teachers made 35 stops, only Samec and Arnold of the Baby Ruths being able to beat him, and then not until the third period.

Rough Evening Planned for Jim Londos

Gino Garibaldi, Italian heavyweight wrestler, believes he knows how to beat Jim Londos, title claimant. They meet in the windup wrestling bout at Chicago Stadium next Wednesday night.

Garibaldi, who recently threw Joe Savoldi, said yesterday that he plans an aggressive and rough attack to weaken Londos for his various "power holds." Garibaldi will rely on his strength and stamina in an attempt to win.

NEW RULES AIM AT MAKING POLO LESS DANGEROUS

New York, March 15.—(AP)—Three changes in the rules of polo designed to prevent injuries and discourage the rough play which marked the East-West matches at Chicago last summer were announced today by the United States Polo association.

The first decreases the distance from the goal for a free hit under penalty 2 from 40 to 30 yards, the second gives the right of way to two players trying to ride off each other on the line of the ball over any single player and the third limits to 15 minutes the time out a player may take to recuperate from an injury.

Now Anglers Get a Break in Michigan

BY BOB BECKER.

The change in Michigan's fishing laws, which extends the wall-eyed pike fishing season through the month of April in all waters except trout streams and trout lakes, should interest Illinois anglers who do not want to wait until May for their first fishing trip.

The regulation provides for the taking of wall-eyes in April, as well as perch, bluegills, and sunfish. This may be tough on the fish, but it is going to give fishermen a lot of fun in at least one part of Michigan that we know of. That is at Newaygo, on the famous Muskegon river, where wall-eyes are numerous in the deep water behind the dams and where fishermen from all over the middle west congregate to do battle with the big ones.

A Break at Last.

For many years the veteran wall-eyed pike fishermen around Newago have complained that they didn't get the breaks on the open season for pike fishing. In the past it was legal to fish for wall-eyes starting May 1. By that date, the anglers pointed out, the wall-eye run was a week or two past its peak and most of the fish had returned down stream.

But this year, with no closed season on the Muskegon in April because the river is not classed as a trout stream, the boys are looking forward to a big time. It is safe to prophesy that April this year will be a banner month on the wall-eye battle front and some big catches undoubtedly will be made on the Muskegon.

Plenty of Fish Assured.

In past years thousands of wall-eyes have been taken by dip nets when the fish reached the Newaygo dam. These were lifted over the dam and turned out in the big water. Fishermen will welcome the news that the Michigan conservation department is going to maintain this service again this year.

CHICAGO GOLDEN GLOVES FIGHTERS START WORKOUTS

Chicago's Golden Gloves boys, who will defend their intercity championship in New York March 28, went through their first day's training yesterday at the Illinois Athletic club. In the morning, under Coach George Young, the fighters went for a walk and run in Grant park. At 2 o'clock the boys received their training equipment and an hour later had their first session in the gymnasium.

John Logan, heavyweight alternate, is the only member of the squad of 25 boys who will be unable to make the trip to New York. Logan reported at the I. A. C. yesterday that he cannot leave his job for the ten day period which the boys will be in New York and Washington. Otis Thomas, heavyweight champion, and Max Marek, who lost to Thomas in the most thrilling battle of the finals at the Stadium last week, undoubtedly will be the Chicago representatives against New York.

Twenty-one boys now are in camp. Bud Marcy, featherweight, and Max Marek, are at Notre Dame. Peter Gregaitis, light heavyweight from Grand Rapids, Mich., is the only other absentee.

There's something uncanny about even the very best of wives that halts those speeches of protest. So we've saved you the trouble. All you have to do is clip out the following and hand it to Her with that pleading look in your faithful eyes: Dear Madam—that man, your husband, loves good coffee. Don't be tricked by the wiles of "bargain counter" coffees. Hills Bros. Coffee may cost a few cents more. Its richer flavor and strength make more satisfying cups. When you compare its actual cup for cup cost, you'll find it is more economical. Hills Bros. Coffee tastes so much better, too. Why not give your husband a real break? Please him at your next meal with fragrant, steaming Hills Bros. Coffee!

JUDGE SCHILLING TAKES HIALEAH CHARITY PURSE

9 Year Old Gelding Beats Mountain Elk.

It was Judge Schilling's second consecutive victory. Jockey Earl Porter rode the winner over the one mile course in 1:37 3-5. He paid $6.20 in the $2 straight mutuels. One length behind Judge Schilling was Mountain Elk. C. C. Smithson's One Chance finished third.

Despite threatening weather, a large crowd watched the program, which was the Miami Jockey club's annual charity day. Gov. Sholtz presented a trophy to Owner Kraft after the race. The proceeds will be donated to the Harry Anna Memorial Home for Crippled Children at Umatilla, Fla.

LUCULENT TRIUMPHS.

New Orleans, La., March 15.—[Special.]—Luculent, owned by the Starmount stable, won the feature race at the Fair Grounds today. Luculent, which paid $16.20, moved up in the stretch and won by a head from Stuart Plaid. Babeson was third. Luculent covered the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5.

North Shore Polo Lineup Is Revised

The Sixth corps area polo team, seeking a tie for first place in the Metropolitan league senior division, will encounter a revised North Shore Polo and Hunt club trio in tomorrow night's game at the 124th Field Artillery armory.

Herb Lorber, North Shore leader, who is out of the game temporarily with an injured shoulder, has drafted Bill Nicholls Jr. and Bud Nichoalds for tomorrow's game and is expected to announce the third player today.

Nicholls Rates Seven Goals.

The original North Shore team consisted of Frank Bering and Jim Hannah, in addition to Lorber. But Bering is in the West Indies, Hannah is in Florida, and Lorber suffered a broken collar bone and shoulder injuries in a bad spill during a game with the Green Bay team last month.

Nicholls, who is a seven goal man, was popular with Chicago fans during the national indoor tournament last season, when he played with the Commonwealth team of Boston. Nichoalds, who rates two goals, is a Detroit man. He is considered one of the most promising of the younger players.

Three Games Scheduled.

John C. Bowers, captain of the Chicago Riding club which will face the Milwaukee Badgers, has selected Bud Collins and Dave Silberman as his mates. Bill Wagner will return to lead the Badgers into action and his supporting cast will be chosen from among Dick Cullum, Clyde Drumble, and Walter Davidson, with Cullum certain to be in at the opening gong. The riding club threesome can go into a tie for first place in the junior division by winning.

Maroons Face Remounts.

Three games are scheduled tomorrow night. In the evening's opener, the University of Chicago, captained by Bruce Benson, will meet the South Shore Remount association led by Charlie Roovaart. The Maroon lineup will include Raymond Ickes, Roy Hepple, and Thomas Wasson.

Open Western Table Tennis Meet Tonight

The battle for the 1934 western table tennis championship will begin this evening at the La Salle hotel. Sixty-four men, 32 women, and 32 men's doubles teams are entered.

Among the state champions entered are Paul Pearson of Illinois, Batzle of Wisconsin, and Robinson of Iowa. Robinson also won the 1934 Mississippi valley championship.

Stan Schultz was the victor in the Madison [Wis.] city tournament. Ed Sirmai has been Minneapolis champion for two seasons. Steve Fligelman won the 1934 St. Paul Y. M. C. A. tournament. Robert Amaden, Quincy [Ill.] 1934 champion, is also Macomb college champion.

Other college champions are Ed Litman of the University of Minnesota, Lewis Mundo of Northwestern [McKinlock campus], and Gordon McNeil of the University of Chicago.

Among the women, Mrs. Mable Etzweiler is the Wisconsin champion and Miss Trudie Schnur the Illinois champion. Mrs. Enola Stevenson, Indiana champion, is bringing two teammates with her, Martha Olsen and Lenore Zimmer.

Chicago stars are numerous. One of the most colorful is Yoshio Fushimi, who is well known for his many exhibitions and his tendency to outwit even the strongest opposition in tournament play.

The two finalists in the men's singles and the winner of the women's singles will be the western representatives in the national tournament in New York City next month.

The opening rounds of the men's singles start at 8 p. m. this evening, followed by the women's singles.

Indiana Preps to Start State Finals Today

Indianapolis, Ind., March 15.—[Special.]—Sixteen Indiana High school basketball teams, winners at sectional and regional tournaments, will clash in the Butler university fieldhouse here tomorrow in the twenty-third annual state high school basketball championship tournament. Martinsville, 1933 champion, was eliminated in the Bloomington sectional two weeks ago.

Hammond, Indianapolis Tech, and Logansport are the three pre-tournament favorite teams.

Play will start tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock with North Judson and Logansport meeting. The 1934 champions will be decided in the title game scheduled for Saturday night.

Jasper, a school with only sixty pupils, has not been defeated in 25 games this year. It defeated Vincennes in a triple overtime game to win the regional there.

The first round pairings are North Judson vs. Logansport, Hartford City vs. Princeton, Jasper vs. North Vernon, Beaver Dam vs. Richmond, Indianapolis Tech vs. Batesville, Greencastle vs. Hammond, Lebanon vs. Brazil, and Jeffersonville vs. Wabash.

First round winners will meet Saturday morning. Saturday morning winners will meet in the semi-finals in the afternoon, and the semi-final winners will meet Saturday night at 8 o'clock for the championship.

LOYOLA SWIM SQUAD DEFEATS ARMOUR, 53 TO 27

Loyola university swimmers ended the 1934 season last night by sinking Armour Tech, 53 to 27. Brydenthal and Elwell, Loyola, established two new records in the meet. Brydenthal set a new mark of 1 minute and 15 seconds in the 100 yard breast stroke, bettering the time of Bueck of the Milwaukee State Teachers by two and two-tenths seconds.

Elwell beat his own time of 2:16.8 for the 200 yard free style, swimming the distance in 2:14.5. Eddie Ertz, captain of this year's Loyola team, was reëlected captain of the 1935 squad last night. Summaries:

GRAINS FOLLOW STOCKS, SILVER ON DOWNGRADE

Wheat Declines 1 3/8 Cents—Traders Bearish.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lower prices prevailed for grains in American markets yesterday, due to the combination of sharp breaks in stocks and silver, and steady selling of wheat futures at Winnipeg which trade reports credited to the Canadian government agency.

Bearish sentiment was strongly in the ascendancy in wheat, which broke around 1½ cents from Wednesday's finish, with the May option touching 86⅝ cents at the extreme. There was little or no rallying power shown. At no time was wheat as high as the finish of the preceding day. The close was at net losses of 1⅜ cents.

Corn received fair support as the result of the development of a little export business with the United Kingdom, but lost ¼ to ⅜ cent in sympathy with wheat. Oats dropped ⅝ to 1 cent, rye lost 1⅛ to 1¼ cents, and barley was off ¾ to 1 cent.

Grain Traders Nervous.

An undertone of pronounced uneasiness was apparent in trade gossip during the day and dry weather talk from the winter and spring wheat belts, which attracted so much attention on Tuesday, was scarcely mentioned. The statement of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau opposing proposed silver legislation started scattered liquidation in grains that continued until the close. Some stop loss orders were uncovered in wheat and oats on the way down.

According to advices from Winnipeg houses identified with the provincial wheat pools were selling May wheat in that market and it was intimated efforts were being made to get the price down so as to encourage export business. Winnipeg, however, developed resistance toward the last to the pressure and was off only ⅝ to ½ cent for the day with May closing at 67¾ cents, or 2¼ cents below the high point of the week. During the same period the nearby future in Chicago has declined 2½ cents.

Corn Sold for Export.

Liverpool closed ⅛ to ¼ cent lower, pressure of Argentine grain offsetting the effect of bullish crop comment from France and Italy.

It was reported around 25,000 bushels of American white corn was sold for export yesterday to the United Kingdom for shipment via the gulf. This was the first business reported in domestic grain in a number of weeks. However, bids from abroad at the Atlantic seaboard were said to be 2 to 3 cents a bushel above a working basis. Rotterdam was said to be inquiring for offers.

Development of a foreign demand for corn was regarded as due largely to unfavorable weather conditions in Argentina for harvesting the new crop, and small supplies of old grain. Failure of the Danubian countries to export freely has also contributed to the tight situation abroad.

Seeding of oats has started in the Springfield, Ill., territory, according to trade reports, while in eastern Kansas the work is well under way, with some of the early seeded grain up.

BUTTER AND EGG FUTURES FIRMER; POTATOES LOWER

Butter and egg futures continued firm on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday. Butter closed unchanged to ¼ cent higher, and eggs up ⅜ cents. April potatoes dropped 10 cents.

Egg trading was considerably more active. Octobers were in active demand, new buying coming out strongly. Hedging sales and profit taking also were heavy but the market closed at the day's best figures. Storage packed deliveries also showed an increased interest.

Butter news was less favorable but enough covering and new buying developed to advance the March delivery. The American association reported production 6.6 per cent greater than last year and 15 per cent greater than the previous week. Sales: Butter, 31 cars; eggs, 110 cars; potatoes, 1 car. Ordinary Buyer Sets Grain Price, Says Canadian Expert

Sanford Evans, grain expert of Winnipeg, member of the Canadian parliament and president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, yesterday told members of the Association of Grain Commission Merchants of the Chicago Board of Trade that the ordinary purchasers of grain and grain products are the "ultimate power" in grain price movements.

"There are many misconceptions of the power of market methods and operations to affect price," Mr. Evans said. "The housewives who buy a package of flour at the grocery store and a loaf of bread at the bakery, and the men who order bran and shorts for their cattle or a sack of wheat for their chickens are the ultimate power in price movements.

Supply and Demand Factors.

"If wheat does not continue to flow into ultimate consumption at a rate proportionate to the quantities available, if it is flowing too fast or too slowly, then an adjustment of price will be forced, and if central markets do not immediately adapt themselves they must later make a more abrupt and substantial correction."

Futures' trading, Mr. Evans pointed out, can be credited to the Chicago grain trade, as it was here that the practice was developed into a market system.

"With some modifications," he said, "this system has been adopted in leading grain marketing centers in other countries. The practical judgment of the business world on its usefulness is indicated by its gradual adoption also in the markets for almost all other staple commodities. The most perfect working of the system is still to be found in grain trading."

Tells Benefits of System.

Net benefits of futures' trading has been found to lie in at least three directions, according to Mr. Evans:

1. It furnishes an effective and convenient system of price insurance in the merchandising of grain.

2. It makes possible a continuous market in which cash grain can at any moment be bought or sold, and the transaction financed at prices having direct relationship to world prices.

3. Its net result, despite the temporary disturbance of which operations in the futures' markets may at times be the cause, is to give the producer a somewhat better price than he could otherwise on the average hope to secure.

FARMERS WON'T HOLD WHEAT TO FEDERAL PLANS

May Plant 3,700,000 Acres More than Sought

The AAA wheat production control plan has apparently failed by a considerable margin, according to views expressed by leading Chicago statisticians after an analysis of the government report issued yesterday giving farmers' intentions to plant spring crops.

A decrease of only 2.5 per cent in the spring wheat acreage for the crop of 1934 as compared with the harvester acreage of 1933 was shown, making the probable total for this year around 18,594,000 acres, against 19,073,000 acres the previous season. On the basis of the official estimate on the winter wheat acreage seeded of 41,000,000 acres and the probable spring wheat total of 18,594,000 acres there would be an aggregate of 59,594,000 acres.

Acreage Exceeds U. S. Plans.

Allowing for normal abandonment of winter wheat would bring the total down to 54,700,000 acres, compared with the 51,000,000 acres sought by the AAA. The supplementary campaign to induce farmers to sign up to reduce acreage further for this year's crop is now under way and may change the prospective acreage to some extent.

A total of around 92,073,000 acres of corn, or 9.9 per cent less than the 102,239,000 acres harvested last year, was suggested by the report. Owing to the hog-corn production control campaign being still unfinished the result of the latter may cause a further reduction as compared with 1933.

More Oats to be Planted.

An increase of 5.7 per cent in the 1934 oats acreage was suggested by the report, which is not an estimate, but simply gives the views of farmers as of March 1 as to what they intend to plant. Barley increased 17.6 per cent; flaxseed 21.5 per cent; potatoes, 7.2 per cent, and grain sorghums, 7.4 per cent, as compared with last year.

If farmers carry out their proposed intentions the acreage in spring grains for the 1934 harvest would compare as follows [last three ciphers omitted]:

Corn	92,073	102,239	108,668
All spring wheat	18,594	19,073	21,928

COTTON TRADE LIGHT; UNDERTONE IS STEADIER

Cotton traders and mills here and abroad are waiting more settled conditions as to congress' actions. Another factor is the uncertainty of the size of the acreage for this year's crop.

At the close yesterday futures in Chicago were unchanged to 3 points higher. New York was unchanged to 5 points higher on futures and steady on spots at 12.45 cents. New Orleans was 1 point lower to 5 higher on futures and spots up 5 points to 12.35 cents. Houston and Galveston were unchanged at 12.35 cents. Liverpool closed 2 to 4 points off. Prices:

BULLION DOLLAR FAILS TO SETTLE MONEY QUESTION

Economists See Aims Not Accomplished.

BY IVAN WRIGHT.
[Professor of Economics, University of Illinois.]

The new gold bullion dollar representing 59.06 per cent of the gold content of the old standard gold dollar, with a legal fluctuation between 50 and 60 per cent of the gold value of the old dollar, and a practical fluctuation of whatever the forces of supply and demand for dollars in foreign exchange may determine the price of the dollar to be in terms of gold, subject to the regulations of the two billion dollar stabilization fund, does not seem to have settled the money question for anybody.

PROF. IVAN WRIGHT.
[Moffett Studios.]

The Economists' National Committee on Monetary Policy, representing more than one hundred specialists in money, credit and finance, issued a report recently indicating doubts about the maximum value of the 60 cent dollar; the danger of mutilating the federal reserve system; fears of further inflation through greenbackism and silver; use to be made of the stabilization fund; the serious long time handicap of devaluation on social institutions; and raised the question about definite plans to reconstruct the money and banking system of the country.

Warns Against Inflation.

On Nov. 24 this committee issued a statement to the effect that the country was being threatened with harmful inflation and that this would work great hardship upon wage earners, beneficiaries of life insurance, bank depositors, hospitals, colleges, and in fact all endowed institutions. The statement further recommended an early return to the gold standard in coöperation with other nations.

On Dec. 28 this committee issued a further statement urging abandonment of monetary policies which were destroying public confidence in the value of the dollar, distorting the normal movement of investment funds and retarding recovery. The committee further urged abandonment of monetary experimentation and a return to the gold standard as a means of dissipating fears of inflation which were retarding recovery.

Apparently there is a large body of practical and scientific thought on the monetary question which is still unsatisfied.

Purchasing Goal Not Attained.

The aim to restore the dollar to its 1926 purchasing power is still short of this goal despite the slow and continuous rise in general prices and the cost of living. The National Industrial Conference Board finds the dollar at the end of 1933 would buy twice as much of farm products as in 1926; 30.2 per cent more cotton, 75.2 per cent more milk, 76.4 per cent more corn, 84.4 per cent more wheat, and 252 per cent more hogs. In the wholesale market the dollar would buy 41.2 per cent more but exclusive of farm products only 29 per cent more.

The question then arises what have been the benefits of devaluing the dollar? Upon examination of the trend of prices in other countries, both gold standard and non-gold standard countries, a similar rise in prices is found with the added quality of a more general uniformity than is found in the United States. As for immediate relief the value of reducing the gold content of the dollar may have accomplished little.

Long Term Benefits Uncertain.

As for long term benefits of devaluation there is still more discouragement. In the past many countries have devaluated their currencies and after slow readjustments for a long period of time prices in general have adjusted to the new gold value of the unit of currency.

The most recent large example is that of France, where the devaluation of the franc in 1927 set the new gold value of the franc at about one-fifth of the old gold value of the franc and prices have so adjusted themselves that one in France today will pay four to six francs for the same article he would have purchased for one franc before the war. A dinner in Paris that cost five francs, or the equivalent of an American dollar in 1914, would today cost about thirty francs.

A similar adjustment in purchasing power of money will come about in the United States when time has a chance to work its wonders. The serious question is will devaluation stop here with approximately a sixty cent dollar?

Sees More Harm Than Good.

Assuming that devaluation does stop here maladjustments in prices over the next few years will probably hurt more people than will be benefited. The wage earner will find prices increasing faster than his wages. The bond holder and beneficiary of insurance will find his buying power declining. Endowed institutions will be crippled by increasing costs and restricted income.

The price level of 1926 was not built on a devalued dollar. The credit inflation that took place in this country between 1925 and 1929, when bank loans and investments increased from 38 to 58 million dollars, did not increase the general level of prices. In fact, the general level of prices declined. It seems to me that the price maladjustment was not caused by defects of the money standard or the currency and therefore cannot be remedied by gold and currency operations.

In this country today there is a vast surplus of gold, currency, and credit. The real problem is to bring about such a balanced adjustment between productive and consuming forces that work can be found for some of the surplus money and credit to do.

Money Flood Continues to Swamp Banks

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Money continues to pile up in the banks, according to the weekly federal reserve figures released yesterday.

In the week ended Wednesday night federal reserve member banks in New York city alone gained 129 million dollars in demand deposits, rising to a total for such deposits of 5 billion 709 million dollars, or nearly 1 billion 200 million dollars more than a year ago. Deposits in New York banks by the federal government were unchanged and time deposits were off 4 millions.

Instead of piling up additional idle reserves with the federal reserve system as in preceding weeks, however, the New York banks in the week ended Wednesday expanded their loans and investments. Commercial loans increased only 12 millions, but loans against security collateral were up 84 millions.

In view of the fact that the stock market was comparatively inactive during the week part of this increase in collateral loans may have been accounted for by the increased trading in the bond market during the last few days. A more important factor, however, may have been the nearness of the final date for making income tax payments. Security owners at this time of the year usually increase their borrowings from brokers to get the wherewithal to pay the revenue collectors. Brokers' loans were up 79 million dollars for the week.

In addition to increasing their loans New York member banks invested an additional 36 million dollars in U. S. government bonds and bought 12 millions of other securities.

In Chicago member banks reported an increase of 42 millions in net demand deposits, no change in the amount of government deposits and a drop of only 2 millions in time deposits. Chicago banks increased their commercial loans 3 millions and added 4 millions to their loans against security collateral. At the same time, however, they showed a reduction of 5 millions in their holdings of government bonds.

The steady increase in banks' deposits in New York and Chicago has apparently not been due to any special cause. It is reported to have been general in all departments. Chicago bankers say that commercial and industrial concerns, individuals and out of town banks have all been increasing their deposits here and New York banks have had similar experience. Money has been pouring into the banks from all sections of the country.

While the member banks in New York and Chicago were expanding their outstanding credit the twelve federal reserve banks were further curtailing their credit about 13 million dollars. Holdings of bills bought in the open market dropped nine millions and bills discounted were off four millions. There was no change in holdings of government bonds by the reserve banks.

Circulation of federal reserve notes declined 13 millions and circulation of "asset" currency was off 25 millions for the week. Reserve bank holdings of gold certificates plus those due from the U. S. treasury increased 100 millions.

CHARGES FRAUD IN INVESTMENT BANKERS' CODE

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Charges that officials of the National Recovery administration and the Investment Bankers association were guilty of "deliberate fraud" upon the President were made today at a hearing on the investment bankers' code by Gene McCann, who said he was an investment banker and that he represented 2,000 small investment bankers.

McCann contended small investment bankers were not allowed a voice in preparing the code.

"The secrecy accompanying the preparation of this code," McCann said, "enabled the bankers' association to secure the President's approval before the claim of the Investment Bankers' association that they did 90 per cent of the security business of 1932 could be successfully refuted.

"I contend that this was a deliberate fraud upon the President and I ask that the chairman of this meeting report all of the facts and the responsible parties to the department of justice and that includes the responsible officials and employés of the National Recovery administration."

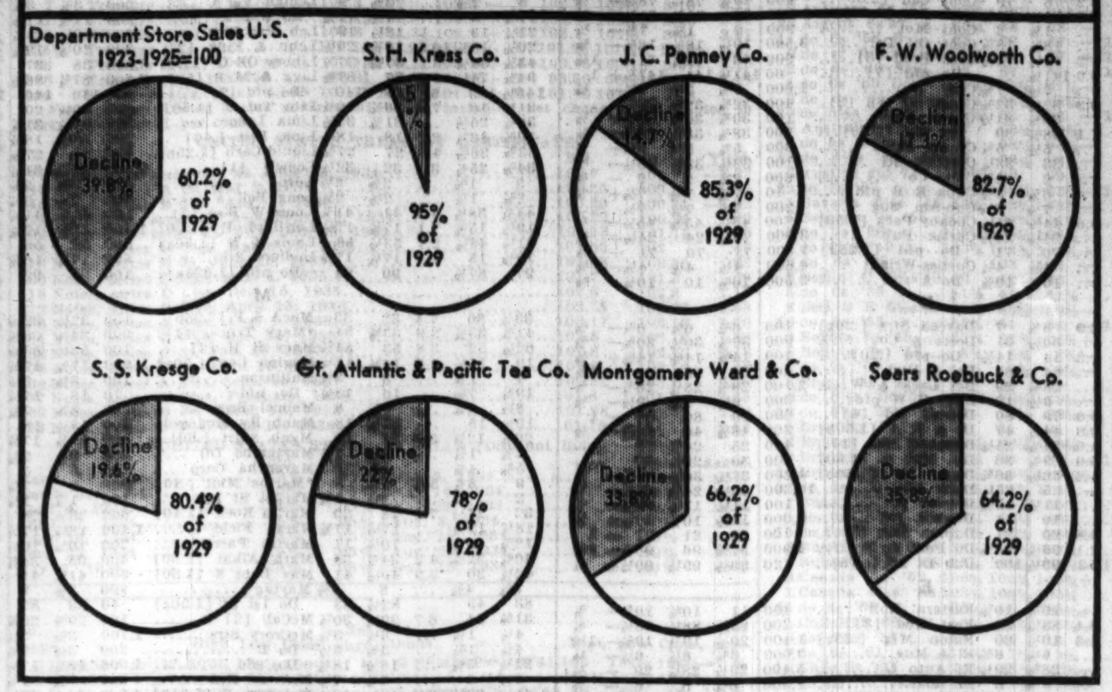
Retail Trade in the Year 1933 Compared with the Year 1929



Chicago Firms Act Cautiously on Pay Boosts

Inquiry at the executive offices of a number of leading Chicago corporations yesterday disclosed that officials are moving cautiously in taking any action toward increasing wages in response to the appeal made last week by President Roosevelt before the code authorities in Washington.

Corporation executives pointed out that the appeal was directed to the code authorities and that in such increases the industries will probably act as a unit in most cases. From some of the companies canvassed it was learned that preliminary discussion with other concerns in their industries on the subject of wages have been initiated. In each instance, however, it was stressed that the companies would not act individually.

Auto Industry Takes Lead.

The example of the automobile industry in lifting wages has brought the subject to front as the most vexatious problem now confronting industry. The auto industry's increases were announced through the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and by Henry Ford.

Whether industry can carry the load at this time of further increased labor costs is a highly controversial question judging from the comment made yesterday by corporation officials.

At the office of Sears, Roebuck & Co. it was stated that the question is being discussed with other companies in the industry. As yet no action has been taken, it was learned. Montgomery Ward & Co., the other big mail order and chain store house, reported that any action will probably be taken through the retail code authority.

Fear New Protests.

One corporation executive said that the larger companies do not feel free to raise wages arbitrarily, fearing that they will brew a storm among their smaller competitors who may not be able to stand the increased burden.

Most corporation officers declined to discuss for publication the wage question, pointing out that it was a ticklish situation which might lead to misunderstanding. The head of one company expressed the belief that the President's message was aimed particularly at some of the industries which have not been taking any real steps toward increasing wages. Wages prevailing in Chicago, he pointed out, compare favorably with those in most cities and industries here cannot be classed in the low pay group.

The most important increase announced here recently was that of the International Harvester company, which put in raises of 6½ per cent in all of its American plants. This was done before the President delivered his appeal and was part of the "made work" program which the company has followed since the depression began. The increases put the company rates back to 97 per cent of the rate in effect in 1929.

Jewel Tea February Sales 20.21% Above Year Ago

Sales of the Jewel Tea company for the four weeks ended Feb. 24, 1934, totaled $1,276,473, against $1,061,842 for the corresponding 1933 period, an increase of 20.21 per cent. Number of units in operation was 1,485, against 1,428 in 1933. During the first eight weeks of the current year total sales were $2,491,236, an increase of 15.47 per cent over sales of $2,157,392 for the first eight weeks of 1933.

Minneapolis Reserve Bank Cuts Rate to 3 Per Cent

Minneapolis, Minn., March 15.—[Special.]—The Minneapolis Federal Reserve bank today announced a cut in its discount rate to 3 per cent from 3½ per cent, effective March 16.

TAXES COLLECTED BY OIL FIRM ARE TEN TIMES ITS PROFITS

A word for the "patient stockholder," almost forgotten in the shuffle of the New Deal, was expressed by Frank Phillips, president of the Phillips Petroleum company, in making his annual report yesterday.

During the three years ended Dec. 31, 1933, while stockholders were receiving no return on their investment, he said, the company's pay rolls amounted to $42,700,000. Pay rolls reached a new peak last year when the company subscribed to the NRA petroleum code and reduced working hours by 25 per cent, maintained existing wages and added 3,000 men to the pay roll.

The company last year collected taxes for the federal and state governments totaling $14,412,433 or nearly 10 times its net profit, $1,500,695. The profit equaled 39 cents a share, against $775,766, or 19 cents a share, in 1932. The actual and dollar volume of business was the largest in the company's history.

After pointing out that the company rewarded its stockholders with a special 25 cent dividend early this year, Mr. Phillips added: "Dividends are a form of pay check to the laborer and frugal person in various vocations who have saved a bit for a rainy day. He who is participating in business by furnishing capital, which is the result of his labor and initiative, must not become the forgotten man.

"There can be no prosperity unless he who creates wealth is protected in its use. It is just as unreasonable to expect savings of labor to be used without compensation as labor itself to go unpaid. To encourage initiative, the use of money must be protected and rewarded."

IMPORTS OF GOLD ARE $11,891,000; DOLLAR STEADY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Further gold imports of $11,891,600 were reported today by the Federal Reserve bank of New York. Of this amount, $10,188,300 from England and $204,700 from India were reported as additional for Wednesday, while $934,500 from England and $564,100 from India were handled today.

These receipts brought to $572,551,000 the total of gold imported since Feb. 1, and to $549,100,000 the gain in monetary gold stocks due to imports and releases of earmarked gold in the period. Additional shipments of about $5,000,000 gold reached here today on the Aurania.

Foreign exchanges were extremely quiet, with the British pound sterling, French francs, Belgian belgas, and the Canadian dollar all unchanged from the previous day's final price and other currencies showing only minor changes, chiefly declines.

The London open market price for gold advanced 2 pence to 136 shillings 4 pence, and on a sterling price of $5.10 the dollar equivalent was $34.76 a fine ounce. Yesterday's dollar equivalent was $34.70. Gold bars to a total of £600,000 were offered in London, but there was no evidence of purchases by America.

TRINIDAD TURNS FROM STERLING TO U. S. DOLLAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 15.—The finance committee of the legislature today recommended the dollar system be substituted for sterling in governmental accounts.

The municipal and borough business accounts are already kept in dollars and cents, causing many anomalies. Magistrates' fines, stated in sterling, are paid in dollar currency notes or English shillings and pence.

Net of Swift International $3.15 a Share

Swift International, South American affiliate of Swift & Co., yesterday reported 1933 net profit of $6,136,055, or $4.08 a share, in Argentine gold. At the present rate of exchange the earnings are equivalent to $4,730,060, or $3.15 a share.

CHARLES H. SWIFT.

The balance sheet as of Dec. 31 showed current assets of $43,787,286 and current liabilities of $4,922,282 expressed in Argentine gold. Cash on hand stood at $3,952,642, marketable securities were $16,361,869, and inventories were $18,430,842.

As a result of the depreciation in the American dollar, the semi-annual dividend of $1 a share in United States funds, paid in August, aggregated only $1,923,000, against the $2,557,500 disbursed February at the same dividend rate.

An exchange reserve fund of $1,200,000 was set up by the company out of earnings. Foregoing figures are before this reserve.

President Charles H. Swift called attention to the fact that in 1930 and 1931 the value of Argentine money declined, this causing substantial increase in the Argentine value of cash and liquid assets held abroad. As this was considered temporary, part of the profit was set aside as a reserve fund. In 1933 the desertion of the gold standard by the United States resulted in a depreciation in the Argentine value of United States securities and balances held here. The depreciation was charged against the reserve loss and the additional appropriation was made to replenish the fund.

ICKES FOR SPLIT OF PIPE LINES, OIL PRODUCERS

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes indicated today the oil administration favored the move made in congress by Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho] to force the divorcing of pipe lines from companies producing and refining oil.

At the same time the secretary said he expected the government's appeal to the United States Supreme court from a federal District court decision in Texas holding the oil code unconstitutional to be filed tomorrow.

Ickes announced settlement meanwhile by the petroleum labor policy board of a controversy between the Magnolia Petroleum company at Fort Worth, Tex., and its employés over union affiliation. The employés expressed a preference that the American Federation of Labor Oil Workers' union and the International Association of Oil Field, Gas Well and Refinery Workers of Ameria speak for them rather than the company's union.

U. S. Treasury Asks Bids on 100 Million New Bills

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau today invited bids on $100,000,000 of 91 day treasury bills. Offers will be received at federal reserve banks and branches up to 2 p. m., eastern standard time, Monday, March 19. The bills will be dated March 21 and mature June 20. They will be sold to highest bidders on a discount basis. A $100,000,000 bill issue matures March 21.

VAN SWERINGENS FIGHT TO RETAIN RAIL CONTROL

Plan to Pay Interest with Stock.

New York, March 15.—The Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland today acted to retain control of their railroad empire. Asserting that its income was insufficient to meet current interest obligations, the Alleghany corporation, their holding company, announced today that it proposed a financial plan for readjustment to avoid the possibility of a forced sale of its holdings in the railroad system.

The adjustment calls for the payment of interest on $24,532,000 of 5 per cent bonds due in 1950 in a new class of preferred stock, instead of in cash. The company announced that it would borrow $550,000 to meet interest due on April 1 and that it had borrowed a like amount to meet interest due on Oct. 1, last, on the bonds.

Morgan Hears Loan Group.

J. P. Morgan & Co. head a group which holds as collateral for a $40,000,000 loan 51 per cent of the Alleghany corporation's common stock. The loans for meeting the bond interest are understood to have been furnished through Morgan and company. They will be repaid with 22,000 shares of the new preferred stock.

In the most comprehensive statement which he has issued to investors in his companies, O. P. Van Sweringen, president of the Alleghany corporation, outlined the position of the holding organization.

"Acceptance of this plan," Mr. Van Sweringen said, "will avoid default in the interest payment due on Oct. 1, 1934, and the consequent possibility of a forced sale of the collateral pledged to secure the 1950 bonds with probable sacrifice of value. Such default might also lead to a forced sale of the collateral pledged to secure the 1944 and 1949 issues at price levels which might well reduce or entirely destroy any chance of the 1950 bonds to share in any present or future excess of collateral values under those issues."

Includes Chesapeake Stock.

The collateral to which Mr. Van Sweringen refers includes 69.3 per cent of the capital stock of the Chesapeake corporatiton, which in turn holds about 49 per cent control of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway. This line in turn holds or has under option the control of the other Van Sweringen lines in the east. The Alleghany corporation also holds direct control of the Missouri Pacific.

The bond issues mentioned, in addition to the 1950 issue, comprise $31,466,000 of 5 per cent bonds due in 1944 and $21,938,000 of 5 per cent bonds due in 1949.

The company's issue of common stock would nearly be doubled under the plan. To provide for conversions, 3,850,000 more shares of common would be authorized, compared with 4,152,547 common shares now outstanding. There are 667,539 shares of the present preferred stock outstanding. The present preferred and common stockholders will meet on May 2 to vote on the plan.

Details of Exchange Plan.

Given the approval of the stockholders, the corporation would invite holders of the 1950 bonds to exchange the ten semi-annual coupons falling due from Oct. 1 to April 1, 1939, for five shares each of the new preferred. Bondholders who accept this invitation might also, up to Oct. 1, 1944, exchange their bonds for 100 shares of common. The conversion price of coupons into the new preferred stock would be equivalent to $5, and the conversion price of bonds into common would be equivalent to $10. The common closed yesterday at $3.50, and the present preferred, with warrants, at $9.25.

The prior preferred would be entitled to cumulative dividends of $2.50 annually beginning Oct. 1, compared with $5.50 on the present preferred. The new issue would have a liquidation value of $50 a share plus accumulated dividends. It would be convertible into ten shares of common stock and would be redeemable at the option of the corporation on thirty days' notice at $50 and accumulated dividends.

As a class, it would be entitled to elect two direcors. Because of dividend arrears, the present preferred issue also is entitled to elect two directors.

The corporation's gross income was $4,221,977 in 1933, against $4,402,677 in 1932. It suffered a net loss of $1,336,805 in 1933, against a net income of $215,525 in 1932.

Rails Propose Pay Truce Till April 30, 1935

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—A truce in the controversy over the level of railroad wages until April 30, 1935, was proposed by the railroads today in conference with organized railroad union representatives.

W. F. THIEHOFF.

Acceding to the wish of President Roosevelt as recently expressed in a letter sent to the representatives of the management and the employés, that agreement be reached to extend the existing wages for at least six months beyond June 30, 1934, the railroads proposed that action as to wage changes be dropped until Jan. 1, 1935, after which action may be renewed under the notices served Feb. 15 for a basic wage cut of 15 per cent, including the 10 per cent reduction now in effect.

Would Continue Present cut.

The railroads proposed that the existing arrangement under which a deduction of 10 per cent is made from the basic pay of employés be continued in effect until and including April 30, 1935. Acceptance of something along the lines of what the railroads proposed by the representatives of the employés was expected at a meeting scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Financial and traffic conditions confronting the railroads justify a 15 per cent reduction in wages, the joint meeting of the managements and employés was informed by W. F. Thiehoff, chairman of the conference committee of managers.

Despite aid from the government, banks, and the 10 per cent pay reduction, Mr. Thiehoff declared, the credit position of the railroads continues unsatisfactory, with more than 44,000 miles of railroad in the hands of receivers or trustees and $1,500,000 of railroad bonds listed on the New York Stock exchange on which interest is not being paid.

Borrowed to Meet Loans.

"Only through borrowings from the Reconstruction Finance corporation [now approximately $400,000,000], the Railroad Credit corporation and the banks have funds been made available to meet fixed charges and maturing loans," Mr. Thiehoff said.

A reduction of 15 per cent in pay would not create an unjust hardship on the employés, he declared, because the cost of living was still far below that existing at the time the basic rates were created.

President Roosevelt had appealed to the railroads and the employés to defer the controversy over wages in the interest of aiding recovery.

The 10 per cent deduction in pay for the railroad employés was first made effective in January, 1932, and has since been renewed from time to time, President Roosevelt having brought about the last renewal.

SELFRIDGE STORE IN LONDON MARKS 25TH BIRTHDAY

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, March 15.—H. Gordon Selfridge, Anglo-American merchant and formerly with Marshall Field & Co., Chicago, observed the 25th anniversary of his Oxford street store today.

A surprise party greeted Mr. Selfridge when he arrived at the store this morning. Directors and employés paid tribute to Mr. Selfridge for revolutionizing London shopping.

ACCUSE SILVER MONEY BACKERS OF SPECULATING

Treasury Head Raps Legislators' Hopes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 15.—Ripping the mask off a national silver lobby which may even include members of congress, Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. today disclosed that many advocates of silver remonetization have been discovered by the treasury to be speculating heavily in the white metal.

The treasury head also announced that he saw no need for further silver legislation at this time. He said that he is content to stand pat on existing recovery measures which, he maintained, are pulling the country out of the depression. By turning thumbs down on silver legislation, Secretary Morgenthau put at rest the last remaining inflation possibility. President Roosevelt yesterday ruled out greenback issuance for payment of government expenses or for retiring treasury debts.

Silver Advocates Deny Charge.

Secretary Morgenthau's declaration brought a sharp break in the silver market and a collapse of silver stocks. It also caused consternation on Capitol hill, where many congressional advocates of remonetization hastened to deny that they had been speculating in silver with an eye to benefiting by their own legislation.

After a telephonic protest from the Capitol, the treasury explained Secretary Morgenthau's original statement about silver advocates by saying that he had not meant to include members of congress.

Morgenthau directly charged silver mines and dealers with holding up their silver shipments to the mint because they are "gambling on the price." He pointed out that, although the treasury is offering to buy all domestic newly mined silver well above the market price, less than a million and a half ounces had been received since Dec. 21.

Silver Holders Investigated.

Asked why he has been investigating silver holdings, Secretary Morgenthau replied, "to find out if all these silver advocates were entirely disinterested. We have found some that were not disinterested." Although the secretary would reveal nothing further himself, inquiry disclosed that he has a report showing the size of all private speculative silver holdings, the identity of the holder and all of his connections, including those with silver legislation.

This report is being carefully guarded and Secretary Morgenthau said it may never be made public. Work on it is still going on. Despite official denials, some members of congress are believed to be listed.

Silver legislation was discussed this morning by Morgenthau with members of the house of representatives' coinage committee. He frowned on such moves at this time.

Morgenthau Outlines Views.

"I told them," Secretary Morgenthau said later, "that we are constantly studying silver; that we feel that if the world ratifies the London silver agreement we are going a long way on taking care of surplus silver for the next four years. I have an open mind as to what the next step should be after that.

"I showed them charts, one of which is quite interesting. It shows the wholesale prices for the world and the top is the United States. It seems

STOCKS TUMBLE ON ROOSEVELT'S BLOW TO SILVER

Legislation in Behalf of Metal Opposed.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Silver shares cracked sharply on the New York Stock exchange today with the disclosure by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that the administration is opposed to legislation in behalf of the white metal at this time. U. S. Smelting, the leader of the group, sold off about $9 a share before regaining its equilibrium and losses of 2 points or more each were suffered by American Smelting, Cerro De Pasco, and International Silver.

Stocks of various companies which derive their revenues from countries in which silver occupies an important monetary position, including American and Foreign Power and International Telephone, also came in for considerable selling, although both of those named managed to hold within a fraction of their starting levels. U. S. Smelting recovered about a point of its earlier loss on support which came its way in the late trading.

Strike Fear Hits Motors.

In addition to the silver surprise, the market had threats of a great strike in the motor industry, as voiced in the hearing before the labor board at Washington, to contend with. The motors, while not as hard hit as the metals group, were under rather steady selling from the time of the development and the close found such issues as Chrysler, General Motors, Auburn, Hudson, and Mack Truck off any where from 1 to 2 points.

Weighted down by these two groups, the rest of the market gave way gradually. Such big time trading favorites as U. S. Steel, Montgomery Ward, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, and American Can sagged as much as 3 points in some instances before bumping solid ground.

American Can dropped below 100, but recovered to that figure in a steadying wave of support orders which came to the rescue of the leaders in the last thirty minutes or so. Most of the other selling targets of the decline rebounded to close above their lows for the day.

Rail Shares Find Support.

Railroad shares were depressed with the remainder of the list, but expectations of an agreement on the 10 per cent pay cut extension proposal at the Washington conference today buoyed them when the selling became too persistent.

Isolated strong spots here and there kept the day from being a total loss from the bull viewpoint. One of these was Schenley, which emerged with a net gain of 2 points. Other alcohol shares managed to hold their own for the most part. An assortment of preferreds, including Filenes, Peoples Drug, General Railway Signal, and National Bellas Hess, moved against the tide for gains of 2 to 4 points.

Two low priced oil stocks, Producers and Refiners and Panhandle Producers and Refiners, rose fractionally on large volume. A further advance was made by McLellan Stores preferred, the best price in years being reached.

STEEL WORKERS VOTE RECALL IN REPRESENTATION

A revised plan of employés' represenation has been voted by the workers of the United States Steel corporation subsidiary plants, according to Iron Age.

The trade journal reports that the new plan, which includes a recall clause, was adopted by the workers by an overwhelming vote. The new plan replaces the one instituted last June.

Under the recall clause an employé representative may be removed by a two-thirds vote of the workers in his department or unit. Such a recall ballot would be conducted secretly. A petition signed by two-thirds of the workers in a department or unit would be necessary before such a recall election would be instituted. The clause remains in force for the duration of the plan and binds the management to accept it in perpetuity, but allows employés to terminate it by a majority vote at any annual election.

"The revised plan," the trade journal said, "was the outcome of experience under the original plan which, although producing pratifying results, disclosed certain features in its operation which both employés and management recognized as calling for correction. In the discussions which preceded the revision of the plan the employés almost invariably suggested provision of machinery for the recall of representatives and a guarantee of the permanence of the plan."

UNITED BISCUIT NET UP DESPITE TONNAGE LOSS

Although tonnage volume of United Biscuit Company of America, third largest unit in the biscuit and cracker baking industry, was smaller in 1933 than in 1932, net income was $1,014,802, or $2.03 a share, against net income of $908,357, or $1.79 a share, for 1932. Surplus for 1933 after dividends was $102,000.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets were $3,260,634 and current liabilities were $877,444. Cash and marketable securities were $600,506. Current notes payable to banks were $300,000. Funded debt during the year was reduced $160,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Strength in United States government issues featured an otherwise irregular market for bonds today. Trading in all groups was considerably less than on the previous day.

Long term treasury issues were generally higher, closing mostly 1-32 to 9-32 point above the preceding close.

Losses among the more active domestic corporation issues were relatively slight today, considering the sharp gains registered during the last few days. As it was, a sizable list of active issues showed moderate gains on the day. In general, the industrials displayed better average strength than did the rails and industrials.

Labor Unrest Noted.

The market was disturbed by various labor situations which are being investigated in the hearings at Washington, but there was no heavy liquidation.

Prime investment bonds were most active, principal recessions being recorded in the secondary issues.

The announcement of the treasury that the exchange offer of 3 per cent notes for $460,000,000 of certificates maturing today had been accepted by holders of about $455,000,000 of the issue. Surprised bankers as holders of the remaining $5,000,000 could make the exchange at a premium.

Foreign Loans Weak.

Weaknesses in leading foreign loans were generally of small consequence. Bonds of the German group continued irregularly lower in quiet dealings, Fluctuations in Dutch East Indies, United Kingdom, and French government and municipal loans were within narrow limits except in the case of the French government 7s which dropped 3⅜ points. Latin American loans tended toward slightly lower levels.

On the curb exchange, domestic bonds were irregular with the maximum losses amounting to only a point or two. Advances and declines in the foreign group were about evenly divided.

Bahia Corp.

Investors' Guide: Please give me some information on stock of Bahia. What is it selling for?—G. E.

Answer: Bahia corporation mines and markets carbon diamonds used in drills. It is a holding company whose subsidiary owns a concession in Brazil to mine along about six miles of proven district.

No earnings statement since that for the year ended June 30, 1931, is available. During that year the company lost $84,000. We find no previous earnings statement.

The nonconsolidated balance sheet as of June 30, 1933, gave little reason for optimism concerning the company's future. Current assets consisted merely of $240 receivable from a subsidiary and $432 cash. Notes payable were $19,000, while loans payable to the subsidiary, which owed the parent company $240, were $77,000. Profit and loss deficit was $583,000.

The common stock was the subject of an intensive touting program in 1931. This resulted in the removal of the stock from listing on the New York Curb exchange.

No dividends have ever been paid on the common and none on the preferred since 1929. Accumulations on the preferred aggregated $9.62½ a share at the beginning of 1934. The stock is just about a hopeless speculation. Local brokers inform us that, although they have orders to sell, they are "unable to find a buyer anywhere."

Liggett & Myers.

Investors' Guide: Please give me your opinion of Liggett & Myers bonds, 5 per cent, due 1951.—A. W. E.

Answer: Third largest domestic tobacco concern, Liggett & Myers derives about 70 per cent of revenues from cigarets, the most important brand being Chesterfield. It sells all types of tobacco products except snuff and large cigars.

Earnings have been substantial. During the last eight years fixed charges were covered at least eleven times in each year. The record for the last eleven years shows an average coverage of about twelve times a year.

In 1933, which was marked by two reductions in cigaret prices and increased labor and tobacco costs in the second half, charges were earned 12.47 times. In 1932 they were earned 14.78 times, against 14.69 times in 1931.

Current assets at the close of 1933 totaled $157,742,000 and current liabilities were $4,851,000. Funded debt, consisting of 7 per cent debentures due 1944 and 5 per cent debentures due 1951, totaled $27,799,000. Listed as assets were $5,178,000 of the company's own bonds.

Both the 5 per cent and the 7 per cent debentures are sound.

COACH COMPANY FEDERAL TAX UP 400% SINCE '23

Report Indicates Burden on Industry.

The growing burden of federal taxes on industry throughout the country was indicated yesterday in a brochure issued by the Chicago Motor Coach company. Figures in this pamphlet, which, it is believed, indicates the plight of industry in general, show that federal taxes imposed on the motor coach company increased 400 per cent between 1923 and 1933. Between 1928 and 1933, a period which included the worst part of the depression, the company's federal taxes were boosted 215 per cent.

In 1923 the company paid federal taxes of $41,833. These taxes were increased to $66,018 in 1928 and to a total of $208,824 in 1933. The increase was about 100 per cent larger than the percentage of increase in the coach company's state taxes in the same period and about 250 per cent greater than the percentage of increase in local city and county taxes.

State Taxes Rise 300 Per Cent.

State taxes increased more than 300 per cent and city and county taxes about 155 per cent in the period. Comparative state tax totals, which include the taxes of the west, south, Lincoln, and North Shore park district taxes, were $96,565 in 1923, $285,925 in 1928, and $391,696 in 1933. The park system taxes were included in this classification because either they were created by statute or because administration is by the state, as in the cases of the west and Lincoln parks. The south park board is appointed by the Circuit court judges.

City and county tax totals were $18,686 in 1923, $48,708 in 1928, and $46,678 in 1933. The drop in the city and county taxes between 1928 and 1933 resulted partly from reduction in real estate valuations and partly because of real efforts on the part of local governments and civic organizations to reduce the high cost of government.

Total Tax Up 312 Per Cent.

"It will be observed," said John A. Ritchie, president of the coach company, "that the total taxes paid in 1923 by our company amounted to $157,082; that by the end of 1928 they had increased to $400,653, and by the end of 1933 to $647,197. The total increase was 312 per cent.

"Needless to say, no industry can continue indefinitly with taxes mounting at this rate, or anything like it. This is simply a statement of fact."

In 1923 the coach company paid in taxes 7.7 per cent of every dime fare it collected in that year. In 1928 the percentage paid for taxes was 9.2 per cent of every dime, and in 1933 the percentage was 15 per cent. The increase between 1923 and 1933 was 94.8 per cent. Between 1931 and 1933 alone it was 54 per cent.

Re-elect Berghoff Officers; Stock Increase Approved

Fort Wayne, Ind., March 15.—(AP)—All officers of the Berghoff Brewing corporation were reëlected today. They are Herman J. Berghoff, chairman of the board; H. J. Bowerfind, president; James Barrett, vice president; Victor V. Miller, secretary and treasurer. An increase in authorized capital stock from 270,000 to 400,000 shares was approved.

Terminal National Bank Settles Tax on Capital

Gaylord S. Morse, president of the Terminal National bank, notified shareholders yesterday that the bank has settled with the county treasurer for the personal property tax on the bank's capital stock. The case had been contested. Settlement removes liability from the stockholders.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Raw sugar was unchanged today at 3.15c for spots, with buyers interested only in positions to suit, although a moderate amount of duty free sugars appeared available at this level. The only sale reported was 28,700 bags of Porto Rican for March shipment at the 3.15c level.

The market opened at unchanged to 1 point decline and later showed net losses of 2 to 3 points. Shorts and speculative interest bought on the decline and after the early selling subsided the market recovered nearly all the loss. Prices:

TURNOVER OF MONEY PROVES UNUSUALLY SMALL FOR MARCH 15

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Ordinarily a day marked by a large turnover in the money market, this March 15 was attended by one of the smallest movements in recent years. The principal items were treasury financing, income tax collections, government interest payments and redemptions and corporate dividends and interest.

Treasury financing was smaller than usual on this date and involved virtually no cash redemptions. The government had a maturity of $460,099,000 of nine month three-quarter of 1 per cent certificates to redeem. It recently offered to refund them into an equal amount of four year 3 per cent notes.

The treasury had interest to pay on several government bond issues, including treasury 3⅜s, treasury 3⅜s, and treasury 3s, the total amount of which will be approximately $22,000,000.

Bids for $455,175,000 Notes.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—(AP)—The treasury's $460,000,000 March 15 refunding operations were reported today by Secretary Morgenthau to have brought $455,175,500 in subscriptions.

BANKER NICHOLS URGES RETURN TO CONSTITUTION

A plea for a return to the constitution of the United States in the operation of the government was made last night by J. M. Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, in a talk before the Purchasing Agents association at the Blackstone hotel. Mr. Nichols said that the heavy burden of taxation was making it impossible for business to carry on at a profit; consequently he and other bankers were hesitant in making loans to business.

"Taxation should be levied for revenue only," Mr. Nichols said, "and not for the purpose of confiscation or so-called redistribution of wealth sponsored by a socialist communistic brain trust.

"If the national recovery administration is to stand in all its local and interstate aspects it means that the President, with the sanction of congress, may alter or amend or even ignore the constitution. This may be done whenever congress says there is an emergency.

"There is no authority in the constitution for any such doctrine. Neither the President nor congress has any lawful power to go behind the confines of that instrument. If we can set the constitution aside for one emergency we can set it aside for another. If we do this we will be on the road to anarchy."

HURLEY MACHINE BUYS PLANT OF MEADOWS MFG.

Edward N. Hurley Jr., president of the Hurley Machine company, announced last night that his company has purchased the buildings and equipment of the Meadows Manufacturing company, Blomington, Ill., which has been in receivership for two years. The sale is subject to final approval of the federal district court of southern Illinois. The Hurley company's bid was $143,000. Other bidders offered a total of $95,000 for the property in various lots.

The Meadows company formerly manufactured electrical and gasoline washing machines. The company was founded 20 years ago. The Hurley company is one of the largest washing and ironing machine makers in the country and was founded more than 25 years ago.

If carried through the Hurley company will acquire through the deal the seven principal buildings in Bloomington and the Meadows company's former factory at Pontiac, Ill. Plans for the use of the property will be made public when the court gives final approval to the deal, Mr. Hurley said.

DENIES PLAN FOR NEW MEASURE ON STOCK CONTROL

Fletcher Asserts Old Bill Will Be Modified.

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The Fletcher-Rayburn stock exchange regulation bill will not be withdrawn by the senate committee on banking and currency and a new bill, drafted under the supervision of treasury and federal reserve system officials, substituted, Senator Fletcher of Florida, chairman of the senate committee, announced tonight.

The original bill, carrying certain modifying and clarifying amendments, will be the measure that the committee will report to the senate with a recommendation that it be passed, said Senator Fletcher.

"We will take up the bill in session tomorrow morning," he added, "and we hope to report it out of committee on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. It will be the original bill with certain amendments. But in the main it will be the bill now before the committee. We will receive the suggestions of the treasury and federal reserve system and will give them careful consideration."

Drastic Provisions Modified.

The amendments will include modification of the marginal provisions, the exemption of banks and railroads from the provisions of the bill, modification of the registration and reports as to condition sections, making less stringent the over-counter sections, and probably adding two members to the federal trade commission so as to provide a separate division to administer the stock exchange law.

The marginal provisions in the amended bill are expected to provide for loans on the basis of forty per cent of the current price of the issue or 80 per cent of the price as of July 1, 1933, whichever is higher. The original provision provided that the 80 per cent alternative would be on the lowest price over the previous three years. Stock market officials complained that this would make the margin requirements very severe because of the exceedingly low levels to which prices slumped during that period. To meet this objection a fixed date was decided as the best solution of the problem.

Reserve May Control Credit.

There is also a strong movement under way to give the federal reserve board control over banking and credit features of the proposed law. Senator Fletcher said the committee will probably approve this suggestion. The suggestion has the approval of the treasury department. Experts of the treasury department and the federal reserve system were busy this afternoon working the suggestion into shape for presentation to the committee.

Secretary Morgenthau said today that the treasury department is expediting its study of the bill in the hope of having its comment ready for the committee at the earliest possible moment. He was apparently in agreement with Senator Fletcher that the suggestions to be submitted relate only to certain sections of the bill, mainly the one having to do with marginal trading.

The administration, Secretary Morgenthau said, wants stock exchange legislation at this session of congress and this was the reason given for the speeding up of treasury department study of the legislation.

GOLDBLATT BROS. SETS NEW PROFIT RECORD IN 1933

Goldblatt Brothers, Inc., operators of eight department stores in the Chicago district, established a new high record of earnings in 1933 with net profit of $1,270,835, or $5.30 a share on 242,208 shares. This was more than double 1932 earnings of $533,297, or $2.35 a share on 226,500 shares.

Net sales, excluding sales of $1,554,356 through concessions, amounted to $21,050,001 against $20,033,713 for 1932.

On Dec. 31, 1933, current assets totaled $4,662,518 and current liabilities were $2,209,156. Free cash was $209,954. There were no bank loans at the close of the year. During December, 1933, the company liquidated bank loans of $500,000 and during January, 1934, obtained loans from banks of an equal amount.

Edward Simon and J. Borden were elected vice presidents at the last meeting of the board of directors on March 10.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Minor concessions running to ⅛ cent a yard are obtainable on print cloths sold from second hands, but cottons are generally steady in a quiet trading period. Wool goods are selling moderately for fall, and small spot delivery orders are reported. Silks are selling moderately for cutting up needs. Rayon gray goods are more active for converting for dress wear. Burlaps sell in moderate quantities for future shipment. Spots are quiet.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was easy today under increased liquidation, promoted by the bearishly construed silver developments, weakness in that metal and easiness of lard. Final prices were 2 to 5 points net lower. Sales, 17 contracts. Bleachable spot, nominal; March closed 5.15c; May, 5.32c; July, 5.56c; September, 5.78c; October, 5.83c.

CATTLE, LAMBS BREAK SHARPLY; SUPPLIES LARGE

Recent Advances Draw Increased Runs.

Packers balked yesterday at mounting costs of cattle and lambs. The former were driven down fully 15 to 25 cents, with some steers showing as much as 50 cents decline compared with the high point last Tuesday. Lambs tobogganed 25 to 40 cents, closing at the bottom and back to the level at the close last week.

The recent rise in prices brought a rush of stock from the country to all leading market centers. Cattle receipts at seven markets increased 27 per cent over the preceding Thursday's supply, while lamb offerings were up 70 per cent.

Prime 1,388 to 1,389 pound beef steers topped yesterday's market at $7.25, but only a small share of the run sold at $7 or above. The bulk of the beef steers cashed within a range of $5 to $6.65, as against a bulk of $5.25 to $7.35 at the high point of the week.

Well Above Low Spot.

Current quotations still are well above the low spot of the winter, many of the prime medium and heavy steers selling $1.50 to $1.75 above the December low. Butcher stock was weak to 25 cents lower. Canners and cutters went down 10 to 15 cents. Calves held strong to higher.

The break in the market for lambs pulled top wooled stock down to $9.40, city butchers and shippers buying at this figure, while packers obtained a big share of the good grades around $9.35. Tops at the close of last week were down to $9.35, and at the high point three days ago similar kinds were sold up to $9.90, indicating how erratic the market has been. Fall shorn lambs were sold late yesterday at $7.60, off 40 cents from Wednesday's price.

Hog Market Slow.

The hog market was slow, but prices worked into a slightly higher position, both the top and average at $4.65 and $4.40 showing 5 cents advance over the previous session.

Demand was light, but the run was just a little below the limited requirements of the trade. The bulk of sales were made at steady to 10 cents higher quotations, the biggest improvement being in the better grades of light and medium weight butchers, due to the "quality buying" which has been more in evidence of late. Second grade hogs sold within a wide range of prices, the bulk of the 150 to 200 pound averages lacking quality bringing $3.50 to $4. Prime 180 to 320 pound averages reached $4.50 to $4.65. While the trade for hogs has been less erratic than in cattle and lambs this week, swine, too, are near the close of last week.

LARD STOCKS DECREASE; EAST BUYING FUTURES

Stocks of lard in Chicago decreased 1,211,059 pounds for the first 14 days this month and are 114,087,720 pounds. Compared with a year ago there is an increase of 7,187,000 pounds. Stocks of dry salted clear bellies are 15,443,609 pounds, compared with 16,035,000 pounds Feb. 28 and 10,026,453 pounds March 14 last year.

A moderate trade developed in lard futures with eastern interests buying. Weakness in grains and stocks and the break in silver had a depressing influence for a time.

Cash trade was moderate with regular lard $6.47½, loose $6.40, the latter off 5 cents and the former 2½ cents, while leaf lard was unchanged at $6.50. Futures of lard were 2½ to 5 cents net lower, and bellies declined 5 to 12½ cents. Cash business in sweet pickled meats was fair. Fresh pork loins were 12½ to 15 cents. Exports of lard were 161,600 pounds, and of bacon 30,500 pounds. Prices:

SILVER FUTURES

A statement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in which he opposed any action being taken by congress on silver at this time resulted in a drastic decline yesterday in the price of the metal in New York. Stop loss orders were uncovered, and at the inside figures there was a drop of nearly 2c per ounce with trading swelled to near record proportions, 628 lots or 15,700,000 ounces futures changing hands during the day. Foreign bar silver was ⅞c lower at 45⅝c, and newly mined domestic unchanged at 64½c. Net losses on futures for the day were 1.45@1.70c. March closed at 45.60c; May, 45.80c; July, 46.10c; September, 46.45@46.55c; October, 46.70c, and December at 47.10c. Final sales were around ¼c per ounce above the inside levels on the extreme decline.

ACCUSE SILVER MONEY BACKERS OF SPECULATING

as though the United States were doing a little better than any other country on world commodity prices.

"It seems to me that the administration has found a combination of circumstances which is pulling this country out of the depression. As long as the present combination works, why change it? I told them up on the hill that if we saw we were going into another nose dive then we would get busy. But as long as things are going a little bit better each week I think it is a good time to sit tight. I still have to be shown that silver is a cure-all."

Silver Prices Break.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 15.—Bulls on silver, who had been counting on Washington to "do something" for their pet metal, got a jolt from the news out of the capital today.

Silver futures broke sharply on dispatches quoting Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau as announcing that silver legislation was not deemed necessary to the recovery program at this time. In exceptionally heavy trading in the silver ring of the New York Commodity exchange options tumbled 170 to 190 points toward midday before the list steadied and rallied a little.

The extreme loss was equivalent to nearly 2 cents an ounce. May silver, which had risen earlier in the week to above 47 cents an ounce, broke to around 45.75 cents. Spot silver, based on the world price, receded ⅞ of a cent an ounce to 45⅝ cents an ounce.

Expected Favorable Action.

Rumors have been recurrent for months that some kind of silver legislation would be jammed through at this session of congress with the support of the administration forces. The silver bloc has been extremely active throughout the last two years in the belief that depression conditions favored their cause, and they did get a concession from the administration when the government offered to buy the domestic output of newly mined silver at 64½ cents an ounce.

Up to the closing hour about 15,000,000 ounces of silver were traded in the futures market and the ring buzzed with excitement as the speculators seized upon Secretary Morgenthau's comments to press the selling side.

COMMODITY PRICES CONTINUE ADVANCE; BEST SINCE APRIL, '31

Washington, D. C., March 15.—The upward movement of commodity prices was continued last week, advancing three-tenths of 1 per cent, the labor department announced today. The prices at the end of last week were 73.8 per cent of the 1926 average of 100, as compared with 73.6 per cent the previous week.

The index last week was the highest since April, 1931, when it was 74.8 per cent. The advance was due largely to the continued rise in foods and metals and metal products. As compared with the low point of 1933 in the week ending March 4, when the index was 59.6, prices were up nearly 24 per cent. The index was 22½ per cent higher than for the corresponding week of last year and 11 per cent above the week of March 12, 1932, when the general average was 66.5 per cent of the 1926 prices.

The general average was 3 per cent above the high point reached Nov. 18, 1933, when the index stood at 71.7. They were 4.2 per cent above the first week of the present year and within 22½ per cent of the average for the year 1929.

Of ten major groups of items covered by the bureau, five showed an increase and four a decrease, with the farm products group showing no change from the level of the week before.

HOUSEHOLD'S LOW RATE POLICY
HAS SAVED Chicago Borrowers HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS
For over 50 years we have given our customers a square deal. We were the first to reduce our charges below the legal maximum and we intend to continue lending money to worthy people at the lowest possible rate and to give them fair, courteous, businesslike treatment.
Here are the rates in both percentage and dollars and cents.
The charge for a Household Loan of $300 is 2½% per month on the unpaid balance throughout the life of the loan. Rate on loans less than $300 is 3½% a month on that part of a loan over $100 plus 2½% a month on the first $100. All charges figured on unpaid balances only.
Average Monthly Costs if Paid in Equal Monthly Installments.

Amount of Loan.	Monthly Rate.	Repaid in 3 mos.	Repaid in 12 mos.	Repaid in 20 mos.

SOUTH PARK COMMISSIONERS, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS.
Sealed proposals will be received by the South Park Commissioners until 12:00 o'clock noon March 30, 1934, for furnishing and delivering Bathing Trunks to Washington Park Laundry, Chicago, Ill., in accordance with specifications therefor on file in the office of the Chief Engineer of the South Park Commissioners, located at 57th-st. and Cottage Grove-av.
Copies of specifications and bidding forms may be obtained from the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners at the above named address by each prospective bidder upon application.
Each proposal must be placed in the envelope accompanying the specifications, which will be marked "Proposal for furnishing and delivering bathing trunks" sealed and delivered to the Secretary of the South Park Commissioners, before the time limit stated above.
Only bids from those of record in the office of the Commissioners as having received specifications will be considered.
A deposit to the amount of five per cent [5%] of the aggregate amount of the highest proposal named in the bid, either in currency or certified check payable to the order of the South Park Commissioners, must accompany each proposal as a guarantee of the good faith of the bidder.
The successful bidder will be required to enter into a contract and give a surety bond of twenty-five per cent [25%] of the amount of the contract.
The South Park Commissioners reserve the right to reject any or all proposals.
M. E. CONNELLY, Secretary, South Park Commissioners.
